ASSEMBLY ENDS SESSION; VOTES $1,143,000,000 RECORD BUDGET

This Is $15,000,000 Less Than Governor Sought, $90,000,000 More Than Current State Spending.

By HERBERT A. TRASK
State Political Correspondent of the Post-Dispatch.

JEFFERSON CITY, June 1—The Missouri Legislature approved a record state budget of $1,143,000,000 last night and ended its 1959 session.

The budget total was about $15,000,000 less than the amount Gov. James T. Blair had sought to operate the state government for the two-year period beginning July 1.

The total approved was about $90,000,000 more than the budget authorized for the current two-year period, in which state costs went above one billion dollars for the first time.

Gov. Blair said today it was "too early" for him to comment on the state's financial situation under the new budget. He said he would first have to go over the appropriations bills and evaluate "the whole situation" before commenting.

A Few Accomplishments.

The Legislature, Missouri's Seventieth General Assembly, set one other record in closing a five-month session that was characterized by both failures and a few accomplishments. The Senate and House managed to adjourn before the mandatory deadline last midnight.

It marked the first time since the May 31 midnight deadline was established in 1953 that the two chambers were able to finish their business before the clock halted them.

The closing session was a dull and listless finish to a record written by the Legislature but dictated for the most part by professional lobbyists and special interest groups, instead of by Gov. Blair. Blair's ambitious legislative program was largely ignored.

Tax Proposals.

Several of the Governor's major tax proposals were defeated, including bills that would have raised state taxes on gasoline, cigarettes, liquor, beer and wine.

Blair and the State Highway Commission sought to have the gasoline tax increased from 3 to 5 cents a gallon to finance a 20-year highway expansion program.

Blair's bill to increase the cigarette and liquor taxes by $8,000,000 a year were passed by the House but tabled in the Senate Ways and Means Committee.

Another bill that would have yielded an estimated $26,000,000 a year through an increase in the state sales tax, from 2 per cent to 2½ per cent, also was killed.

The Assembly enacted about 350 of the 1000 bills and proposed constitutional amendments introduced in the session. But it approved only 16 of the 51 legislative proposals submitted by the Governor. Many of the administration measures that did win approval were watered down before passage.

Loss of Leadership.

One of the reasons for the Legislature's unimpressive record was a decline in Gov. Blair's leadership and influence to a greater degree than had been expected.

Only two new tax measures

310 AUTO DEATHS SET RECORD FOR TWO-DAY HOLIDAY

CHICAGO, June 1 (AP)—Deaths on the nation's highways set a record of 310 for a two-day Memorial day weekend and far exceeded the pre-holiday estimate of 260.

Other violent deaths—drownings and in miscellaneous types of accidents—also took a heavy toll. The over-all accident deaths of 460 for the 54-hour period from 6 p.m. local time Friday to midnight yesterday also topped the toll of 385 for a two-day Memorial holiday period. That mark was set in 1953, when the traffic death toll was 241, the previous high.

Missouri reported 10 traffic deaths and three drownings; Illinois nine traffic deaths and four drownings, and Arkansas seven traffic deaths and two drownings. California led the nation with 28 traffic deaths.

The highway death total also was far ahead of the 262 counted by the Associated Press in a test period survey for a non-holiday weekend of 54 hours May 15-17.

TALKING PARAKEET TELLS ALL, ADMITS 'I'M BOOZER'

'He Must Have Come From A Pub,' Says Embarrassed Finder.

SHEFFIELD, England, June 1 (UPI) — Mr. and Mrs Joe Collins are teetotalers and the parakeet they found perched on their doorstep is embarrassing them.

"I'm a boozer," the parakeet announced on introduction. "My name is Mickey Barson. Fill 'em up George."

Mrs. Collins, who is giving the parakeet water only till his owner is found, said: "He must have come from a pub."

EAGLETON FILES CANDIDACY FOR ATTY. GENERAL

Circuit Attorney Said to Have Backing of Kansas City Group in Reciprocity Deal.

Circuit Attorney Thomas F. Eagleton filed today in Jefferson City for the Democratic nomination for Attorney General of Missouri.

A group of Kansas City Democratic leaders reportedly has offered to support Eagleton for the nomination if St. Louis party leaders will back Kansas City Councilman Charles G. Shafer Jr. for the Democratic nomination for State Treasurer.

Eagleton said on May 20, however, that he was not aware of such an offer and was not acquainted with Shafer.

Eagleton Won By 74,500.

When Eagleton was elected as the chief prosecuting official of St. Louis in 1956, he was 27 years old and the youngest man ever to hold the office of circuit attorney here. His majority was more than 74,500.

One of his major tasks has been to re-organize the staff of the circuit attorney's office. He has reduced the docket from more than 700 criminal cases to less than 200.

Among the honors he has received was a "Furtherance of Justice" award from the National Association of County and Prosecuting Attorneys in San Francisco in 1957. He is currently president of the Missouri State Prosecutors Association.

State Senator George A. Spencer of Columbia, majority floor leader in the Senate, filed for the Democratic nomination for Attorney General last April 1. The incumbent, John M. Dalton of Kennett, is seeking the Democratic nomination for governor in next year's primary election.

In announcing his candidacy,

May Entered on a Hot Note But It Ended Up Real Cool

May was a month of contradiction. It was hot and cold, rainy and dry.

Record high and record low temperatures were set. The month was entered in Weather Bureau annals as a dry one since rain, although it fell on 19 of the 31 days, nevertheless failed to equal the normal amount for May.

Average temperature during the month was 69.5 degrees, which was 4.1 degrees above normal. Highest temperature was 92 degrees on the fifth. The lowest, 39 on May 15, set a record for that date.

Temperatures rose to 90 or above on four days last month. It was 91 on May 2, a record for that date.

Rainfall measured 3.56 inches, or .46 of an inch below normal. The heaviest for a 24 hour period fell May 17-18 and totaled 1.11 inches. During the same period rain up to 3.5 inches was reported in south St. Louis and the south part of the county, causing flooding of basements and some streets and intersections.

May's rainfall brought the total precipitation for the year to 12.14 inches, compared with the normal of 14.95. The month also was characterized by seven days when there were thunderstorms. There was light frost on three days.

CHURCHMEN SAY 30,000,000 HAVE BEEN MURDERED BY CHINESE REDS

Testimony of Five Is Revealed by House Group — Pattern of Torture and Mass Slaughter Alleged.

© New York Times News Service

WASHINGTON, June 1—Five Chinese religious leaders have told the House Committee on Un-American activities that the Red China and North Korean governments have resorted to torture and mass murder to wipe out Christianity in their areas.

(United Press International reported that the witnesses charged that the Chinese Communists had murdered 30,000,000 people behind the Bamboo Curtain in the last 10 years.)

Their testimony, given in private consultations March 26, was made public yesterday. Their charges alleged a brainwashing of all Christians, with torture and death as an enforcement bludgeon, into denial of a living God, into acceptance of Christ only as a "common carpenter" who was crucified because he wanted to lead "a counter-revolution." The brainwashing spelled out Christianity as "an imperialistic instrument" to "sell Chinese people into slavery."

Names of Witnesses.

The Chinese churchmen had fled their dangerous areas to tell about what they had found and gone through. They are:

The Rev. Peter Chu Pong, general secretary of the Hong Kong International Christian Leadership; the Rev. Shih-ping Wang, East Asia director of the Taiwan Baptist Evangelization Society International; the Rev. Tsin-tsai Liu, pastor of the Gospel Baptist Church in Taipei; the Rev. Samuel W. S. Cheng, superintendent of the Gospelaires Friends Mission in Taipei, and Kyung Rai Kim, who fought in the Korean war and now is chief of the religious section of the Kook Do Daily News in Seoul, South Korea.

The only churches permitted to remain open, the Chinese said, were Communist-run establishments to serve as "showcases" for visitors.

Christians, it was stated, were compelled to attend "re-education" and "self - confession" classes. When "self-confessing" classes were not successful, Liu said, according to the transcripts:

"They stop the noses of the people and pour water into their mouths. Every time a person breathes, he swallows water. After he swallows enough water his stomach swells up, and then they stand on it. Then they use 24-hour questioning. The questioning goes on, with different shifts of Communists asking the questions. Also used are threats of violence to loved ones."

Fate of Elderly Described.

By United Press International.

Wang said this is what happens to the older groups:

"All the elderly people 60 years of age and above who cannot work are put in the old people's 'happy home.' After they are placed in the homes, they are given shots . . . for their health . . . they die within two weeks."

Wang gave this description of commune family life:

"Husbands and wives may meet only once a week for two hours—they have no other contact. Because these places of meeting are few, couples must stand in line at the special rooms waiting their turn.

"The parents may see their children once a week and when they see them they cannot show affection toward their children. Names are taken away from the children and they are given numbers. There is no individual identity. . . ."

Cheng described what happened to the family of a member of the Chiense Nationalist House of Representatives.

"His family and his cousins, brothers, all relatives — altogether 180 persons—have been killed," he said.

5-DAY FORECAST: COOLER THROUGH SATURDAY; RAIN LIKELY LATE THIS WEEK

COOLER weather is expected in the St. Louis area tomorrow through Saturday, with showers Thursday through Saturday, the Weather Bureau said today in its extended forecast.

The five-day forecast: Mild with intermittent showers and thundershowers Thursday through Saturday; temperatures will average 3 to 5 degrees below normal; normal highs are in the lower 80s; normal lows in the lower 60s.

WEST PLANS NEW OFFER BASED ON PLEDGE TO HAVE EISENHOWER AT PARLEY

LONDON TIMES SAYS LLOYD WILL LEAVE FOREIGN MINISTRY POST

British Sources Deny Story, but It Is Likely to Injure His Prestige and Effectiveness at Geneva.

LONDON, June 1 (UPI)—The Times of London reported today that Selwyn Lloyd probably would be promoted out of the British Foreign Ministry if the Conservatives win the next general election. The report created consternation here and at the four-power conference in Geneva.

Informed British sources here said Prime Minister Macmillan had not discussed such a matter with Lloyd.

"You can knock that on the head," the sources said.

Macmillan was reported seriously concerned over the effect the story would have on Lloyd's prestige and effectiveness at Geneva.

In Geneva, British and other Western delegations as well as the Soviet delegation were shocked by the report. Its immediate effect on the course of negotiations there was not clear but the consensus was that, whatever the facts, Lloyd's position as a leader and mediator had been severely damaged.

Pressure of Job.

The Times, which often reflects official thinking, said Macmillan felt the pressures of the Foreign Ministry were too much for one man for too long a time and that Lloyd should be shifted before his health suffered.

Macmillan returned from his weekend home this morning and called a cabinet meeting, ostensibly to discuss Central African affairs. It appeared certain the Times article and its effect on the Western position at Geneva would be discussed.

A Foreign Office spokesman refused to make a formal statement on the Times report.

"I cannot be expected to comment on speculation about the Prime Minister's intentions," he said.

Asked about Lloyd's health, he replied that the Foreign Minister "seemed to be in excellent health when I last saw him."

Macmillan's office was believed to be in touch with Lloyd's office in Geneva.

Shock and Amazement.

British officials did not hide their shock and amazement at the report, even before there was any official reaction.

"It would have been bad enough to run it anywhere in the paper, but to have the Times editors run it as the main story on their foreign news page accentuated the impact," one official said.

"I have never seen so little to a story," said another official. "There is not one hard fact in the entire piece."

SCIENTISTS HOPE TO ORBIT RELAY BALLOON IN 1959

WASHINGTON, June 1 (AP)—Scientists hope to put a big balloon into orbit late this year and use it to relay radio signals from coast-to-coast by bouncing them off it.

A spokesman for the National Aeronautics and Space Administration said yesterday the project is being studied at Langley Research Center in Virginia.

Plans call for using a balloon 100 feet in diameter as the backboard in space for the radio signals. It would be completely uninstrumented, serving only as a solid object at which the signals can be beamed for direct relay to distant points.

The ultimate goal of the communications satellite program is to put four such balloons into orbit about 22,000 miles above the earth, at which point their movements would be the same as the earth's and they would appear to be stationary. The balloons could then be used for instantaneous radio communication between any spots on earth.

The preliminary NASA project calls for putting the balloon up only about 300 miles. No details of the launching vehicle have been disclosed.

LEGISLATORS SAID TO HAVE LOOTED HAWAII SUPPLIES

HONOLULU, June 1 (AP)—Gov. William F. Quinn urged the territorial Senate yesterday to look into reports that adjourning legislators walked off with thousands of dollars in supplies and equipment.

Unaccounted for, he said, are such items as the $2500 Senate rug and cheap ballpoint pens. All the supplies were purchased with public funds.

Some lawmakers say they did take copies of the revised laws of Hawaii, but none has attempted to explain the disappearance of a vacuum cleaner, fans, expensive desk pens, dictionaries and office supplies. Some blame the shortage on irregular buying practices by the legislative staff and lack of control over issuance of supplies.

Quinn, a former St. Louisan, issued a statement reminding the legislators they still are public officials despite the adjournment of the final regular session of a territorial legislature. He said they are obliged to account for their stewardship.

HIS AIDS COMPILE 400 EDITORIALS BACKING STRAUSS

© New York Times News Service

WASHINGTON, June 1—Aids of Lewis L. Strauss have assembled more than 400 editorials in support of his confirmation as Secretary of Commerce. The Commerce Department's print shop has been reproducing them.

The collected works have been made available on request to "newspaper men and others," according to a spokesman for the Secretary. The "others," he said, include members of Congress.

The collection of newspaper comment about a department or an official is common practice. Distribution outside the department is unusual, particularly when the collection runs to 400 pages.

USONA HOTEL TO BE REPLACED BY MOTOR HOTEL

New Structure on Kingshighway and Waterman to Cost $2,500,000.

The 57-year-old Usona Hotel, at the southwest corner of Kingshighway and Waterman boulevard, will be torn down next month to make way for a $2,500,000 motor hotel, the Post-Dispatch learned today.

Adolph H. Rosenberg, president of the Kingsman Investment Co., which bought the Usona property two years ago, said the new structure would occupy a 500-foot frontage on Waterman, including a vacant lot west of the Usona, and would extend 190 feet south on Kingshighway to the alley behind Portland place.

Plans call for the new motor hotel to have two and a half stories, with 192 rooms, a restaurant and other facilities. It will be the second such structure in the area. The Bel-Air Motor Hotel was built last year at 4634 Lindell boulevard.

The Usona, a three-story building of 75 rooms, was built in 1902-03 in anticipation of the Louisiana Purchase Exposition of 1904. It was one of the first hotels in that part of the city.

House Unit Offers Bill to Make Bills Tell What They're Saying

WASHINGTON, June 1 (AP)—Congress, as some of its members and others have suspected, may not always know what it is doing.

What amounts to at least an implied confession on this score has come from the House Judiciary Committee. It is a bill to make other bills say what they mean, or anyway to let Congressmen know what they are reading.

Bills sometimes can be pretty cryptic.

For instance, H.R. 4345 says in its entirety:

"An act to repeal Clause (9) of Subdivision A of Section 39 of the Bankruptcy Act (11 U.S.C. 76A (9)), respecting the transmission of papers by the referee to the clerk of the court.

"Be it enacted by the Senate and House of Representatives of the United States of America in Congress assembled, that Clause (9) of Subdivision A of Section 39 of the Bankruptcy Act (11 U.S.C. 67A (9)), as amended, is hereby repealed and Clause (10) of such subdivision is renumbered (9)."

(That means referees in bankruptcy would not have to transmit "forthwith" to court clerks various bonds and documents in their possession.)

What the Judiciary Committee wants to do is to change House rules to require that bills revising existing law also carry the wording of existing law, and by italics or other typographical devices show what the amendments actually would do.

RUSSIA WOULD HAVE TO DROP BERLIN THREAT IN BARTER DEAL

Presidency Is Factor in Bargaining as Herter Makes Clear Eisenhower Won't Attend Otherwise.

© New York Times News Service

GENEVA, June 1—The Western nations will move this week for a limited "barter agreement" in which the freedom of West Berlin and the person of President Eisenhower are curiously involved.

Now that the extreme bargaining positions have been laid down on both sides, the Western delegations to the foreign ministers' conference seem ready to put this basically simple proposition to the Soviet government:

"Drop your threat to West Berlin. Recognize clearly our right to be there and to move freely back and forth. If you do this, the United States will guarantee the presence of President Eisenhower at a meeting with Premier Khrushchev before the end of the summer."

Unprecedened Approach.

The involvement of the President's person in an international barter deal of this kind is undoubtedly something new in the history of the American presidency.

The curious gambit has its origins in high principle and practical bargaining considerations.

On the side of principle, Secretary of State Christian A. Herter has made it clear to Foreign Minister Andrei Gromyko that the President will not come to the conference table so long as the Soviet Union holds West Berlin under threat.

On the practical side, Western diplomats are only too aware that their bargaining power at this conference is limited. They know, however, that Khrushchev has seemed eager to meet with President Eisenhower.

Herter, British Foreign Secretary Selwyn Lloyd, French Foreign Minister Maurice Couve de Murville and West German "Adviser" Wilhelm Grewe met for an hour this morning to discuss conference strategy. Then they drove to Gromyko's villa for the first session of their fourth week here.

Informed sources said the West intended to reply at the secret session to Gromyko's Saturday attack on broadcasting and intelligence operations in West Berlin. Gromyko condemned the Radio in the American Sector (RIAS), which is beamed to East Germany.

These sources said the United States will rebuff any attempt to close down the RIAS transmitters.

West Reports 'No Progress.'

(United Press International reported that a Russian spokesman, speaking for all the foreign ministers, said after the latest session only that Berlin was discussed. He added that he thought the meeting wa "useful," but Western sources said "no progress" was achieved.)

The West German delegation issued a statement opposing any Berlin arrangement which would merely suspend the Soviet threat against West Berlin until the time of a summit conference.

The immediate task of the West, an authoritative British source said, will be to ascertain exactly what the Soviet Union wants in exchange for improvement in the Western powers' position in Berlin.

Gromyko, although voluble on the subject of alleged Western misdeeds in West Berlin, has evaded this issue. If this evasion continues, the British intend to try and draw him out by raising the question of a security zone in central Europe.

Khrushchev gave tentative approval to a British proposal along these lines in Moscow in March. Should Gromyko fail to follow his chief's lead the Western delegations will recognize Soviet intransigence on all fronts.

Impact of Lloyd Report.

Meanwhile, a report in the Times of London that Lloyd might be replaced as foreign secretary gravely disturbed Western diplomats.

The report hit here with shattering impact. Although there was little likelihood that Lloyd

THREAT TO BURY CAPITALISM AND WEST REPEATED BY KHRUSHCHEV

Soviet Premier in Albanian Speech Warns Attack on Red Bloc Would Be 'Tantamount to Suicide.'

LONDON, June 1 (AP)—Soviet Premier Khrushchev has again coupled a threat of total destruction for the West in the event of war with a prediction of capitalism's inevitable defeat.

In a speech in the Albanian town of Vlore, Khrushchev warned last night that any attack on the Soviet bloc would be "tantamount to suicide." He said that the West's "reckless" policies were hastening "the time when mankind will be able to bury capitalism deeply."

"No matter how much aging capitalism is trying to prolong its existence, it is doomed because it will be replaced by the new victorious system — Communism," Khrushchev declared.

He also promised again that Russian industrial might would eventually outstrip America's industry.

Earlier announcement was made of a joint Soviet-Albanian communique on world policy, signed in Tirana by Khrushchev and Albania's Red boss Enver Hoxha.

Reason for Visit Not Told.

The communique failed to state the reason for the Premier's visit to the tiny Adriatic country, but repeated standard Communist calls for an end to colonialism, Red China's seating in the United Nations, reduction of foreign troops in Germany, and signing of a non-aggression pact between the North Atlantic Alliance and the Communist Warsaw Pact countries.

It also urged the establishment of a central European zone free of nuclear and rocket weapons and said there were improved prospects for an end to world tensions. The latter was borne out, it said, "by the foreign ministers' conference now taking place in Geneva and by the agreement to hold summit talks to examine outstanding questions."

It added that both Albania and Russia found the most important questions now awaiting settlement "were the conclusion of a peace treaty with Germany and the abolition of the occupation regime in West Berlin."

Unusual Feature.

The communique contained one unusual feature, an expression of willingness to continue developing relations with Yugoslavia "on the basis of mutual respect, equality and non-interferences in each other's internal affairs."

The Soviet bloc and Yugoslavia have been at odds for months because of Yugoslav president Josip (Tito) Broz's insistence on a policy and brand of Communism independent of the Kremlin's dictation. Albania is Yugoslavia's neighbor on the southwest.

The communique also repeated Khrushchev's frequent warnings against the establishment of United States rocket bases in Italy and Greece. It denounced suggestions that the old Balkan pact of Yugoslavia, Turkey and Greece be revived and called for resumption of normal diplomatic relations between Greece and Albania.

Although issuance of the communique indicated the major business of Khrushchev's visit was over, the Soviet news agency Tass reported that the Premier and his defense minister Marchal Rodion Malinovsky would stay in Albania another few days.

U.S. FIRM GETS CONTRACT TO BUILD PLANT IN RUSSIA

WHITE PLAINS, N.Y., June 1 (UPI)—Von Kohorn International Corp. confirmed a report today that it has negotiated a contract to construct a multi-million-dollar synthetic fiber plant in the Soviet Union.

Ralph S. Von Kohorn, executive vice president of the design and construction firm, said his company got the contract after two months of negotiations with the Soviet Techmashimport Bureau.

The plant, which is expected to start production of 50,000,000 pounds of fiber annually late in 1960, also has been given an export license by the United States Commerce and Treasury Departments, Von Kohorn said.

Storm Center in Louisiana Legislature

SENATOR RUSSELL LONG (center, holding papers) being led back to rostrum after starting to leave joint session of Louisiana Legislature yesterday when his right to address the body was questioned. To right of Long is ROBERT ANGELLE, House Speaker.

Psychiatrist Indicates Gov. Long Won't Co-operate in Treatment

GALVESTON, Tex., June 1 (AP)—A doctor indicated today that Gov. Earl K. Long of Louisiana refuses to co-operate with hospital authorities in psychiatric treatment.

Dr. John B. Truslow, administrator of John Sealy Hospital in Galveston, said, "Every attempt is being made to achieve his co-operation with continuing studies." He would not explain further.

"Gov. Long spent a somewhat restless night," Dr. Truslow said.

An Air National Guard plane flew the Governor here from Baton Rouge, La., Saturday after Long's health broke under the strain of office. He was flown to Galveston after tantrum-like outbursts before the Louisiana Legislature.

Dr. Truslow, in a medical bulletin, said, "until his status is determined he will continue on supportive treatment." The doctor defined "supportive treatment" as keeping a patient quiet and comfortable — not treatment for a specific ailment.

The Galveston Daily News quoted an unidentified "reliable source" as saying Long had "a couple of violent spells" yesterday and is under the care of two male nurses in a private room. Members of Long's family and his physician visited him yesterday.

Dr. Truslow said "the bronchial condition is clearing up." Long had been suffering from that ailment when admitted.

United States Senator Russell Long (Dem.), Louisiana, the Governor's nephew, told Louisiana legislators last night that his uncle might be away and that Lt. Gov. Lether Frazar might be acting governor "for a considerable period of time."

Long's nephew told legislators that his uncle went to the hospital for psychiatric care because his duties as Louisiana's Governor "have been more than he could bear."

The Senator's appearance touched off turbulent reactions in the Legislature. Six representatives had opposed hearing him, and because of the friction, the Senator three times started to walk out. Each time shouted appeals and members crowding around him pulled him back to the microphone and then stood to applaud.

Senator Long told the legislators in Baton Rouge little they did not already know. Political friends, opponents and Louisiana newspapers had urged the Governor to seek rest and treatment after his sometimes incoherent outburst which lasted 90 minutes.

Opponents of Long, lord of the bayou country like his late brother, Huey P. (Kingfish) Long, before him, have pointed out that the Louisiana Constitution permits removal of a Governor if he is incapacitated by illness.

The quick, belatedly announced flight to Galveston has been called a maneuver to block Long's removal. Because Frazar already is acting Governor, Long's foes are believed to face more trouble in any attempt to oust the 63-year-old political warhorse.

At odds with the Legislature over rejection of some of his program, Long last week also said federal agents were investigating his income.

Huey Long, who gave his brother his first political job in 1927, was former Senator and Governor. Huey was assassinated in the state capitol in 1935. Russell Long is Huey's son.

In his speech to the Legislature, which ended with him ashen and shaking, the ill Governor said he would run for a fourth term. He said he planned to resign shortly before the end of his present term to make himself eligible. By Louisiana law, he could not succeed himself for the fourth term.

AIRCRAFT CARRIER PLANE CRASHES IN SEA, 3 KILLED

NORFOLK, Va., June 1 (AP)—A twin-engined plane crashed in the sea near here Saturday night, killing all three men aboard. The plane was returning to the aircraft carrier Randolph, which was taking part in anti-submarine warfare exercises.

The men were identified by the Navy as Lt. J. Rankin McGill Jr., Hamden, Conn.; Lt. Richard Edgar Maegli, Warwick, R.I.; Alfred Teed Brunke, aviation electronics technician, East Greenwich, R.I.

The crash was witnessed from the Randolph, on which King Baudouin of Belgium was observing maneuvers.

RUSSIANS HONOR AUTHOR IN U.S. FOR HER 1897 BOOK

NEW YORK, June 1 (AP)—A 95-year-old woman living quietly in Manhattan—the most celebrated American author in the Communist world — received flowers last night from the Soviet delegation to the United Nations.

Mrs. Ethel Lillian Voynich is a major literary figure in the Soviet Union because of a book she wrote more than 60 years ago. The only foreign books which outsell hers there are works by Shakespeare and H. G. Wells.

The book, published in 1897 and called "The Gadfly," is the story of an Englishman, Arthur Burton, who became a revolutionary hero in Nineteenth Century Italy fighting the Hapsburgs.

DIRKSEN THINKS STRAUSS IS IN FIGHT TO STAY

Finds No Evidence From President or Nominee That Name Will Be Withdrawn.

WASHINGTON, June 1 (UPI) — Senate Republican leader Everett M. Dirksen said after checking with the White House today that there are no signs President Eisenhower will back off in the Senate fight over the nomination of Lewis L. Strauss as Commerce secretary.

The Illinois Senator told reporters there is no evidence either from the White House or Strauss himself that the nomination may be withdrawn.

"It is my considered opinion that it won't be withdrawn . . . I have no reason to believe that he won't be confirmed," Dirksen said.

He said he recently talked with Strauss and found nothing to suggest the nominee is "withdrawing from the fight."

Dirksen also warned that a filibuster on the Strauss nomination could create a legislative logjam later in the session.

Debate on Senate confirmation of Strauss is scheduled to start Thursday.

Dirksen commented that he had taken "judicial notice" of yesterday's prediction by Senator Clinton P. Anderson (Dem.), New Mexico, that the debate would be "extended." Anderson, leading Senate opponent of Strauss, also predicted that the Senate would never confirm Strauss and said he believed the President would withdraw the nomination.

If opponents are setting up "some kind of a pattern of extended debate . . . in the nature of a filibuster," Dirksen said, they should also remember that "a filibuster has to have a terminal date."

A newsman commented that Senate Democratic leader Lyndon B. Johnson of Texas has served notice that the nomination may be laid aside for priority items. Dirksen replied that there might be "some resistance" to any such attempt.

Senator Gale McGee (Dem.), Wyoming, in a warm-up for the formal debate, accused Strauss of a "blatant attempt to hoodwink" the Senate Commerce Committee.

McGee is a member of the committee, which recommended by a 9-to-8 vote that the Senate confirm Strauss. His new charge of "perfidy" was the third made by McGee in short speeches prepared for delivery in the Senate.

Financier Armand G. Erpf advised Strauss today that he does not want to head a government transportation study because "my usefulness . . . is being impaired."

Erpf is a partner in a Wall Street brokerage house. Erpf requested that Strauss drop him from consideration in a radiogram from the French liner Liberte.

The Commerce Department denied last Thursday that Erpf had been selected to direct the study. It said, however, that he was one of "a number of transportation experts" whom Strauss had sounded out for the post.

Possible selection of Erpf was criticized in the Senate on ground he has heavy railroad interests.

Mexican Tells of Double Cross In Big Theft of Cuban Pesos

Former Secret Service Man Who Was Hired as Intermediary Describes Ruse by Robbers.

MEXICO CITY, June 1 (AP) —A former Mexican secret service agent says the theft of more than 3,000,000 Cuban pesos from an American woman here was a double cross.

The agent, Col. Cipriano Garza, made the statement to police. Col. Garza has been held for questioning in the 3,757-500-peso robbery of Mrs. Marilyn Kay Thal of Miami Beach, Fla., here Thursday night.

Mrs. Thal said she brought the 500-peso and 1000-peso notes here for her father, Sam Kay, a Miami Beach real estate operator, who received the money in the sale of a Miami Beach hotel. She said she expected to exchange it for dollars at a rate of 36 cents to the peso, or a total of $1,356,300.

Police are hunting Alfonso Arnaldo Acosta Meza, a former pilot in Fidel Castro's Cuban revolutionary forces, who is alleged to have been the thief. However he may have escaped to Cuba.

Reports also circulated that Acosta Meza had taken refuge in the Cuban embassy, and a special police guard was ordered to watch the embassy.

Col. Garza's statement said he and others, acting as intermediaries for a commission, met several times with Mrs. Thal and Acosta Meza. Acosta Meza said he would buy the pesos for a Venezuelan general living here. None of the intermediaries ever saw the general or learned his name, Garza said.

A date was finally set to complete the transaction in a quiet residential street Thursday night, the statement said. It gave this account of what happened:

Mrs. Thal, and Luis Avila Binder, son of a former governor of Puebla state, went in a rented automobile to the appointed place. Garza, A. Karl Boyeff, an associate of Mrs. Thal's father, and others followed in another car.

When the parties met, Acosta Meza had two unidentified men with him. He insisted that Mrs. Thal and Boyeff go with him to see the general and get a check for the pesos.

Mrs. Thal, Acosta Meza and Boyeff got in the back seat of Acosta Meza's car and the two unidentified men in the front. Mrs. Thal had the bag of pesos.

As the others were going back to their own car, the Acosta Meza vehicle sped ahead. A third strange car suddenly appeared and darted after it, zigzagging to prevent pursuit by Mrs. Thal's other companions. Mrs. Thal and Boyeff later were shoved out of the car and shot at.

Acosta Meza apparently got away with the pesos, although unconfirmed reports say two of his accomplices are in police custody.

Mrs. Thal, her husband Sidney and Avila Binder have been held for questioning. An injunction against their continued detention without charges was granted Saturday night, however, and it is likely they will be released soon on the condition that they remain in Mexico until the investigation is completed.

2600 CHINESE RED TROOPS REPORTED KILLED IN TIBET

TAIPEI, Formosa, June 1 (AP) — A Nationalist Chinese news agency claimed yesterday Tibetan rebels killed about 2600 Chinese Communist troops in a battle May 22 southwest of Lhasa, Tibet's capital.

There were no way of confirming the report carried by Tatao, the news agency operated by the Nationalist justice ministry, which claims underground contacts on the China mainland.

The agency said about 3200 Communist troops transferred from Szechwan province were attacked by rebel forces. Bloody fighting lasting two hours took place. All but 600 Communist troops were killed. The rest fled. The news agency made no mention of casualties among rebel forces.

SUPREME COURT REFUSES TO HEAR N.A.A.C.P. CASE

Rejects Appeal From Georgia Contempt Fine Until Judgment Is Final.

WASHINGTON, June 1 (UPI) —The Supreme Court refused today for the time being to review an appeal by the National Association for the Advancement of Colored People from a contempt fine imposed in Georgia for failure to produce records of its income and disbursements.

The court noted in a brief order that Georgia says "No fine . . . has been finally determined and assessed." Therefore, it said, the N.A.A.C.P.'s petition for review was being rejected now.

But the organization will be free to come to the high court again when the judgment below becomes final, the order said.

The court, on a 5-to-4 split, ordered the Government to reinstate with back pay an Interior Department employe who was fired from a teaching jom in the Caroline islands in 1954. The ruling involved William V. Vitarelli, now living in Erwinna, Pa.

Vitarelli was first let out by the Government as a security risk. After the Supreme Court ruled in 1956 that security firings could not apply to non-sensitive jobs, his record was cleared of adverse findings but his dismissal was reaffirmed. It was pointed out that he had no veterans' or other rights and could be fired out of hand with no reason given.

The majority opinion said that the 1956 action was filed in court for the sole purpose of wiping the security firing off the books and not as an exercise of the department's summary removal power.

In another case, the court denied the United Mine Workers a review of a $400,000 damage award won by a Tennessee coal company because of violence and other unlawful conduct in a 1948 union organization effort.

CHANGE IN STATE HIGHWAY BIDDING RULE REPORTED BEING STUDIED

House Committee Head Says Whitton Disclosed That Revision Is Possible — Had Defended Set-Up.

By EDWARD H. THORNTON
A Staff Correspondent of the Post-Dispatch.

JEFFERSON CITY, June 1—The Missouri Highway Commission is considering the possibility of changing its controversial pre-qualification rule on highway bidding, Representative A. Basey Vanlandingham (Dem.), Columbia, said today.

Vanlandingham is chairman of a special House committee which investigated bidding practice procedures followed by the highway commission.

He told the Post-Dispatch that Chief Engineer Rex M. Whitton of the highway commission appeared at an executive session of the committee last Saturday and disclosed for the first time that the commission was considering a change in the regulations.

Whitton had stoutly defended the pre-qualification rule at public hearings.

Must Have Experience.

The rule prevents any contractor from bidding on or obtaining a prime contract on any highway job of more than $250,000 unless he has previously completed a job for the department as a prime contractor on a contract for a lesser amount.

The Vanlandingham committee was established after Representative R. J. King Jr. (Rep.), Clayton, charged that the rule had resulted in 20 contractors be awarded 80 per cent of $270,670,000 in major highway contracts in Missouri. King said the rule stifled competition.

"Whitton told the committee Saturday that the commission has been studying the $250,000 pre-qualification rule for about a year to determine whether it should be maintained or changed," Vanlandingham said.

Whitton denied to the Post-Dispatch that he had specifically mentioned the pre-qualification rule to the committee. He insisted he said the commission was reviewing pre-qualification rules generally.

Asked why he had not previously disclosed that bidding practices were being reviewed by the commission, Whitton said: "I don't know."

Consulted With U.S.

The committee, in its final report filed yesterday, said it had been informed that the highway commission has been in touch with the Federal Bureau of Public Roads regarding the pre-qualification rule.

"This matter was brought to the attention of the committee too late for it to appear in testimony," the report stated.

Representative King, who sponsored the resolution which established the committee, said he got in touch with Undersecretary of Commerce Frederick M. Mueller in Washington last Tuesday or Wednesday and inquired about the Government's attitude toward such a pre-qualification rule.

"He told me on the telephone that off hand he thought such a rule would do nothing but cause a small group of operators to control the bulk of the highway work," King said.

King said he sent information about the Missouri controversy to Mueller on Wednesday and received a call from Bertram B. Tallamy, head of the Bureau of Public Roads, last Friday.

Completion Awaited.

Tallamy was quoted as saying that Mueller had turned the Missouri data over to him and that his bureau was studying it. It was estimated the federal study would be completed in 10 days or two weeks.

In its report, the committee said it had received information from 46 states and the District of Columbia about bidding practices. None had a provision comparable to the $250,000 rule in effect in Missouri, it said.

Federal aid regulations on public roads, the committee said, include a statement that "no procedures or requirements shall be approved which in the judgment of the Secretary of Commerce are designed or may operate to prevent the submission of a bid by, or award of a contract to, any responsible contractor, whether resident or nonresident of the state wherein the work is to be performed; such as laws, regulations or rules which govern the pre-qualification of contractors by which the amount of work that may be awarded to a contractor is limited otherwise than by a full and appropriate evaluation of his experience, equipment, financial resources and performance record."

Committee members doubt the advisability of retaining the pre-qualification limitation, the report added, and they have been assured that the highway commission will continue its study. The commission will report to the committee periodically, the report said.

The committee made no recommendations for legislative action, saying it would be "unwise at this time to make a definite decision as to whether or not the pre-qualification limitation should be eliminated." The investigation was not as extensive as the committee would have liked, the report said, because of limitations of time and personnel.

Attorney General John M. Dalton has been asked to advise the committee whether the regulation is legal. His office is studying the matter.

Oil Hunt in Burma.

Firemen Fight County Blaze

Firemen fighting blaze at Concord Farmers Club on Concord School road in St. Louis county.

FIRST ACCIDENT INVESTIGATED BY NEW POLICE SQUAD

A Belleville resident was booked by the St. Louis police department's new traffic investigation's squad today, its first day of operation.

Squad members, who investigated a collision in which a man was seriously hurt at Eighteenth street and Gravois avenue, said witnesses told them that a man later identified as Earl W. Stahl, a salesman, 212 South Virginia avenue, Belleville, violated an electric signal as he was driving west on Gravois.

His car struck an automobile being driven south on Eighteenth by Alfred Myers, 1313 Shenandoah avenue.

Charles Kulp, 74 years old, a cook, 1209 Mississippi avenue, who was riding with Myers, suffered a head injury and cuts on the face when his head struck the windshield, breaking the glass. Kulp was taken to City Hospital.

The specially trained members of the accident investigation squad will make on-the-spot examinations of motor vehicle accidents involving deaths or injuries, damage to city property, drunk drivers and hit-and-run drivers.

BUILDING RISE IN COUNTY UNINCORPORATED AREAS

New construction valued at $15,244,464 was authorized for unincorporated areas of St. Louis county in the first four months of 1959, Herbert G. Poertner, director of public works in the county, reported today.

He predicted that total construction for the year would exceed the 1958 total, which was $73,157,811. Poertner said the figure for the first four months of this year included $12,445,466 for new residential construction and $1,528,375 in new commercial and industrial buildings. There were 1433 construction permits issued in the period, compared with 937 for the corresponding four months last year.

The comparable 1958 figure was $13,705,800 for total new construction in the first four months, of which $8,082,332 was new residential and $4,913,631 was new commercial and industrial. The total figure for 1958 included $35,460,587 residential and $25,570,421 in commercial and industrial construction.

JOINT LABOR, MANAGEMENT BUILDING TRADE PROGRAM

A co-operative program by labor and management in the construction industry to retain for construction interests the work they have historically performed will be started here at a dinner meeting at the Chase Hotel June 9. St. Louis was selected as the first city to develop the co-operative program at the local level.

Co-chairmen announcing the meeting are G. L. Alberici, contractor, and Joseph Cousin, executive secretary of the Building Trades Council. Scheduled speakers at the dinner are Richard J. Gray, president of the Building Trades Department, AFL-CIO; James D. Marshall, executive director of the National Associated General Contractors, and Frank J. Rooney, past president of the National Associated General Conrtactors.

BLIND STUDENT TO GET DEGREE IN SOCIAL WORK

Dick C. Nooe, blind since 1953, will receive a master's degree in social work at Washington University commencement exercises June 10. Three weeks later he will go to work at Kansas State Psychiatric Hospital in Topeka.

"I was really amazed," Nooe exclaimed today at the ease with which he found a job. "I heard it was going to be plenty rough, but it took just one interview. They didn't consider my blindness a handicap."

Nooe heard about openings at the Kansas hospital through the university. He got a good recommendation from George Warren Brown School of Social Work where he has been an outstanding student since 1957. Next thing he knew, he had a job.

Blinded in fighting in Korea, Nooe, 27 years old, a former Marine, decided to take up social work after undergoing rehabilitation treatment at a Veterans Administration hospital. He earned his bachelor's degree at the University of Oregon in 1957. He is a native of Redmond, Ore., married and the father of a 14-month-old daughter. The Nooes live at 6628 Washington avenue, University City.

WINNERS IN BRIDGE PLAY

Two St. Louisans, Larry Kolker and George Rosenschein, won the southern Indiana open pair championship in the sectional bridge tournament at Evansville yesterday.

Rosenschein, president of the American Contract Bridge League of St. Louis, is a life master and winner of many tournament contests. Kolker is one of the city's best young players. They formed a partnership which chalked up the best score in two sessions to win the major event of the tournament.

2 BOYS ADMIT STARTING FIRE AT FARMERS CLUB

Print of Tennis Shoe on Storeroom Floor Leads to Arrest of Youngsters 8 and 11.

Two small boys were awaiting action by St. Louis county juvenile authorities today after admitting that they started a fire which caused extensive damage yesterday to the Concord Farmers Club building, 10140 Concord School road, in the south part of the county.

Damage was estimated at $110,000 by the club president, Rowland Wohlschlaeger, and at $35,000 by Mehlville Fire Chief Clifford Zelch. Two firemen were hurt and one was overcome by smoke in fighting the blaze.

Arrest of the boys, 8 and 11 years old, resulted from the finding of a tennis shoe print on a dirt floor of a storeroom in the large, frame structure.

Following this lead, three county policemen, Detectives David Wendel and Richard B. Seger and Sgt. William H. Gardner, began observing spectators at the fire.

They found the younger boy wearing tennis shoes and noticed that he and his companion were asking numerous questions about the blaze.

Clothing worn by the boys was similar to that described by a nearby resident who saw two youngsters in the vicinity shortly before the fire was discovered at 1:30 p.m.

Under questioning, the boys admitted they entered the building through a door secured only by a bent nail and eventually made their way to a second-story storeroom. Police quoted the boys as saying they wadded up some toilet paper and put a match to it "just to start a bonfire."

After setting fire to the paper, the youngsters fled from the building, they told police.

John L. Blankemeier, 10132 Meadowfield lane, was in his back yard when he observed smoke pouring from the roof. He called Mehlville firemen, who found the structure ablaze when they arrived.

The fire caused the roof to collapse and severly damage the interior of the structure, a landmark in the neighborhood. A small section of the building was built in the late 1800s. A larger addition was constructed in 1908.

The flames and smoke attracted a large crowd, many of them holiday tourists who were on nearby State Highway 21 (Tesson Ferry road) or Lindbergh boulevard (U.S. Highway 66).

Firemen, including units from Affton, Gardenville and Lemay, fought the flames for an hour before bringing them under control. Arson was suspected as soon as an examination of the damaged structure could be made, since it was apparent that the blaze had started in an unused storeroom.

The janitor, William H. Theiss, said he had closed the building at 10:30 a.m. yesterday after completing his cleaning duties.

The injured firemen were treated at Alexian Brothers Hospital. Linn White of the Mehlville department and Richard Pontious of Lemay suffered foot wounds when they stepped on nails. Clarence Obert of Mehlville was overcome by smoke and the department's inhalator was used to revive him.

The fire-damaged building, which is 150 feet by 100 feet, has a dance floor, barroom, small storerooms and a basement lunchroom.

It is used by the Concord Farmers Club, which has about 200 members, for its meetings and activities and, in addition, is rented for dances and wedding celebrations. Wohlschlaeger said the fire loss is partly covered by insurance.

2 ST. LOUIS AREA YOUTHS DROWN OVER HOLIDAY

St. John Student Loses Life in Gasconade—Boy, 14, Was Swimming Near Steelville.

Two St. Louis area youths drowned over the Memorial day weekend.

They were Donald Ray Baldwin, 19 years old, 9009 Bristol avenue, St. John, and Robert Edward Drennen, 14, 2305 South Eleventh street.

Baldwin, a freshman at the Missouri School of Mines and Metallurgy at Rolla, drowned Saturday evening while swimming with two classmates in the rain-swollen Gasconade river, 10 miles west of Rolla.

His companions, Ronald Williams of Overland and Gary Welch of East St. Louis, told the State Highway Patrol they were floating downstream, occasionally stopping to rest by holding onto tree limbs.

They said Baldwin grabbed a partly-submerged log and the log went under the water, pulling him with it. His body has not been recovered. He was the son of Mr. and Mrs. Ray I. Baldwin.

The Drennen youth drowned yesterday in Courtois creek near Steelville, in Crawford county. He had gone to the creek with his 8-year-old cousin, Ronnie Drennen, also of the Eleventh street address.

Ronnie Drennen said that after they had been swimming for several minutes he became aware that his cousin was missing. He began searching for him and 10 minutes later found his body under a floating log.

Robert Drennen, an eighth-grade pupil at Humboldt school, had gone with his mother, Mrs. Sadie Drennen, and other members of the family to visit relatives in Potosi over the holiday weekend.

DIES TRYING TO WARN OCCUPANTS OF FIRE

Presley Joyner, 35 years old, was burned to death yesterday when he tried to warn occupants that a dwelling at 4103 Greer avenue was on fire.

Joyner, a laborer, was passing the two-story house at 6:15 p.m. He saw smoke and told a boy to turn in an alarm. He then entered a hallway and started upstairs. His body was found on the stairs by firemen responding to the alarm.

Meanwhile, Mrs. Hasse Hagen, her daughter and two grandchildren, occupants of the second floor apartment, reached safety through a rear exit. The family of Nathan Duckett, on the first floor, was not at home.

Firemen estimated damage to the house and contents at $1650. Joyner, a Negro, lived at 4058 St. Louis avenue.

WOMAN HELD IN KILLING OF MAN WITH OWN PISTOL

Aurelius B. Parker, 27 years old, was shot and killed with his own pistol Saturday night in Grand Marais Park, south of East St. Louis.

Police arrested Miss Humoresque Burris, 30 years old, who telephoned officers after driving Parker's automobile to the home of her sister in East St. Louis. Police quoted Miss Burris as saying Parker recently had beaten her and they quarreled in the park. Parker was outside the car when he was shot in the back.

Papers carried by Parker indicated he was a former student at the University of Illinois and had a home in Memphis, Tenn., and in the 2900 block of Brady avenue, East St. Louis. He was a collector for the Internal Revenue Service in East St. Louis. Miss Burris, held for the coroner, lives at 4003 Piggott avenue, Centreville Station.

COUNTY, FESTUS YOUTHS CHARGED IN STREET BRAWL

14 Arrested in Melee That Finally Involves 250 Persons—Festus Police Get Aid.

Fourteen youths from Richmond Heights and Festus faced peace disturbance charges at Festus today as a result of a street brawl there Saturday night and early yesterday.

Chief of Police Carl Mezo of Festus said the fight began shortly before midnight and initially involved 20 or 25 Negroes. The brawl started on South Fourth street near the Douglas School.

He estimated that more than 250 persons, many of them adult, were involved before Festus police, aided by about 20 Missouri State Patrol troopers, Jefferson county deputy sheriffs and policemen from De Soto, 18 miles away, restored quiet at 4 a.m. yesterday.

Dating of Festus girls by youths from the St. Louis suburb apparently was at the bottom of the dispute, Mezo said.

He and two other officers went to the scene after someone fired a shotgun. He said he fired his revolver in the air to break up one fight. Other fights broke out, however, and police with drawn pistols kept the shouting participants apart.

Mezo said the melee between Festus and Richmond Heights youths apparently was the aftermath of an incident Friday night in a tavern outside Festus, in which one person suffered knife wounds.

Mezo said he summoned Festus Police Judge Elmo Johnson and Mayor Ed Vest to the scene. As fighting youths were taken in custody, Judge Johnson signed complaints against them, with Mayor Vest helping prepare affidavits, Mezo said. He added that investigation of the disturbance was continuing and that there probably would be more arrests.

"We intend to see to it that this kind of thing doesn't happen in Festus again," Mezo said.

Richmond Heights youths named in complaints were identified as Charles and John Roberts, George and Shelby Lightfoot, James Goliday, Fred Hinch and Wallace Hull.

Legislature

were passed at the session. The Assembly approved Gov. Blair's bill to extend Missouri's 2 per cent use tax to most goods, equipment and materials purchased outside of Missouri for use in the state.

It also passed a measure imposing a tax on flight equipment of airlines.

Dorman L. Steelman (Rep.), Salem, House minority floor leader, criticized the Democratic-controlled Legislature today for "accomplishing very little."

"The Democratic administration made the constant hue and cry for more taxes," Steelman declared in a statement. "Yet, the only revenue-raising measure of consequence to pass both houses was so very badly amended in the Senate, exempting special interest groups, that little revenue will be realized," he added.

"The way the use-tax law was amended by the Democrat Senate, and was accepted by the Democrat - controlled House, points out the inconsistency of the Democratic party when they say they are the party of 'the small people.'

"The bill, if signed by the Governor, is one in which many big businesses and special interest groups will be excluded from paying the tax. Small businessmen and the public will foot the use tax bill."

Despite the efforts of some legislators to push through progressive bills modernizing the state government and strengthening public and traffic safety, the Assembly adhered to a conservative policy.

With few notable exceptions, legislative committees permitted special interests to shape the legislation affecting those interests.

The House completed action on bills at 8:20 o'clock last night and went through the formality of adjourning at 10:26. The Senate quit at 10 o'clock without the formality of adjournment, letting the clock automatically declare it out of business at midnight.

House Total Dwindles.

In one respect, the adjournment of the House was more attrition than adjournment. After one minor problem on an appropriation bill affecting old-age pensioners had been resolved, House membership began to dwindle and there was danger that the total vote would fall below a quorum of 79.

In the course of the day, the two chambers routinely passed about 15 or 20 bills, in addition to the appropriation measures that had to be approved if the state government was to have funds with which to operate in the new biennium.

Enactment of the eight appropriation measures, six of which were major bills, and of four proposals for transferring money from present state bookkeeping accounts to others, also was pushed along in the waning hours of the session.

One major bill passed yesterday raised the maximum state old-age assistance payment by $3, to a new maximum of $65 a month, and other welfare payment maximums by $5, also to a new total of $65.

The measure also provides a program of hospitalization and medical care for old-age assistance recipients, in co-operation with the Federal Government's matching-fund program. Approval of the bill marked the first such hospitalization program undertaken by Missouri.

Disagreement Arises.

Adjournment of the Assembly would have come earlier, had not a temporary disagreement arisen over the omnibus or catch-all appropriation bill providing financing for the hospitalization program.

Regular welfare appropriation measures had included a $2,000,000 item to finance up to $100 a month the hospitalization of old-age pensioners totally disabled and bedfast in nursing homes and hospitals.

The Senate broadened the provisions of the bill, which originated in the House, to provide that the medical care benefits should be paid to eligible recipients also bedfast in homes of relatives.

To finance these additional payments, it was necessary to add another $1,000,000 to the catch-all appropriation measure, making the total cost for the hospitalization program $3,000,000. This in turn raised the total state budget to $1,143,000,000, instead of the $1,142,000,000 forecast earlier.

Another Major Bill.

A second bill of major importance approved yesterday authorized establishment of water conservancy districts.

Under the measure's provisions, residents in a drainage area can, through a public vote, set up small districts in the area for control of water, both to protect water resources and reduce flooding.

Gov. Blair visited the Senate yesterday but made no comment on the buffeting taken by his legislative program.

Blair's loss of prestige in the Legislature is typical of the record of Governors before him. Since he cannot succeed himself and had no patronage to distribute, he was in effect a "lame duck."

Blair also failed this year to conduct his own active lobbying campaign for his program, as he had done in previous sessions. In 1957, he spent much time before legislative committees and was seen frequently in the corridors, shaking hands and visiting with the legislators. His appearances were rare this year.

Interim Study Groups.

Six interim study committees were authorized before the Assembly adjourned. The committees, composed jointly of Senate and House members are to study and report to the next Assembly convening in January, 1961, on:

Financing needs of state highways, county roads and city streets.

Needs of modern business machines in state administrative offices.

Labor-industrial relations.

Feasibility of a committee to make a continuing study of state appropriations.

The state forestry program.

State insurance laws.

Move to Censure Judges.

Senator Frank X. Reller (Dem.), Wentzville, a former parole officer in St. Louis, unsuccessfully sought to censure certain Missouri judges for their alleged lobbying for a bill that granted them a $1000 annual pay increase. The bill was approved.

Reller introduced a resolution declaring that some of the judges had lobbied among the legislators "and have by inferred intimidation and subtle insinuations atempted to influence votes and obtain passage of the salary increase."

The resolution, which was not approved, would have had the Senate state that the activities of some judges were, "if not violative of the law, most certainly unethical and far below the standards of dignity and impartiality required for good judicial practices."

Some of the House and Senate members are attorneys who appear before the judges in the practice of law between legislative sessions.

Efforts to enact legislation to provide greater fire safety in public buildings and schools again failed, despite the fact that many legislators pledged to support such legislation at the start of the session.

Gov. Blair sponsored a bill to set up a state public safety and fire prevention agency. This measure was prompted by the Chicago school fire last December, in which 93 children were killed. His bill had one hearing before a Senate committee and was never acted on.

The House considered a bill to require rigid fire safety standards in all public, private and parochial schools in Missouri. However, the measure was crippled by House amendments, and the Senate refused to consider it.

Utility Rate Bill.

Also defeated was a bill, vigorously opposed by the utility lobby, which would have restored the former system of basing utility rates on original plant cost, less depreciation.

Billboard companies succeeded in killing a proposal for state regulation of outdoor advertising adjacent to state highways.

The truck lobby's bill for greatly increased legal truck weights on Missouri highways was blocked through the opposition of the Missouri railroads.

As usual, a bill calling for the registration of lobbyists was introduced but never acted on.

The Assembly failed to pass the Governor's bills to set up a point system for suspension and revocation of driver's licenses, and other proposals to promote highway safety.

It again cast aside bills to modernize Missouri's antiquated criminal code, including the Governor's bills to strengthen search and seizure powers of the State Highway Patrol and to establish an indeterminate sentencing system.

Election Law Revision.

Important election law revisions, including a bill to hold state primary elections in spring rather than in August, were junked.

Also ignored were Gov. Blair's bills for governmental improvements, as recommended by the 1955 State Reorganization (Little Hoover) Commission.

A bill to establish a withholding system for collection of state income taxes, similar to the federal system, was killed by the Senate. It would have produced an estimated $8,000,000 a year.

The measure was pushed after other tax proposals became stalled in the Legislature and because additional revenues were needed to balance the budget. It was opposed by employers who objected to the "bother" of withholding more taxes from their employes' paychecks.

Gov. Blair first opposed the bill. He withdrew his objections after the budget problem became serious but did nothing to promote the withholding legislation.

St. Louis fared well in the session, obtaining passage of a bill which cleared the way for submitting to city voters on July 16 a proposed charter amendment increasing the city earnings tax from ½ of 1 per cent to 1 per cent.

Long - sought legislation to make the Bi-State Development Agency a more effective organization was finally enacted this session, after a series of defeats in three previous Legislatures.

The Legislature passed an enabling act permitting the St. Louis Board of Aldermen to set up a retirement system for 7000 city employes who are not now covered by the police or firemen pension plans.

Other St. Louis legislation failed, including proposals to permit the city to condemn residential property for off-street parking, authorize the use of parking meter receipts for such projects, and increase the payments to the city for boarding state prisoners in the city jail and workhouse.

The city administration's two legislative lobbyists, who were active in lining up support for the earnings tax, were rarely seen after the tax bill was passed, and the other proposals were not actively pressed.

Several bills affecting St. Louis county were passed, including a measure giving the county authority to issue revenue bonds for construction of a new county courts building in Clayton.

Another bill approved would allow the county to use parking meter receipts, when it has them, to construct a parking facility beneath the courts building.

Also passed was a bill authorizing the Village of Champ, a community of 14 residents in the northern part of the county, to issue $87,000,000 in revenue bonds for construction of a huge sports arena and shopping center. Opponents charged that the project appeared to be a "financing scheme."

Other major bills passed by the Assembly would:

Permit Missouri banks and trust companies to maintain one banking facility not more than 1000 yards from their main offices.

Establish joint state licensure of medical doctors and osteopaths.

Set up a State Atomic Energy Commission to serve largely in an advisory capacity.

Permit extradition of material witnesses in criminal trials and investigations.

Revise and modernize Missouri's 80-year-old mining code.

Make the State Human Rights Commission a permanent state agency.

Increase the amount of small loans subject to 26.7 per cent interest rates from $400 to $500.

Prohibit the sale of milk and milk products below cost for the purpose of destroying competition.

The Assembly also voted to submit four constitutional amendments to Missouri voters in the 1960 general election.

One would permit legislators to fix their own pay and extend regular legislative sessions from five to six months.

Another would extend for 12 years guaranteed funds for operation of state parks. The third would give the Legislature emergency powers to provide for the continuity of state and local government in event of a disaster in Missouri resulting from an enemy attack on the United States.

A constitutional amendment designed to aid Missouri's industrial development also was approved by the Legislature. The proposal would permit municipalities—except the City of St. Louis and municipalities in St. Louis county and Jackson county—to issue revenue or general obligation bonds to buy or build plants to be leased to industrial firms.

STARKWEATHER'S APPEAL TO BE HEARD WEDNESDAY

An appeal filed here today with the United States Court of Appeals, Eighth Circuit, by Charles Starkweather, convicted killer, will be heard Wednesday in Omaha, Nebr.

A three-judge panel was named by Chief Judge Archibald K. Gardner on receipt of Starkweather's appeal from a district court ruling denying him a writ of habeas corpus.

Starkweather, 20 years old, who has admitted killing 11 persons during a four-day rampage in Nebraska in January of 1958, is scheduled to die in the electric chair Thursday in the state prison at Lincoln, Nebr.

MILK HELD INDISPENSABLE IN SPITE OF STRONTIUM-90

Milk is indispensable as a source of calcium and protein for children despite the relatively high level of radioactive strontium-90 in milk of the St. Louis area, Dr. James P. King, director of the department of pediatrics at St. Louis University, and John M. Fowler, Washington University physicist, said yesterday.

Dr. King, Fowler and John Hill, of the radio committee of the Junior Chamber of Commerce of St. Louis, were panelists on the "Wake Up St. Louis" show broadcast by Station KXOK. The program was moderated by Roger Bell of the KXOK staff. It was pointed out that wheat is another source of strontium-90 and may show higher levels of the nuclear fallout material than milk.

Fowler said the reasons for the high level of radioactive strontium in St. Louis area milk were not fully known. Two factors, it was said, are that St. Louis is in the north temperate zone where fallout is heaviest, and has a great deal of rain. He said strontium-90 levels in milk would continue to rise.

FIVE KILLED IN CRASH OF LIGHT PLANE IN TEXAS

SUGAR LAND, Tex., June 1 (AP)—Five persons were killed near Sugar Land early today in the crash of a light plane.

The plane crashed shortly after taking off from the Hull airport. It plunged to earth on the Central Prison Farm No. 3 near Sugar Land. The pilot of the plane was identified as Ralph Flores, manager of the Hull airport. The other men were Gilbert Mena, Jesus Noyola, Nazario Rodriguez and Tomas Hernandez.

John Hull, owner of the plane and operator of the airport, said the plane had been taken up without his permission.

ADLAI STEVENSON DENIES ASSESSING PARTY HOPEFULS

The New York Herald Tribune-Post-Dispatch Special Dispatch.

WASHINGTON, June 1 — A spokesman for Adlai E. Stevenson has denied a story by a New York Herald Tribune correspondent regarding Sevenson's opinion of various Democratic presidential prospects.

The spokesman quoted Stevenson, who was in Canada, as saying: "I have never discussed the relative merits of the presidential candidates with anybody at any time."

The story dealt with Stevenson's assessment of the "capabilities" of Senators Lyndon B. Johnson of Texas, John F. Kennedy of Massachusetts, Hubert H. Humphrey of Minnesota, and Stuart Symington of Missouri.

Conference

would be replaced before the Geneva conference is ended, diplomats feared the report seriously damaged Western unity and impaired Lloyd's effectiveness here.

The Times report caused a buzz of speculation among American, French, German and even Soviet delegates not only about Lloyd's own future but about the nature of the policies he has been advocating (United States officials denied that the West is prepared to make concessions as a price for a Berlin settlement without counter-concessions from the Russians, the New York Herald-Tribune News Service said.

(The American delegation clearly thought it important to knock down reports that one-sided concessions would be made to permit the West to remain in Communist-surrounded Berlin. It had officials buttonhole reporters to pass the word to them.

Words Attributed to Lloyd.

(Such reports about concessions gained impetus here Saturday after a speech by Lloyd put in the public record what the Big Four foreign ministers had been talking about in their private sessions.

(Lloyd said, in effect, that Russia obviously would not buy the Western proposal for a united city of West and East Berlin any more than the West would heed the Kremlin's demands that it evacuate West Berlin. He added:

("Then surely the sensible way to approach this matter is to say that the path along which progress should be made is to leave the present situation basically as it is and see whether or not we can improve it in certain respects."

(Lloyd then invited Gromyko to put formally before the conference Russia's complaints that West Berlin was being used as a center of anti-Communist propaganda and espionage and indicated that the Western ministers would consider these matters.

(The result was speculation that in return for a Russian reaffirmation of the rights of the United States, Britain and France to station troops in West Berlin and to supply them without interference the West would cease activities there which annoy the Russians.

(The denials today were to indicate that none of these measures would be considered without equivalent concessions by the Communist side.)

President's Position.

President Eisenhower was reported to have told Big Four statesmen he looks to a possible series of summit talks where East-West dispute can be negotiated.

Diplomatic authorities said he made it clear, however, that he feels each new step in the negotiating process must be justified by some progress being achieved in the preceding stage. The President conversed with the Big Four foreign ministers at a White House luncheon last Thursday during their short stopover for the funeral of John Foster Dulles.

As to why Khrushchev is so eager to meet the President, opinions in the Western delegations differ. Khrushchev, says one diplomat, needs a long period of peace to make his mark in history by bringing the Soviet Union abreast of the United States in industrial and economic development.

The Soviet leader has often called the President "a man of peace." If he can talk directly with the President, without too much heckling from the Eisenhow advisers, he may hope to bring about a "relaxation of tensions." Then he can safely press on with his plans for Soviet industrial expansion and improvement in the living standards of his people.

Premier's Motives Weighed.

This analysis of Khrushchev's motives is not very impressive, says a second diplomat. If he wants a relaxation of tensions, why has he created a new crisis over Berlin?

Khrushchev himself has answered that question, says No. 1. In a recent talk with a Western visitorss he is supposed to have said:

"If I get down on my knees in the village square and pray for peace, nobody will take notice. But if I jump up and down with a bomb in each hand, the whole world will come to attention."

On one point in their analyses of the Premier's motivation the two diplomats agree.

Khrushchev, they say, is undoubtedly a "status seeker." Like all the newy rich — and he is newly rich in power — he wants respectability. Like all adventurers who have seized the crown, he wants to rub shoulders with legitimacy. For his own self-esteem and for the prestige it will bring him at home and abroad he wants to sit as an equal with the President of the United States, the symbol of power and authority in the world at large.

IT'S THE 'SOVIET COLONIAL EMPIRE' TO U.S. NAVY

© New York Times News Service

WASHINGTON, June 1 — According to the Army-Navy-Air Force Journal, the Navy has handed down official instructions on how to refer to the U.S.S.R. and affiliated nations in speeches.

Instead of "Soviet Bloc," the Navy orders its men to say "Soviet colonial empire." "Communist" and "Soviet" are favored as adjectives over "Russian." It is explained that the preferred words more clearly suggest the aggressive character of the U.S.S.R.

Lloyd

tion the report had been leaked deliberately. All officials denied this.

Sir William Haley, editor of the Times, declined to discuss the story. A spokesman for him said, "I'm very sorry, but we cannot disclose the source of our story, or discuss it."

Although the report was signed "from our political correspondent," Fleet street observers noted it did not appear to have been written in the usual style of the Times political writer.

Reports from Geneva said that if the report were true it was "at any rate inconceivable until after the summit" meeting which is expected to come out of the foreign ministers' meeting. By that time the general British electons would be approaching and a change of cabinet indicated.

Chief Lieutenant.

Lloyd has been Macmillan's chief lieutenant in all preparatory stages leading to the Geneva conference. He accompanied the Prime Minister on trips to Moscow, Washington, Paris and Bonn.

He has played a primary role in the give and take of the Geneva negotiations, sometimes coming under criticism as being "too soft" toward the Russians.

A London Times report from Bonn today claimed West German Chancellor Adenauer personally raised strong objections in Washington last week to British policy "as represented by Mr. Selwyn Lloyd at Geneva."

Western delegates at Geneva were understood to feel that Macmillan may not be quite happy with the way things have been going at the foreign ministers' conference.

Another British newspaper, the Sunday Express, predicted Lloyd would be promoted to a peerage and an honors-laden post because of his successes at Geneva. A third, the News Chronicle, called him the "hit of Geneva" and an "astounding, resounding success."

Report in the Times.

"Nobody, Macmillan no doubt said (to Lloyd), can continue to carry the burden of the Foreign Office for long periods nowadays without paying the price in the undermining of his health," the Times diplomatic correspondent said.

"We may safely accept that Macmillan has lately taken Selwyn Lloyd's arm in a paternal grip, led him to one side and spoken from the heart," the newspaper said.

The Times report said that Macmillan has given Lloyd "the first unmistakable hint" that he will send him to another ministry if Macmillan is returned to power.

The newspaper did not indicatt what job Macmillan has in mind for Lloyd. It said the change "is clearly several months ahead."

The newspaper praised Lloyd's "gruelling hard work" from the time Macmillan kept him in the government as a hold-over from Sir Anthony Eden's "Suez cabinet."

"By his growing mastery of detail and practice of foreign affairs he has stayed long enough to earn a particular place in Mr. Macmillan's affections and the increasing respect of his cabinet colleagues as a whole.

"We may be sure that when the time comes for him to leave the Foreign Office the Prime Minister will see it does not mean, as once seemed likely, that his political career is at end," the Times said.

URGES NEGROES TO FREE SELVES OF PREJUDICES

ATLANTA, June 1 (UPI) — Winthrop Rockefeller, chairman of the Arkansas Industrial Development Commission, urged Negroes today to have some self-examination about racial prejudice.

"You must examine yourself to make sure that you are free of prejudices which you would criticize in others," Rockefeller told the graduating class of Spelman (Negro) College. He is the fourth generation of his family to aid the college.

Rockefeller said Negroes, particularly in the South, have an obligation to their communities to contribute to better understanding between the races.

MANY NEW YORK OFFICIALS LOSING BIG LIMOUSINES

The New York Herald Tribune-Post-Dispatch Special Dispatch.

NEW YORK, June 1—Mayor Robert F. Wagner ordered all non-elected city officials yesterday to give up their chauffeured limousines.

The city government has 45 first-class chauffeured limousines and 32 lesser chauffeured cars, assigned to individuals in a total passenger fleet of 2500 vehicles.

Only 13 elected officials will retain city limousines. They are the Mayor, the controller, the council president, the five borough presidents and the five district attorneys.

The eight members of the Board of Education and some 24 top agency heads will turn in their limousines. These 32 officials will get medium size cars, with chauffeurs, and are to share them with others.

Some 52 other chauffeured cars assigned to individuals have been, are being, or will be rounded up.

BARRACKS BUILDING PERMIT BAR SET ASIDE

The St. Louis county Board of Zoning Adjustment acted improperly in revoking 48 building permits for the Jefferson Barracks public housing project, Circuit Judge Fred E. Mueller ruled today at Clayton.

The building permits were authorized by the county zoning ordinance, and the county public works director was not in error in issuing them, Judge Mueller concluded.

An order revoking the permits was issued Feb. 18 by the Board of Zoning Adjustment, which held that the permits violated a zoning requirement that two-family units be on separate lots. Judge Mueller directed that the order of revocation be set aside.

Revocation Appellants.

The revocation had been appealed by the County Housing Authority, Public Works Director Herbert G. Poertner, Fischer & Frichtel Construction Co. and Design & Construction, Inc. The permits actually weer issued by Poertner's predecessor, William Guhmann.

There has been prolonged controversy over the public housing project, a $3,025,825 development to provide 288 low-rent apartments. This suit involved 48 two-family dwellings, half the total number of buildings in the project. The other 48 structures proposed are four-family dwellings, and they do not figure in this action.

In his study of the case, Judge Mueller stated, he considered the Legislature's purpose in authorizing creation of local housing authorities. Discussing the Housing Authorities law, he declared, "Seldom, if ever, has the Legislature indicated in such compelling language the public purpose and the urgent need for particular legislation. It is the duty of the court to give effect to that public purpose and to effectuate its realization."

Although Judge Mueller's decision constitutes a victory for the County Housing Authority, the project remains stalled. As a result of the prolonged controversy, the Public Housing Administration in Washington has cut off federal aid. Meanwhile, opponents of the project have filed petitions calling for a referendum on the Jefferson Barracks undertaking in the August 1960 primary election.

BLASTS WRECK NON-UNION MINE IN EAST TENNESSEE

CLINTON, Tenn., June 1 (AP) —"I guess they ruined me this time," said Paul B. Ross after six dynamite explosions ripped his independently-operated strip coal mine last night.

Ross, his family and his mining operation had been the target of five previous attacks including shooting ambushes, explosions and fires. No one has been injured in any of the attacks but Ross said the latest blasts extensively damaged equipment at his Double Camp Mining Co.

The explosions were the latest in a series of violent incidents reported since the start two months ago of a United Mine Workers union drive to organize non-union mines in east Tennessee. The UMW seeks a $24.25 daily wage, $2 more than provided by old union contracts. The union has denied any part in the violence. Ross is one of a group of independent operators who have refused to sign UMW contracts.

SUBWAY STRIKE CREATES HUGE PARIS TRAFFIC JAM

PARIS, June 1 (UPI)—Striking subway workers turned the center of Paris into a mammoth traffic jam today when drivers, conductors, ticket-takers and repair men of the city's system staged a 24-hour walkout to press their demands for a wage hike.

More than 85 per cent of subway trains were out of action. The resulting crush of commuters onto bus lines, taxicabs and private automobiles clogged traffic hospelessly in downtown streets.

The strike, though called by Socialist and Communist unions merely to boost rates, had political overtones. Staged exactly one year after Gen. Charles de Gaulle announced that he was ready to take the reins of power once more, it was an outright challenge to De Gaulle's declared economic policy.

CROWN PRINCE REPORTED LEADING PURGE IN YEMEN

CAIRO, June 1 (UPI) — The crown prince of Yemen has taken advantage of his father's absence from the country to conduct a sweping political purge, informed diplomatic sources reported today.

The sources said Prince Mohamed Seif Al-Islam (Sword of Islam) Al Badr is cleaning out the isolationists who have opposed bith the import of Russian technicians and Yemen's increasing exposure to the outside world. Falling before the purge are army officers, provincial governors and administrative chiefs.

The crown prince also revived the six-man representative council which had been inactive for years. Yemeni sources here suggested this was an attempt to mollify opposition to the one-man rule of the 67-year-old Imam Ahmad, who is in Rome for treatment of arthritis.

SOCIALIST GAINS FORECAST IN JAPANESE UPPER HOUSE

TOKYO, June 1 (UPI)—The left-leaning Socialists were favored today to gain ground at the expense of the pro-Western Liberal Democrats in tomorrow's House of Councillors elections.

Some political observers even foresaw the possibility that the government party—Prime Minister Nobusuke Kishi's Liberal Democrats—might lose its majority in the upper chamber of the Parliament.

Voting for half the membership of the House of Councillors will be held throughout the nation. Counting the eight Liberal Democratic seats which were vacated by deaths or resignations, the government party held 135 seats in the 250-member house before the elections, and the Socialists 80.

SAPPINGTON WOMAN HURT IN AUTO UPSET

Mrs. Ellis P. Robertson, 10781 Cathy drive, Sappington, suffered a fractured pelvis and a serious chest injury early today when the car she was driving ran off U.S. Highway 66 near Sullivan, Mo., and overturned. Sullivan is about 65 miles west of St. Louis.

Her husband was with her but was not injured.

The Highway Patrol reported that Mrs. Robertson was trying to pass another car when her wheels left the pavement, and in trying to get back she lost control of the machine and it overturned three times.

In an accident on the Daniel Boone Expressway in Ladue yesterday, two Ladue boys on a motorbike were injured. They are James D. Barnes, 15-year-old son of Mr. and Mrs. Donald L. Barnes Jr., 101 Fair Oaks drive, and Joseph S. VonKaenel, 14, son of Dr. and Mrs. Joseph E. VonKaenel, 551 Barnes road.

The motorbike was struck by an automobile driven by Mrs. Nellie Mae Harris, 4035 West Belle place, St. Louis. She and a man in the car with her escaped injury.

Mrs. Harris told St. Louis county police the motorbike was driven on to the highway in front of her machine, from a cross-over of the dividing strip. The Von Kaenel boy was driving the bike when the accident occurred, about half a mile east of the Clayton-Warson road overpass.

Mrs. Harris said she did not see the bike until it was in front of her. She swerved to the right, but her left front fender hit it and knocked it about 120 feet. The boys suffered head injuries. They were taken to St. Louis County Hospital.

Mrs. Hazel Virginia Lam, 20 years old, said to have been from St. Louis, was one of three persons killed in an auto collision yesterday near Sweet Springs, Mo., 65 miles east of Kansas City. No St. Louis address for Mrs. Lam could be found.

Robert, 4-year-old son of Mr. and Mrs. Roger Turley, 7211 Sarah street, Maplewood, died yesterday of injuries suffered last Monday when struck by an automobile in front of his home.

When the accident occurred the child had just left his father's car and started across the street in front of it. The other machine was driven by a neighbor, Robert Eliken.

WARNS CONTROL OF AIR TRAFFIC ISN'T FOOLPROOF

WASHINGTON, June 1 (UPI) —A leading research organization warned yesterday that a foolproof method of preventing air collisions still is five years away from achievement.

The Cornell-Guggenheim Aviation Safety Center, in its ninth annual survey of aviation safety projects, listed air traffic control as the most pressing problem for the third consecutive year.

It said the Federal Aviation Agency is "taking aggressive action" in this field, but added "there will be an interim period of several years, with a minimum of five, until the problems are adequately solved."

The survey cited these as major unsolved research goals in helping reduce the air collision menace:

Better altimeters (altitude measuring devices) — "The problem of altimeter accuracy is assuming vital importance. Many of the errors existing in altimeters have been reduced in the most modern systems, but serious ones remain."

Proximity Warnings.

Fast development of a proximity warning indicator—"As necessary as a stoplight or turn-signals on a car to supplement traffic control on airways or for areas where control is absent." (The FAA announced last week formation of a special Government-industry crash program to develop such a device.)

The report said the aviation industry has failed to incorporate many research developments into new transport planes.

Particularly mentioned were new achievements in reducing the possibility of fire in a crash landing, through impact-resisting fuel tanks. The report said research has shown that better protection for pasengers is available by using stronger seats, belts, doors, floors and cabin structures.

Moral Responsibility.

The FAA and the aviation industry, the report remarked, "have a grave moral responsibility to see that new designs are compatible with the best available data."

The survey said that survival of passengers depends largely on "built-in protection" because 65 to 70 per cent of accidents occur away from airports where crash crews are not on hand.

Despite the work yet to be done in air safety, the survey said, the airlines have achieved remarkable success. In 1958, it noted, United States domestic and international airlines flew 48,000,000 passengers more than 32 bilion passenger miles, with a loss of 124 lives in six fatal accidents.

That meant a rate of one fatality for every 500,000 passengers flown—a 20 per cent improvement over the 1955-57 average.

FOOTBALL PLAYER GUARDS HALT FLORIDA PANTY RAID

TALLAHASSEE, Fla., June 1 (AP)—Football players standing guard at dormitory doors halted a pantie raid expedition short of its goal on the Florida State University campus yesterday. Then hastily recruited law enforcement officers routed the "we want pants" chanters in five minutes by firing about a dozen tear gas shells.

The crowd, estimated at 2000, gathered shortly after midnight outside Jennie Murphree Hall where several hundred freshmen girls live. Capt. A. D. Casson of the Florida Highway Patrol said the crowd of students was swelled by an influx of high school boys and townspeople.

No one was injured. Police arrested two boys who resisted efforts to disperse the milling throng. They told officers they were high school students and had come out to join in the fun. Their names were withheld.

University authorities had been tipped on the raid in advance. They stationed members of the football team at all doors of the dormitory to frustrate any efforts to break into the building. "Nobody seemed to want to go up against those football players," a patrolman said.

LIBERTY (MO.) MAN WINS STATE CHECKERS TITLE

SPRINGFIELD, Mo., June 1 (AP) — Clarence Crowe of Liberty won the Missouri checkers championship yesterday.

Tied for second place were Paul H. Thompson of Berkeley, a former state champion; Ray Schooler, Ava, and Carl Brugger, Springfield.

The Class A title was won by Grady Beckham of Joplin, the 1958 state champion, and Class B went to V. Woods, Mountain Grove.

FIRE ISLAND HOTEL BURNS

BROOKHAVEN, N.Y., June 1 (AP)—Fire yesterday destroyed a $100,000 summer hotel on Fire Island owned by Peggy Fears, onetime Broadway showgirl and former St. Louisan. No one was injured.

The 24-room Fire Island Pines Hotel had opened for the season only this weekend. Volunteer firemen had to be ferried to the pencil-shaped island off the southern coast of Long Island.

Boiler Blast On Campus.

OMAHA, June 1 (AP)—A boiler in the powerhouse at the Nebraska School for the Deaf blew up yesterday, rocking the campus, but causing no serious injuries. Clyde Daley, school, engineer suffered a small cut on the head.

AUTO MECHANICS PAY TALKS IN DEADLOCK

Negotiations between the Machinists and Teamsters Unions and 85 automobile agencies in the city and county were reported deadlocked today, following expiration of the old wage contract last midnight.

The unions, representing more than 1200 mechanics, servicemen, body experts, car washers and porters, are demanding a wage increase of 25 cents an hour and fringe benefits.

The benefits being sought would include a pension plan, Nelson Briner, business agent for Machinists District 9, said.

United States conciliators have assisted in the negotiations with committees representing the two unions and management. Although the dealers negotiate jointly, individual contracts are signed with each company after an agreement is reached, Briner said.

Briner described the negotiators as "pretty far apart" and added that a walkout by the employes is probable this week. A company offer below the 25-cent demand was rejected, he said. The present hourly rate for mechanics is $2.25½ an hour.

Ben Lindenbush, head of an agnecy at 3300 South Kingshighway, is spokesman for the dealers.

RAINIER PLAYS DRUMS TO CELEBRATE BIRTHDAY

MONTE CARLO, June 1 (AP) —Prince Rainier III played the drums far into early morning today to celebrate his 36th birthday. His wife, Princess Grace, looked on indulgently.

Accompanying him at the guitar was Aristotle Onassis, the shipowner who also owns part of Rainier's tiny principality.

The session was held in the cabaret night club under the casino. The doors were closed to all but Rainier's party of about 40 persons.

"It was one of the warmest parties we ever attended," guests said. It lasted from midnight until about 6 a.m.

COMMUNIST GAIN OF 5 PER CENT IN LATIN AMERICA

© New York Times News Service

WASHINGTON, June 1 — The Senate Internal Security subcommittee reported yesterday that Communist party membership in the 20 Latin American countries grew about 5 per cent in 1958.

The subcommittee presented a statistical study showing party membership at the end of 1957 was 200,000 to 215,000 and at the end of 1958 was 209,000 to 229,000.

"While the Communist party of Argentina is estimated to have lost members during the year," the study stated, "in Venezuela the party gained 20,000 to 25,000 members."

The study also noted that Latin American trade with the Soviet bloc countries rose about 20 per cent in 1958 over 1957. It suggested that deteriorating economic conditions in some countries had provided local Communists with issues and increased the attractiveness of bloc offers of trade and aid.

There was no indication that Latin America's basic attachment to the West had weakened, the study said.

The statistical study listed estimated memberships of Communist parties at the end of 1958 in each of the Latin-American nations. They are: Argentina, 70,000 to 80,000; Bolivia, 5000; Brazil, 50,000; Chile, 20,000 to 25,00; Colombia, 5000; Costa Rica, 300; Cuba, 12,000; Dominican Republic, negligible; Ecuador, 1000; El Salvador, 500; Guatemala, 1000; Haiti, negligible; Honduras, 500; Mexico, 5000; Nicaragua, 200; Panama, 500; Paraguay, 500; Peru, 6000; Uruguay, 3000, and Venezuela, 30,000 to 35,000.

Senator James O. Eastland, (Dem.), Mississippi, the subcommittee chairman, warned that the United States postal service was an unwilling pipeline for considerable propaganda flowing to Latin-America.

He said that under the universal postal union agreement this country is obligated to handle "in transit mail" originating in foreign countries.

"The Soviet embassy in Mexico," he said, "operates a large printing plant which ships printed matter to other Latin-American countries. Most mail from Mexico to other points in Latin-America must be routed through the New Orleans post office because direct transportation facilities from Mexico are not adequate."

Main targets for the printed propaganda, he said, are Chile, Ecuador, Venezuela and Bolivia.

FOURTH DEATH AS RESULT OF RACING ON FREEWAY

OAKLAND, Calif., June 1 (AP) —A 15-year-old girl died yesterday, the fourth victim of a six-car crash caused by a race at 90 miles an hour on a busy city freeway. Fourteen other persons were injured in the Saturday night accident.

Barbara Auby, of San Leandro, who died yesterday, was in the last car hit. The others who died were in a car whose driver lost control while racing. They were: Donald Rodriques, 27; George Anderson, 45, and his brother, Gerald, 19, all of Oakland.

Police said a car driven by Gerald Anderson went out of control and hit a car in which al four occupants were injured; a car carrying a family of six, of whom five had to be hospitalized; a station wagon with a man and wife, both badly hurt; and finally the car of teen-agers.

MOTHER AND 4 CHILDREN KILLED AT GRADE CROSSING

CROWN POINT, Ind., June 1 (AP)—A mother and four of her five children were killed yesterday when their family automobile was hit by a Pennsylvania Railroad train at a road crossing two miles west of here.

A fifth child was hurt seriously but the father, who was driving the car, escaped without serious injuries.

The dead were Mrs. Louise Brownfield, 28, Doyle, 10, Reba, 4, Richey, 3, and Barbara, six months. The other child, Doris, 9, suffered multiple skull fractures, and the father, Robert K. Brownfield, 30, had multiple leg and arm injuries.

It's Official: Married People Live Longer Than Unmarried

UNITED NATIONS, N.Y., June 1 (AP) — United Nations statisticians said last night that married people live longer than those who are single, widowed or divorced.

They said also that people are marrying younger in most countries and staying married longer.

These conclusions were drawn from the first comprehensive international marriage and divorce statistics, published in the 1958 U.N. Demographic Yearbook. "Demographic" means "writing about people."

In their analysis of the figures, the statisticians said death rates among married people, or both sexes and all ages, are all lower than among others.

Divorce Rates Up.

Divorce rates since have risen in 29 areas and fallen in only nine. At the same time, the staisticians noted that "duration of marriages before resort to divorce seems to be increasing." The average married life before divorce has increased in 26 countries, decreased in 18.

The yearbook brought out that women looking fo. husbands are more likely to find them in Alaska than anywhere else—and that men looking for wives are more likely to find them in East Germany.

The figures showed that in Alaska, out of 1000 marriageable females, 205 got married annually in a recent three-year period—against only 87 in the rest of the United States.

In East Germany, out of 1000 marriageable males, 113 got married.

Figures in the yearbook as analyzed by its authors also indicated:

1. Zanzibar has the world's highest annual rate of divorces —4.5 per 1000 persons. Many of these are Moslem "revocable divorces," more like legal separations.

2. The United States Virgin Islands have the second highest divorce rate—4.3. Nonresidents from the United States account for many of these divorces.

3. For countries, as distinct from territories, the United States shows the world's highest divorce rate—2.2.

4. British Honduras reports the lowest divorce rate—0.2. Northern Ireland reports .07 and Portugal .09.

China Leads in Population.

The New York Herald Tribune-Post-Dispatch Special Dispatch.

Mainland China, as in the past, continues to lead the world in population, with 650,000,000 followed by India with 400,000,000; Soviet Union with more than 200,000,000 and the United States with more than 170,000,000.

Japan, Indonesia, Pagistan, Brazil, Britain and West Germany follow, each with a population exceeding 50,000,000.

More htan half the world's population of 2,800,000,000 now lives in Asia. By the year 2000 it is estimated that Asia may account for about 60 per cent of the total population.

World population continued to increase during 1957 at the rate of 1.6 per cent, or 45,000,000 annually.

DRIVE IN HOUSE TO CUT BOMARC FUNDS FURTHER

WASHINGTON, June 1 (UPI)—Representative William E. Minshall (Rep.), Ohio, said today he would ask the House to cut $200,000,000 more from Bomarc missile funds in the defense appropriation.

Minshall's announcement foreshadowed a floor fight over the relative merits of the Air Force Bomarc and the Army Nike-Hercules air defense missiles when the $38,848,339,000 military money bill comes up for debate tomorrow.

Representative George H. Mahon (Dem.), Texas, chairman of the appropriations subcommittee which wrote the bill, said he looked for fights over some amendments, but he predicted the House would turn down all efforts to make "material" changes in the measure.

The bill carries all but $399,861,000 of the amounts requested by the Eisenhower administration to run the armed forces in the year which begins July 1.

Reshufling Programs.

However, it calls for a major reshuffling of programs, canceling or reducing some and strengthening others. One program which was curtailed sharply by the Mahon subcommittee and by the full appropriations committee was the Bomarc.

The committee knocked out $162,700,000 of the $362,700,000 requested for Bomarc production, leaving intact $84,600,000 for test and evaluation of the missile. It did not touch some $95,500,000 for the Army's Nike-Hercules.

Minshall, who failed in an effort to get the committee to delete the full amount earmarked for Bomarc production, said he would renew his attempt on the House floor.

He told a reporter that the Air Force has had Bomarc on its drawing boards and in the planning stage for nine years "and they still haven't come up with anything." He said Congress should provide money only for test and evaluation of the mis-

In contrast to the House committee action, the Senate Armed Services Committee called for a drastic cut in construction for the Army's Nike-Hercules.

Defense Secretary Neil H. McElroy has stepped into the controversy by announcing he will come up with a master plan for air defense shortly. The guessing is that this would provide for a "mix" of both weapons systems.

Atomic Bomber Planes.

By the Associated Press.

On another point of controversy Senator Richard B. Russell (Dem.), Georgia, said that with high priority the United States could be test-flying atomic powered bomber planes within 18 months.

The chairman of the Senate Armed Services Committee said in an interview: "It would cost a large sum, but not excessive when compared with some weapons systems now under way."

There has been a long-standing argument over whether this country should rush an atomic powered plane to completion just to be ahead of the Russians, or whether it should hold out for one with basic military usefulness.

Lt. Gen. Roscoe C. Wilson told a House Appropriations subcommittee recently an atomic plane may be five years away.

Russell said that pace is too slow.

Representative Melvin Price (Dem.), Illinois, chairman of a Senate-House atomic energy subcommittee on research and development, also called for faster work.

Price said, "There is no reason why we couldn't put an atomic powered plane in the air within the next three years, except failure to spend the money to do it."

He said it was possible in 18 months, too, if work proceeds concurrently in designing and building the plane that will carry the reactor.

Chinese Reds Arrest Priests.

VATICAN CITY, June 1 (UPI)—The news agency of the Roman Catholic Church's mission center reported today that five more Chinese Jesuit priests have been arrested by Communist authorities in Shanghai. The arrests brought to 38 the number of Jesuits imprisoned by the Chinese Communists, International Fides Service said.

GIRL IN HIS LIFE, SAYS VAN CLIBURN; NAME SECRET

LONDON, June 1 (AP)—Van Cliburn, 24-year-old American pianist here for a recital, told British women reporters today there is a girl in his life. He might even ask her to marry him.

But I can't tell you her name, because I don't want her to know, just yet," he said. "She's American, and I've known her seven months, and she's not a musician even if she thinks she is."

Cliburn will give a full recital program at the Royal Festival Hall next Sunday. Before then he will give a recital in Paris Thursday. Later he will play at the La Scala Opera House in Milan and in Lisbon.

SINGAPORE CABINET CRISIS DEVELOPING

SINGAPORE, June 1 (AP)—The left-wing People's Action Party, overwhelming victor in the election of Singapore's new legislative assembly, refused today to form a government unless Gov. Sir William Goode releases seven party leaders jailed after the labor riots three years ago.

P.A.P. Secretary General Lee Kwan Yew demanded the release after the governor asked him to form a new government.

Chief Minister Lim Yew Hock of the People's Alliance resigned today to pave the way for Lee's appointment.

After a government is formed, Goode is to proclaim Singapore's new constitution making the British island colony a semi-independent state. Britain will retain control of defense, including the big naval base, and foreign affairs.

In the voting Saturday the P.A.P. won 43 of the 51 assembly seats.

Lee is considered a moderate leftist and announced his party "does not propose to be, or even appear to be, the handmaid of the Communist party." However, Britons in Singapore and in London had considerable fear about the future of the island and its 1,300,000 people, nearly 1,000,000 of them Chinese.

The P.A.P. includes a considerable faction of rabble-rousing fellow travelers, led by the party members whose release Lee demanded. When they are released, they are expected to make a strong challenge for control of the party. On the other hand, the governor retains power to suspend the constitution if he feels the island's security demands this.

LAST BRITONS PULL OUT OF AIR BASE IN IRAQ

BAGHDAD, Iraq, June 1 (AP)—The last batch of British officers and men stationed at Habbaniyah air base left for Cyprus by commercial airliner yesterday.

Evacuation of the base began after Iraq's withdrawal from the Baghdad Pact last March.

Habbaniyah, in the desert 50 miles west of Baghdad, housed 300 Royal Air Force men and dependents. It was built by the British 20 years ago and handed over to the Iraqi air force after World War II. Britain retained a section of it for servicing R.A.F. planes flying to and from the Far East and the Persian Gulf.

11 DIE AS TRAIN HITS TRUCK

SANTIAGO, Chile, June 1 (UPI) — Eleven persons were killed and 20 injured yesterday when a train struck a truck carrying 41 football players and fans.

The accident occurred at a grade crossing near the Chagres station, 60 miles from Santiago. All the dead were in the truck.

RIGHT-WINGERS DEFEATED IN ALGERIA VOTE

ALGIERS, June 1 (UPI) — Extreme right-wing politicians who oppose any peace settlement with Moslem rebels suffered heavy defeats in yesterday's senatorial elections. The voting was a victory for President Charles de Gaulle.

Conservatives were the big winners in the Algerian-wide balloting for 10 French and 22 Moslems to represent Algeria in the French Senate in Paris. The voting was by 7000 specially chosen "grand electors" — National Assembly deputies and municipal counsellors.

Liberal candidates, mostly Moslems, who seek a compromise with the Algerian nationalist rebels also were roundly defeated. They set a precedent however, merely by standing for office and brought closer De Gaulle's pledge for free, wide open elections in Algeria.

The Conservatives, or moderate politicians, mostly represent French firms or individuals with big holdings in Algeria. They favor close association of Algeria with France and are midway between the die-hard right-wing group and the Liberals.

Unlike the extreme rightists who have dominated Algerian politics since the uprising that brought De Gaulle to power last summer, the Conservatives are generally prepared to work with De Gaulle for an industrial revolution to boost low living standards here.

One of the most important rightist defeats was in Algiers where publisher Alain de Serigny failed to be elected. He was known for his off and on hostility toward De Gaulle and was one of the leaders of the May 13, 1958, upheaval.

Moslem liberal Ali Khodja was defeated in Algiers but it was considered remarkable he would run at all in a city where rightist activity is so strong. A year ago he was placed under police guard by right-wing elements.

Premature Fireworks.

NEW YORK, June 1 (UPI)—A Brooklyn woodshed exploded last night, breaking windows in 14 surrounding homes. Police said the shed contained a $1000 cache of illegal fireworks intended for Fourth of July bootlegging.

RUSSIANS AGREE TO BAR ON ARMED ANTARCTIC BASES

WASHINGTON, June 1 (UPI) —The State Department said yesterday the Soviet Union has given assurances that it will not try to establish military bases in Antarctica.

Officials said Russia has joined other nations in agreeing to respect the non-military development of the ice-covered area nearly as big as South America.

This agreement was one of the key factors in clearing the way for a 12-nation conference to be held next Oct. 15 in Washington for writing a treaty to promote the peaceful scientific development of the Antarctic wastes.

While unwilling to speculate on changes of success in writing, signing and ratifying such a treaty, officials said they thought the biggest hurdles had been cleared. As United States officials see it, the treaty will not internationalize the area. It would simply provide the means of exchanging scientific information.

JOHN J. BURKE GOES ON TRIAL IN TAX CASE

John J. Burke, former head of Chicago-St. Louis Express, Inc., and his wife, Rose, went on trial on income tax evasion charges before a jury of 10 men andt wo women in the court of United States District Judge George H. Moore today.

The Burkes were indicted in March 1958 as an outgrowth of a long federal investigation of the financial affairs of Frank (Buster) Wortman, East Side gang boss.

Four counts of the indictment charge the Burkes evaded $25,967 in taxes on income in the years 1951-54.

Burke, of 850 North Kirkwood road, Kirkwood, is now employed by the Michigan Express Co., which recently bought Chicago-St. Louis Express, it was stated. Mrs. Burke, who allegedly prepared the tax returns in question, is a secretary.

The Government charges the Burkes reported net income for the four years as $42,392 and paid taxes totaling $8794, but that their actual net income was $108,452, on which they should have paid $34,761.

6 AIRLINES GET MILITARY CONTRACTS TO FAR EAST

Six airlines have been awarded $3,041,007 in contracts by the Government for overseas service to Okinawa and Japan, it was announced today by the Military Air Transport Service at Scot Air Force Base.

The six lines were selected from 28 which submitted proposals for service to the Far East in July, August and September. Successful bidders were the Flying Tiger Line, Inc., Hawaiian Airlines, Transocean Air Lines, Alaska Airlines, United States Overseas Airlines and Twentieth Century Airlines.

KENNEDY PLANS DECISION BY 'FIRST OF 1960'

WASHINGTON, June 1 (UPI) —Senator John F. Kennedy of Massachusetts, said yesterday he would decide "by the first of 1960" whether he would be a candidate for the Democratic presidential nomination next year.

Kennedy warned his fellow Democrats that they would be "very contemptuous" of the voters if they assumed that any Democrat could win the presidency in 1960.

He said "the odds are with the Democrats but the candidate has to be as strong as the party is."

Kennedy has been regarded by his Democratic colleagues as the front-runner for the nomination, even though he has not formally announced his candidacy. He has been conducting the most intensive speaking campaign of any potential nominee.

With Keating on Film.

He discussed the outlook for 1960 in a filmed television interview with Senator Kenneth B. Keating (Rep.), New York. Asked by Keating if he thought "any Democrat" could win next year, Kennedy replied:

"No, I don't. I think that would be a very contemptuous way for us to look at the American electorate—that we could put anybody up and, merely because he's a Democrat, he could win."

Kennedy added that he thought a winner should be a "vigorous and progressive and effective Democrat — one who's demonstrated competence."

He said the question of whether he would have the support of "organized labor" in the presidential race would be "their decision."

"I would hope that people who belong to unions would probably feel that I've been responsible and that I'm deserving of some consideration. . . ." The co-sponsor of the Kennedy-Ervin labor reform bill said.

Question of Leadership.

Next year's major issue, he said, "is the question of leadership and whether the executive has recognized all the new problems that are pouring upon us—domestically and abroad."

Kennedy repeated his view that it would be a "disaster" for Congress not to pass the labor reform bill at this session. He said if it is not passed this year "all of the work, all of the exposures" of the McClellan racket investigation will "go for nothing."

On the ABC television program, "College News Conference," Senator Clinton P. Anderson of New Mexico listed Kennedy among four potential Democratic nominees now serving in the Senate. Among others, he mentioned Senators Lyndon B. Johnson, Texas, Stuart Symington, Missouri, and Hubert H. Humphrey, Minnesota.

He said a Johnson-Kennedy ticket would "run like wildfire through the country." He predicted that the nomination next year would go to a member of the Senate.

FTC ORDERS HALT TO AD ON COLOR TV PLASTIC SHEET

WASHINGTON, June 1 (UPI) —The Federal Trade Commission today ordered M & M Specialties Inc. of New York City to stop advertising that a plastic sheet painted orange, green and blue would produce "wonderful, life-like" color television.

The commission said the company had been claiming falsely that the sheet, called "Color V," would provide "real-life" color pictures when attached over the screen of a black and white TV set. The FTC acted by signing an order agreed to by its bureau of litigation and M & M. It was for settlement purposes and was not an admission of any law violation by the firm.

LEWIS ACCUSES EISENHOWER OF AIDING BIG STEEL

WASHINGTON, June 1 (UPI) —John L. Lewis accused President Eisenhower yesterday of "interfering" in the steel wage negotiations and throwing his prestige to the side of the industry.

The United Mine Workers president said on the NBC television program "Meet the Press' that Mr. Eisenhower had departed from "his proclaimed policy" on labor-management negotiations for the first time in his six years in the White House.

Mr. Eisenhower, Lewis said, has "interfered in a labor dispute before even the negotiations were concluded on any point, thereby throwing the great weight of his prestige and influence on the side of the steel magnates, and against the workers in the steel industry."

Asked if the White House had any comment on Lewis's charge, presidential press secretary James C. Hagerty said today: "No, other than to say it isn't so." Hagerty also referred reporters to the President's repeated appeals for a steel settlement that would not contribute to inflationary price increases.

"The President bases his opposition on inflation, his fear of inflation," Lewis said. "But in effect what he is telling the American workman is that you cannot participate in the advantages of the economy on the same basis as the employer because when we fear inflation, you have to have your wages frozen."

Lewis said he refused to "run with the pack" and denounce Teamsters president James R. Hoffa because of charges made against him. Lewis said Hoffa had not been convicted of "any crime."

The UMW president said that "all the forces of the law, the Government, supported by the press, the Justice Department, the special committee of Congress, the Internal Revenue, have all combined to try to convict Jimmie Hoffa of something, which they have failed."

"I don't join the mob every time it hollers 'stop thief' and pursues a man down the road and turns the pack on him, and that is what is being done now," Lewis said.

"The pack is after Hoffa and they haven't got him yet. And I'm not doing any running with the pack on this occasion, because he is entitled to have his chance, under our flag, under our law, and an equal break before his peers."

Lewis bristled when asked if he was not shocked at revelations of labor corruption uncovered by the Senate Rackets Investigating Committee. He said he was not in the business of "hunting down sin" and that as a labor leader "I am not responsible for the morals of any part of our population."

He refused to answer what he called a "loaded question" when asked whether, by not criticizing Hoffa, he was approving the participation of hoodlums, crooks, thugs and narcotics peddlers in the labor movement.

"My record is a complete answer," he said tartly.

Lewis repeated his opposition to the Senate-passed labor reform measure sponsored by Senator John F. Kennedy (Dem.), Massachusetts. He said it was "much preferable not to have any bill than to accept the Kennedy bill as now amended."

Kennedy said yesterday that it would be "a disaster" if the House failed to pass the bill which, he asserted, was aimed at "Mr. Hoffa and his kind."

If the legislation is not enacted this year, Kennedy said, the Senate Rackets Committee will pass out of existence and all of its exposures will go for nothing.

This would mean that Hoffa would "continue to ride the crest of the wave and, I think in disgrace to the labor movement in this country," Kennedy added.

Russia Making West Germany Whipping Boy and Treating The Big Three With Restraint

Bonn's Growing Economic, Political and Military Power Believed to be Reason Behind Communists' Attempt to Weaken Alliance.

By BRACK CURRY

GENEVA, June 1 (AP).

SOVIET FOREIGN MINISTER ANDREI A. GROMYKO and the Communist East German delegation are going all-out to whip up a "hate West Germany" atmosphere at the Geneva conference.

Western diplomats say the Reds are trying to isolate West Germany from its allies and weaken the Atlantic alliance.

The United States, Britain and France—often the villains of Moscow's propaganda—are in the main being treated mildly by the Russians and East Germans in the debate in the palace of nations.

Toward the Big Three powers, the Soviet line here is: "There is no spirit of cold war at the Geneva conference table."

But across the table where the Big Four ministers meet, Gromyko regularly flails:

"Revanchist (revenge-seeking) pronouncements in West Germany . . . West German policies adapted to skyrocket international tensions . . . the voices of blackmailers in Bonn . . . the danger of revival of German militarism . . . militarist and revanchist forces in Western Germany. . . ."

In a play to arouse fears among people of the West who fought Germany in two world wars, Gromyko told the conference:

"Neither the United States Government nor the governments of Great Britain and France want German militarism to find itself at a fuse which could inflame a missile-atomic war."

Gromyko's repetitious attacks on West Germany as the bad boy of the West at one point prompted Secretary of State Christian A. Herter to tell the Russian to stop making false accusations of aggressiveness.

Herter said East German armed forces, in relation to population and territory, were four to five times bigger than those of West Germany and that Gromyko was trying to revive "old fears and bygone hatreds."

But Gromyko, abetted by the East Germans, didn't stop. East Germany's Foreign Minister Lothar Bolz told the Big Four ministers that the West German armed forces are commanded by officers who held high military ranks in the "criminal Hitlerite war."

The crucial issue before this conference, Bolz declared, is to "avert the development of German militarism."

Simultaneously the Soviet and East German press are accusing West Germany of threatening the success of the Geneva talks by a more flexible approach by the Western ministers.

This "bowing to Bonn" theme recurs constantly in Soviet propaganda.

Why are the Russians concentrating so much fire on the West Germans when the United States, Britain and France are the Communists' chief antagonists at this conference?

Western officials consider the underlying motive is Soviet concern over the rising power—economic, political and military—of West Germany.

peace-loving a people for whom the norms of international law have lost any significance?" Khrushchev asked.

Izvestia published yesterday a facsimile of what it described as an official Nazi document assuring Grewe of "the fuehrer's special protection." Grewe, now chief West German spokesman at the Geneva conference, has been subjected to bitter attacks by the Soviet press.

The document, dated Oct. 27, 1941, said the Education Ministry, "in the fuehrer's name," awarded Grewe the academic title of dozent, and "he may rest assured of the fuehrer's special protection."

A dozent is a university lecturer who obtained recognition as such by a piece of original research. The next higher rank is professor. The phrase—"the fuehrer's special protection" — was standard verbiage in the documents creating dozents in the Nazi days.

Points to Other Leaders.

Khrushchev's attack upon West Germany echoed the line which a number of Soviet officials have expressed in private conversations. These officials have indicated that no longer is major fear felt that the United States might plunge the world into war. They say, "We are not going to start war. We believe your government is not going to start war. But what about Adenauer? If he starts war you would be in it and so would we."

When the rejoinder is made that Adenauer is too wise a statesman to lead Germany again into war, the Soviet official answers: "Perhaps that is true about Adenauer. But what about the people around him? What about Defense Minister Strauss? Are you sure that he won't start something?"

Khrushchev put the matter in terms almost identical.

"Where is the guarantee that contemporary Germany if the militarist revanchist forces prevail will not follow in the steps of Hitler's Germany? he asked.

"Look who are to be found now in key positions in the German Federal Republic who have advanced to leadership posts—it is in significant portion the very same people who actively supported Hitler and counted him as their god. Well known for example for bloody affairs are War Minister Strauss and Gen. Speidel." To their number he added Grewe.

Warning to France.

In addition to detailing his concern over the militarist bent of Germany, Khrushchev directed major attention to the relationship between Germany and France. He sought to put the French on warning that a policy of collaboration with the Germans in the end would lead to disaster for France.

"Not a long time has passed," Khrushchev noted, "since some of the statesmen who now are embracing Adenauer fled from the German troops to Great Britain and other countries. All this has too quickly flown out of their memories. They evidently have not profited by the lessons of two wars, both of which were unleashed by German militarism."

Wartime Ambassador Finds Common People Imbued With Sincere Horror of Another War

Relaxed, Ready to Talk Frankly to Foreigners—Shop Windows Filled.

W. Averell Harriman, former ambassador to Russia and Great Britain and former governor of New York, is visiting the Soviet Union. Here he reports on the changes he has found in Russia since the days of his ambassadorship there during World War II.

MOSCOW.

"PEACE" is not a mere political slogan in the Soviet Union. It is a national preoccupation. The Kremlin-inspired "peace offensive" would lead one to expect declarations of Russia's peaceable intentions from Soviet officials.

But when farmhands and factory workers whose memories of the sufferings of the last war are still vivid, express their horror of another war, no one can doubt their sincerity. I am told that even at intimate family gatherings it has become customary to begin the traditional toasting with, "May there be peace in the world."

Incredible as it may seem to us Americans, the United States is considered here as the major threat to peace. Nevertheless, despite the efforts of the Communist press to belittle American wartime aid to Russia and despite the anti-American speeches of prominent Communist leaders, almost every Russian I have talked to has revealed a longing to recapture the friendly relations that existed with the United States during the war years when I served as ambassador here.

The warmth with which I have been received as an American who symbolizes our wartime alliance is, I believe, a measure of the popular desire to restore the old relationship. To what degree this longing will be fulfilled by Kremlin policies remains to be seen.

Advances in Housing.

The disruption of the wartime alliance is not the only change that has taken place in Moscow since I left it just after the war. New apartment buildings, bright, cheerful clothing, shop windows filled with food and household goods make Moscow all but unrecognizable.

On the outskirts of the city, land which was given over to collective farm lands when I was last here, there are now whole communities of 8- and 10-story apartment buildings surrounded by tree-lined boulevards and playgrounds. Wherever one looks, cranes are lifting pre-fabricated forms and slabs into place on new buildings which are going up at the rate of 70,000 apartments a year.

Nevertheless, the shortage of housing is still acute, for during Stalin's drive for industrialization, housing was grossly neglected. Today, available space is far below the minimum limit established by the health authorities of 100 square feet per person. Moscow's Mayor Bobrovnikov has told me that despite the effort going into housing construction it will take at least seven years to fulfill minimum requirements and 10 or more years fully to meet the demand.

To keep down the problems of over-urbanization, the city's population is being restrcted to the present size of 5,000,000 by denial of residence permits to newcomers. In addition, the head of Moscow's Economic Council told me, new factories requiring manpower not already available in the city will not be permitted. Furthermore, plants which pol-

Post Time in By-Line Handicap To Be the First Into Red China

WASHINGTON, June 1.

WITH SOMEWHAT comic overtones the great rush to be the first into Communist China is on, with former Gov. Averell Harriman of New York on the inside track.

As a more less avowed candidate for Secretary of State in a Democratic administration, Harriman apparently feels it is important to him to try to explore forbidden China. He is currently touring Russia and the report here is that the Russians have told him they will help him get the required permission from Peiping.

Harriman cleared the first hurdle by getting the State Department to put a stamp in his passport authorizing him to visit Communist China. Such a special stamp is required since each passport issued specifies that the bearer cannot use it for travel to the mainland of China.

With former Secretary of State Dean Acheson as his counsel, Harriman persuaded the department that he was a bona fide newspaper man employed by the North American Newspaper Alliance to write special articles. Acheson argued solemnly—and truthfully—that the former Governor's salary from N.A.N.A. was his only source of earned income. The word to be stressed here is "earned," since Harriman has a private fortune based on the railroad empire of his father estimated at more than $100,000,000.

First Deputy Soviet Premier Anastas I. Mikoyan is reported to have told Harriman that while he could not intervene with Peiping directly he could suggest that a visit would be helpful. Similarly, Premier Khrushchev told Adlai E. Stevenson when the two-time Democratic presidential candidate visited Moscow last summer that it would be a good idea for Stevenson to go to Peiping and that he, Khrushchev, would help him. Stevenson at one point considered such a mission but he has made no move to go.

Chinese Reaction Doubtful.

Whether Khrushchev and Company can help by interceding is an open question. Chinese Communist representatives in Western Europe are known to have expressed anger and indignation that Soviet Foreign Minister Andrei Gromyko should have gone to the funeral of John Foster Dulles. To think, they are reported as saying, that he should have gone to pay homage

'Defense Support' Is Economic Subsidy, Congress Finds Out

In Most Cases the Need for Assistance Is Called Unrelated to Nation's Military Effort.

By EDWIN L. DALE JR.

WASHINGTON, June 1.

THE GOVERNMENT has begun to admit officially as well as unofficially that "defense support" aid for a key group of nations is needed regardless of the military effort of those nations.

Thus Congress is being made aware of a fact of international economic life that has been familiar to specialists. This is that "defense support" is in most cases not what it has been presented as being—a means of enabling certain nations to carry on a large defense effort which they would otherwise be unable to afford.

Actually, it is an economic subsidy for nations that probably could not survive without it. In most cases the need for the subsidy is unrelated to the size of the nation's defense effort.

"Defense support" is much the biggest category of economic aid in the foreign aid bill. The President has requested $835,000,000 for the next fiscal year. It goes to 12 countries, on a grant basis.

Special Assistance.

Exactly similar subsidies go to a different group of nations under the title "special assistance." The only difference is that the first group has military alliances or agreements with the United States and receives military aid, while the latter group does not.

Leonard J. Saccio, acting director of the International Cooperation Administration, told the Senate Foreign Relations Committee last week the hard truth of the situation. Speaking of the economic need for defense support, he said:

"These are needs which will continue to exist whether or not some of these countries cut back the military program which they have undertaken in performance of their roles in free world common defense arrangements.

"A cutback in such military programs might after a period of time—and let me stress that it would only be after a period of time—bring some reduction in the economic requirements of some of these countries, but in most cases at least the bulk of the need would remain and be important to us just as it is now, since the underlying economic difficulties would still remain."

South Korea, officials explain, is a perfect example of what Saccio meant. It is an "underemployed economy." If its soldiers were all released to civilian life, the nation's output would not increase, but the ex-soldiers would still have to eat. The nation does not have the resources, or the foreign exchange, to keep its population at a level standard of living without aid, let alone improve standards of living.

Two Categories.

The bulk of the major recipients of defense support or special assistance—and they are essentially the same—fall into two categories.

1. Nations born out of chaos—South Korea, Formosa, Pakistan, South Viet Nam. These were not real "nations" at all, at their formation, and their economies remain "unviable."

2. Former parts of the British or French empire or spheres of influence — Laos, Cambodia, Jordan, Libya, Morocco, Tunisia, Greece and Turkey. Many of these nations have always been subsidized, at least in modern times, and cannot exist without outside help.

The point made by foreign aid experts is that the issue of subsidizing this select category of nations has little or nothing to do with "economic development" or "improving the standard of living of underdeveloped countries." The aid is chiefly in the form of commodity imports or cash grants to help budgets, not for projects such as dams, ports or roads.

While officials insist that this

ANXIETY REVEALED BY KHRUSHCHEV

By HARRISON E. SALISBURY

© New York Times News Service

MOSCOW, June 1—The frankest expression yet offered of Soviet concern over revival of German militarism as a threat to European security and world peace has been laid down by Premier Khrushchev.

Khrushchev has given in detail the Soviet belief that revival of German military spirit and dominance of German militarists in West Germany is a major obstacle to the attainment of international security. It is the German military threat which Khrushchev has stressed most forcibly as the underlying foundation for the Soviet attitude toward the German questions. This position clearly has caused his rejection in strong terms of Secretary of State Herter's program on Berlin.

Khrushchev's blunt and frank exposition of Soviet views on Germany was presented in his Saturday address in Tirana. Moscow diplomats saw this discussion as the most open expression yet put on record of the persistent Soviet pre occupation with what Moscow calls the recidivist German military threat.

Attack on Bonn's Envoy.

Khrushchev coupled his plain talking about German militarists with the harshest characterization of West Germany's Ambassador Grewe, whom he described as having demanded in 1941 that international law be thrown overboard in a drive to eliminate Bolshevism. He charged that Grewe characterized Hitler's attacks upon the Soviet Union as a "world historical mission."

A Weak Legislative Record

Missouri legislators beat the clock that ran out on their session at midnight Sunday and that was just about their principal success.

The Legislature's record for five months was generally conservative, negative and unimaginative. It ignored Gov. Blair's considered program for the most part and in the usual last-minute rush of confusion wound up by gambling with the general revenue budget.

The public should not be deceived by the fact that the next biennial budget of $1,143,000,000 sets a record. Much of this sum involves earmarked funds and federal grants that the legislators could not do anything about if they desired. The real question all along was whether the members would approve a general revenue budget adequate for some modest expansion of state colleges, hospitals and other institutions and services.

Here the legislators reduced the Governor's budget by several millions and ignored his plan for higher liquor and cigarette taxes. They set aside a pay-as-you-go income tax withholding plan. Employer groups opposed withholding though it promised increased revenue without increased taxes. In the end the legislators settled on a use tax on out-of-state purchases, exempting raw materials for industry and equipment for new and expanded plants.

This is where the Legislature gambled. The members estimate that the use tax will bring in eight millions a year—but that is what the Governor expected it to produce before exemptions were added. Suppose it does not now produce as much as the legislators expect? Then the moderately-expanded general revenue budget will not hold up and state services will have to be cut back.

Even if their expectations prove out, the legislators expect the state to dip by a million dollars or more a year into its surplus, which Gov. Blair says is already as low as it should be.

Assuming that many state services can be maintained or even improved somewhat under the new budget, there is a singular omission. The Governor's plan for a gasoline tax increase to support an expanded road-building program was blocked largely at the behest of the oil lobby and county judges who demanded a share of state money for purely local roads. Missouri has been losing ground in its ability to match available federal aid funds; now it must be presumed roads will be built more slowly.

Moreover, the House bowed to another lobby—the outdoor advertising interests—in wrecking a bill to protect the driving public from unsightly billboards along interstate highways yet to be built.

In rejecting 35 of the Governor's legislative proposals, the legislators said No to such elementary necessities as a point-system drivers' license law (and most other traffic safety measures), governmental reorganization suggested by the 1955 Little Hoover Commission, criminal code reforms, state fire safety regulation and a restoration of the original cost rate-making formula for public utilities.

Even so simple and desirable an election reform as the spring primary failed. No interest was paid the proposal to let Missouri Governors succeed themselves, despite the clear lesson of this session that a Governor loses influence and leadership with the Legislature in the second half of his term.

On the constructive side, the Legislature did extend the life of the state's Human Rights Commission, without really extending its authority. A state atomic energy commission was established. Welfare benefits for the aged and blind were improved to meet the challenge of inflation. And state hospitals will be permitted to transfer custodial patients to nursing homes, thus enlarging the capacity for treatment.

St. Louis finally won power to increase its earnings tax but only as the city's financial problem became desperate. A bill to permit the Bi-State Agency to get to work in earnest also was passed, but the city's off-street parking needs bowed once more to the private parking lobby. About all St. Louis county won from this Legislature was the right to issue revenue bonds to build a new courts building.

It may seem strange in this record of frequent obeisance to powerful lobbies that the legislators would stand against any of them—but three were defeated. The labor lobby lost in a renewed drive to repeal the King-Thompson utility anti-strike law. The truck lobby met a roadblock in its effort to raise truck weights. And the public school lobby, after repeated victories, overreached itself in demanding a one-half per cent sales tax increase earmarked for the new foundation program. Senator Gibson of Independence noted that every state office needed more money, and said it was "inconceivable" that any special group could be "so selfish and so greedy" as to demand service to the exclusion of other needs.

Yet the record demonstrates that if the lobbies could not always get legislation they wanted, they could block legislation they opposed. And so one worthy proposal after another vanished in committees and in the last-hour confusion.

If the approved budget does not work out as planned, Gov. Blair may have to resort to the expensive process of recalling the legislators in special session. Then he undoubtedly also will renew his request for an expanded highway program. But any developing need for a special session will be a measure of the Legislature's failure to do what it should have done this spring.

The Case Against Strauss

It is time to inform the Administration and others that all the talk about Adm. Strauss's competence cannot hide the basic issue in the least. Americans are not blind.

I believe that even if Strauss's competence were granted, he clearly and decidedly fails to meet the remainder of the criterion. His attitude towards government is clearly that he and other "experts" ought to have power to conceal facts which have political significance, whereas under our form of government the prime prerequisite for the proper functioning of the government is precisely the opposite—that all politically significant information be available to the citizen for purposes of political decal decisions.

Mr. Strauss favors government by the "expert," whereas the American tradition centers around the belief that rule by any elite is wrong, and only government by the many is consistent with the belief that all men are political equals, and should be free to decide their affairs of state.

The recent trends toward government by "control of information" (which is the meaning of the word "propaganda") reflect a theory of government which pre-supposes that Americans are not capable of making intelligent decisions.

This completely opposes the traditional premise that government by the many will work best, and that the people can make good decisions.

There is no justification for keeping Strauss in any office, and there is much justification for removing him completely, since he has used his official power to weaken the democratic process.

Let the Children Pay

I wonder if it has ever occurred to the powers that be that the simple way to add thousands of dollars to the School Board's revenue is by charging the small registration fee of $1 per year or semester per family or per child.

I don't mind paying whatever the cost is for my child but I do mind paying for the other fellow when he is working just like I am and in many instances his income far surpasses mine. I am sure even the people in the lowest income bracket could afford the small fee of $1.

Hiking Into Town

Considering the League of Women Voters' "Downtown Scoreboard," supporting the movement to glamorize Downtown and make it an attractive place to live, what would you think of closing certain streets—say, one from the North, one or two from the South, all leading downtown—for those who enjoy walking and biking and soapboxing, without automobile fumes and hazards?

Walkers could walk into town to see the sights, could picnic by the Aloe Plaza foundations; bikers could visit the Levee, the Campbell house, or go from the northside to a southside park. Clubs could organize outings. The whole city, not just downtown, would profit.

President Eisenhower and his Dr. White have stressed physical fitness. How could you better encourage it, with more fun, and less cost?

Fiction As a Weapon

I was pleased to see your editorial in support of the Wilderness bill. But I feel you are being overly optimistic when you say "surely a bill with so much merit will not be obscured by misrepresentation."

It is an unfortunate fact that misrepresentation has very nearly "obscured" this bill out of existence. If the bill is passed, it will be a triumph of fact over fiction because opponents of the measure have been busily informing the public that it would "lock up vital resources" and restrict use of our wilderness lands to a "privileged few."

The "privileged few" who would benefit under this bill are all those Americans from Maine to California who do not happen to own any lumber companies or who might want to have some of their public lands protected against commercial exploitation.

These lands have enormous recreational, educational, esthetic and scientific value but they won't be saved unless the voter urges his Congressmen to support the Wilderness bill.

Again, Two Newspapers

The Post-Dispatch welcomes the resumption of publication by the Globe-Democrat.

During the 14 weeks of the strike which forced our competitor to suspend publication, St. Louis learned what it was like to depend on one daily newspaper. In the majority of American cities, this is the permanent situation. Beginning today, St. Louis again becomes one of the wholesome exceptions.

In our view the public is well served by having a choice between editorial personalities and advertising media. It was to help maintain two separate, independent newspapers in St. Louis that the Post-Dispatch purchased the plant and equipment of the Globe-Democrat and will consolidate the mechanical operations in one plant. We believe that the economies thus made possible for both newspapers will keep St. Louis in the category of competitive newspaper cities.

The beneficiary of this arrangement will be the public, which will continue to have a choice of coverage of public affairs and of editorial comment.

After the Weekend

A good part of the tragic toll of highway fatalities over the Memorial Day weekend will be attributed, inevitably, to high speeds. Yet a new Bureau of Public Roads report may surprise many drivers. The Bureau found that the lowest accident rate occurs at about 65 miles an hour, which is close to usual highway speed limits. The rate increases above that but is highest at speeds far lower.

Common sense indicates that something besides speed is necessary to produce accidents, such as driving in the wrong lane, or incorrect passing, or plain loss of control of an automobile. Speed enhances the danger inherent in driving errors, but it is not the prime cause of accidents. Bad drivers are the principal cause and, necessary as speed laws are, there is no way to legislate good driving sense behind a wheel.

A Second Common Market

British acceptance of an invitation to join Sweden, Norway, Denmark, Austria, Switzerland and Portugal in a conference in Stockholm almost assures a second European "common market." In fact, the British Treasury is hopeful that the association may be in operation by the end of the year.

The governments concerned point out that they are not retaliating against the six-nation continental Common Market, yet that organization is at the root of the new activity. Many in Great Britain, for example, believe that London should have joined the continental group, and nations with fewer economic and industrial resources must feel at an even greater disadvantage. So it is conceded—and perhaps even hoped—that the two common markets might be merged into an all-European free trade area.

This would add the 90,000,000 population of the new group to the 165,000,000 of Euromart, thus creating the world's strongest economic bloc.

The merger is a real possibility since those shaping the continental common market have never ceased to point out that they do not want it to be exclusive. But the British in particular felt they had special problems which made it difficult for them to accept the sweeping continental arrangements. Insofar as these problems are serious, a second and perhaps somewhat more restricted trade agreement could afford an opportunity for making adjustments preliminary to joining an all-European group.

Even the continental common market, not to be fully realized for a dozen years, represents an economic entity in many ways stronger than the United States. Yet we should not dread its creation and its possible enlargement. Anything that reduces trade barriers is to be welcomed. While it is bound to bring about some changes in the present pattern of international commerce, the end result is a healthier economic world. Further, Euromart with its six-nation parliament, eventually to be elected without reference to present sovereignties, is the best promise of a politically consolidated Europe, a world power on a par with the United States and the Soviet Union and, as such, a mighty bastion of world peace.

No. 1 and No. 2

It is good to know that Harry Truman and Speaker Sam Rayburn have denied holding a summit conference of their own to divide up the Democratic world.

It isn't true, they say, that Mr. Truman, backing Senator Symington for the party's presidential nomination, and Speaker Sam, backing Majority Leader Lyndon Johnson, have agreed to combine forces for whichever of their candidates turns out to have the better chance in the convention.

Of course it is no news to anybody that Mr. Truman backs Senator Symington and Speaker Sam backs Lyndon Johnson. Nor would many people be surprised if the Lyndon Johnson forces swung in behind Senator Symington once it became clear that their man couldn't make it. This has been in the political cards for a long time, and probably accounts for the dreamy smile that comes over Senator Symington's face when reporters query him about the contest.

There is still a strong presumption that no Southerner can win the nomination of a party which knows that it must appeal strongly to the masses of urban voters who decide presidential elections. Senator Johnson may overcome the handicap of being a Southerner whose support is concentrated in the South, but we would not bet on it. Senator Symington's chances, therefore, look correspondingly bright by comparison.

All he has to worry about is what will happen when it dawns on the Northern liberals in the Democratic party that the South's No. 2 candidate may be unacceptable to them for the same reason as the South's No. 1 candidate.

A Demand to Be Met

Many St. Louis householders have a vital interest in an investigation the Federal Power Commission is now conducting. It is looking into a complaint by Laclede Gas Co. that Mississippi River Fuel Corp. has refused to increase the amount of natural gas it supplies to Laclede. A formal hearing will be held by the Commission June 15.

Laclede has some 358,000 residential customers in the St. Louis area, slightly more than half of whom now use gas for space heating. The utility estimates that all but a fraction of the others also would heat their homes with gas if the fuel were available, which it isn't. Gas is substantially cheaper for household heating than oil or coal and it is cleaner.

Has Mississippi been increasing the capacity of its system without giving Laclede an opportunity to increase its demand level? Laclede says Yes and Mississippi says No. It is the Commission's job to determine where the equities lie. What St. Louisans are interested in is a substantially increased supply. Those who want gas heat and can't get it are paying the penalty of someone's failure to make supply equal demand.

Today's Prime Issue: World Disarmament

Former California Congresswoman Urges Peoples to End Arms Race

Helen Gahagan Douglas in Monthly Bulletin of the World Disarmament Committee

What do you think about the things you think you think about? I ask the question in all seriousness.

Scientists tell us we are entering a new age—the nuclear age. What does the nuclear age mean to us—what changes will it bring—what changes have already taken place? Do we realize what can happen now that could not have happened in the past?

We are engaged in an arms race. Instead of building schools, hospitals, recreation centers and supporting art and research for peaceful purposes, we build hydrogen bombs, support research for nuclear war and daily add our contribution to an already overflowing world reservoir of hate.

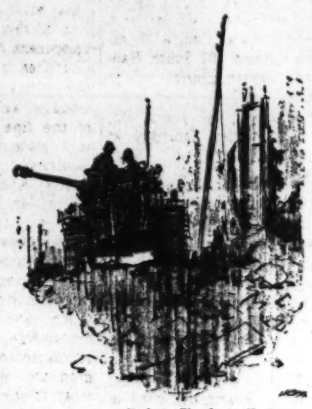
The Mirror of Public Opinion

Do we have more than a fleeting interest in our Government's efforts to negotiate the beginnings of a disarmament problem? Do we think disarmament is possible—peace achievable? Or do we push hydrogen bombs, along with United Nations negotiations on disarmament, back into the deepest recesses of our minds—shutting off thought, turning our backs on reason—relying instead on mystery, miracle and authority to carry us through?

I ask again: What do we think about the things we think we think about?

In the 1930s, we debated the issues of the time hotly, sometimes brutally, but in the end we were enlightened—able to make decisions based on our knowledge of the facts. In the 1950s, there has been a great silence over the land—as mankind races on toward unknown dangers. We do not discuss and apparently are not vitally interested in the prime issue of our time—and give no moral support or direction to our affairs.

It seems to me that the prime issue of our time is world disarmament—finding a way to bring the world arms race to an end.



—York in The Louisville Times.

"They're Annihilated and We're Barely Demolished—So I Guess We Win the War—"

My good friend, the Honorable Philip Noel-Baker, member of Parliament and a leader in the British Labour Party, has recently had a book published, "The Arms Race," which everyone should read.

He says: "Modern weapons have been developed for national defense. But every scientist, general, minister and military commentator is agreed that they have destroyed the hope of national defense; there is quite literally no present or prospective hope of defense against them; the very employment of the word 'defense' to describe modern military preparation is an extreme example of how language can deceive." Here, "deceive" is the operative word. We squander our brains, our hopes and resources on a giant hoax.

If there is no defense against modern weapons, of what does our defense consist? Deterrent — strength enough militarily to retaliate in kind against Russian attack. If millions of us are wiped out in a single night, our air force is so geared and organized in the United States and at our 250 bases around the world—and we also have our nuclear submarines—to make sure millions of Russians will that same night pass with us into the unknown. The fear of this retaliation is our defense. There we have it in a nutshell.

Our posture of strength, therefore, is supposed to give us what we need in order to be able to negotiate with Russia and settle peacefully the differences that separate the Communist and the Free World.

But is that the way it is working? The arms race is causing us to place our reliance ever more fully in force—destructive force. For, if we are attacked, we plan to retaliate, striking not only military targets but civilian centers as well—women, children, the old, the young—people, masses of people will be wiped out. That is the deterrent threat. That is what we have announced—and that, of course, is what Russia has threatened to do, too.

The very nature of nuclear defense accelerates the nuclear arms race. We can't stop research. We can't fall behind—or our defenses will no longer be a deterrent and then, of course, no longer a defense. Therefore, the search is for ever more perfect mass destructive weapons—thereby increasing fear and suspicion.

What will stop the arms race? Not fear of some weapon as yet unknown, but man's knowledge of what will happen to him if the nuclear weapons now in existence are used. Negotiations on disarmament will only be successful when the people of the world demand their success out of a deep understanding of the need for disarmament.

History has demonstrated that men, when faced with a common problem, by co-operative effort and faith, have been able to perform miracles. But problems must be recognized and faced to be overcome. The facts about hydrogen bombs and nuclear war are not secret. We cannot make them our own. We must carry the facts to others.

Surely, working for universal understanding of what a nuclear war would mean for all is the strongest deterrent—the most powerful that can be built.

Soviet Press Has Its Day

From the New York Herald Tribune

Recently the Soviet Union celebrated Freedom of the Press Day, with cartoons and editorials on the subject in all of its newspapers.

According to the Soviet view, only the Communist press is truly free (free, perhaps, of any obligation to such occasionally inhibiting considerations as truth).

And an editorial in Pravda expressed "sympathy for exploited colleagues in capitalist countries."

Thank you, Pravda—and our sympathies to you. It must have been a difficult day.

Disaster at His Heels

THE WIND, by Claude Simon. (Brazziller, 254 pgs., $3.50.)

Blowing human lives like leaves before it, penetrating, dry, and parching, oppressive and whirling little eddies of dust it has gathered from the days of men, this is a novel with a style and taste of its own, not easy to forget.

Its French author has taken something perhaps from Proust, something else maybe from Faulkner, but he is also an original and stands alone. Here he writes, sometimes with a caustic, cynical eye, sometimes with a compassionate touch, but always with a manner and an understanding all his own.

His pages will be remembered partly for his two extremes of rhetoric in which he veers from the biting, etched acid of brevity to a flowing turbulence of words which tumbles along for whole pages to complete a single sentence. See then for yourself—

". . . from the apparently uninhabited buildings with their closed shutters, their bare walls, their deserted courtyard where a few barrels with rusted hoops, a dismantled wagon, and piles of cast-off hencoops lay scattered about, abandoned in the blinding light like drying, whitening bones . . ."

What is this then about? To a small coastal town in France comes a stranger, Antoine Montes, to claim his inheritance. He's a bag of bones, a figure to make one laugh, a scarecrow—and yet some children hold him by the hand and some women see something there to love. One of them is Cecile, a sort of sixth cousin, and she is lost. One of them is Rose, a waitress with a bully-boy, and fate clutches at them, too, implacably.

For disaster is rushing headlong at his heels and Montes walks blindly through all his hours, just one step ahead, "constantly harried by that furious and impotent sense of urgency, of time running out, inexorable, threatening. . . ."

Simon's syntax and sense is labyrinthine and existentialist, intricate and involved, but he pierces human life in a painful clarity. As he exposes man's thoughts and desires, the light is at times almost blinding, as on one of those brilliant August days when the sun seems to burn in the sky. Here spins the sirocco, and his stylus sets it down, scorching, withdrawn, and scanning with an unendurable insight. "Is man like this?"—and Simon answers, "Yes."

DORIS FLEESON

Problems Ahead for Eisenhower

WASHINGTON.

PRESIDENT EISENHOWER will almost inevitably face a double-barreled crisis this summer which will bring the most acute test of his leadership since his inauguration in 1952.

Whether or not the foreign ministers of the great powers at Geneva arrive at any acceptable solution of the Berlin problem, a summit conference is bound to be held. It will not be the kind of a conference the President has demanded, which is a meeting to give the stamp of high approval to matters already agreed upon. By all indications the vital work will remain to be done when he, Khrushchev, Macmillan, and De Gaulle meet.

Fleeson

There is every indication, too, that almost simultaneously the United States democratic economy will be confronted with a steel strike, which will severely test the strength of the recent recovery from last year's recession.

Either problem would be enough to try the mettle of a President.

Three-Months' Strike Talk.

The President has given notice that he expects a non-inflationary solution from the steel talks, which are as yet getting nowhere. Yet, no matter what the eventual terms of settlement are, it appears that those aristocrats of labor, the steelworkers, and those aristocrats of industry, the steelmakers, are determined on a fight to the finish.

Charles M. White, chairman of the board of Republic Steel, says that the economy would sustain a steel strike of three months duration "without depriving anyone of necessities." Who "anyone" is, he does not explain.

There is little question that the nation's largest consumer of steel, the automobile industry, is primed for a strike. Various manufacturers are reputed to have stockpiled a four months' supply. Many other well-heeled industries have done likewise.

It is true that business for many manufacturers using steel has been better than expected this spring and some of them have already eaten into their protective stockpiles.

It is also true that there are countless small and medium-sized companies without the resources to lay in several months' supply of such a costly item as steel. A strike of even a month's duration would hurt them and hurt them badly.

With a Secretary of State new in the job and lacking a free and easy working arrangement with the President, much of the burden will fall on the President himself.

In the Summer's Heat.

No one now knows who will backstop the President in handling the forthcoming steel strike. Unquestionably Secretary of Labor James P. Mitchell will have a strong hand. Under ordinary circumstances, so would the Secretary of Commerce.

By the time the strike comes around, if and when it does, Lewis Strauss may or may not be in charge of Commerce. He and Mitchell might make an uneasy team for personal and ideological reasons.

If Strauss is confirmed, he still will have the burden of uneasy relations with the Senate. If he is not, a new secretary would be faced with the same problems that trouble Herter in establishing relationships with the President.

The temptation to get away from the heat, humidity, and the pressures of a Washington summer will be great on the President. But immediately before him will be these problems, domestic and international, for whose solutions time will not stand still.

FONTBONNE COLLEGE GIVES DEGREES TO 75

Competence Is Best Testament to Faith, Commencement Speaker Says.

Piety and sincere moral standards are no substitutes for competence, Stanley J. Idzerda, director of the Michigan State University Honors College, said here yesterday.

Speaking at the commencement exercises at Fontbonne College, Idzerda said there is no substitute for effective intelligence brought to bear upon the problems of the world. Auxiliary Bishop Leo C. Byrne conferred degrees on 75 women graduates in the ceremony in the college auditorium, 6700 Wydown boulevard.

One of the chief conditions of existence today, Idzerda said, is the high rate of change in professions. He told graduates their specific vocational training will not suffice in all aspects much beyond the next five years.

Calls for Excellence.

Stressing the importance of the vocation as a human being, he said it is easier "to put a satellite in orbit than to achieve human wisdom." The first and best witness to faith, he continued, is to show excellencies, both professional and human, before the world.

"While the graduates of a Catholic college may not be in the condition of the atheist existentialist who considers life to be 'nausea,' sometimes they go in the other direction and have an optimism in religious technique which seems to assume that faith is a series of trite formulas and platonic absolutes, serving as a communal tranquilizer," Idzerda said.

"The end result is a life barren of both religious and human values despite the formulas," he said. There are other sins than lust and adultery, and one of them is intellectual sloth, the speaker stated.

An anti-intellectual or non-intellectual Catholic should be a contradiction in terms, except for the fact that so many of them exist, Idzerda said.

Value of Arts.

He also emphasized the relation of the fine arts in the development of human personality. Churches may be filled, Idzerda said, but without vigorous patronage and critical audiences of the fine arts, "we still are in a state of spiritual impoverishment."

Miss Anne Niemeier, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Russe T. Niemeier, 7248 Winchester drive, Normandy, received the alumnae hood for a program of student service to underprivileged children and old persons which she developed through the college sodality. The award is presented annually to the graduate who has contributed most to the school.

GOOD CARE IS CALLED HOSPITAL'S NO. 1 JOB

Duquesne Dean Says Efficiency Must Have Qualitative Concept.

Hospital managers must always keep in mind the concept that a hospital's primary mission is taking good care of patients, James L. Hayes, dean of the school of business at Duquesne University, Pittsburgh, said here today.

Hayes addressed the first general session of the forty-fourth annual convention of the Catholic Hospital Association at Kiel Auditorium. The meeting, theme of which is "Management: A Sacred Trust," will end Thursday.

"Many people have interpreted the word efficient to be 'the most for the least, come what may'," he said. "This is not at all true. Efficiency must always have a qualitative concept.

"Therefore, efficiency in hospital administration has to do with maintaining good patient care, possibly even improving patient care, but spending less money."

Hayes urged that hospital administrators delegate authority for minor details in order to keep their desks clear for planning improvements. The administrator, he said, must master such areas as planning, organizing, co-ordinating, motivating and controlling.

"Hospitals that do not understand exactly where they ought to be five years from now are already lagging," he said. He asserted the burden of training future administrators was still chiefly on the hospitals themselves.

Keynote speaker at the opening session was the Rev. Patrick Gearty, assistant professor of economics, Catholic University, Washington, D.C.

Father Gearty said the responsibility of running a hospital involved an element of trust, to a far greater degree than would be true of operating an ordinary commercial business enterprise.

"The patient," he said, "has little freedom, normally, to shop around and choose what kind of service he will purchase. Obviously those charged with managing a hospital have a great trust placed in them by the patient, and it is a sacred trust."

Several thousand Religious who operate Catholic hospitals in the United States and Canada are attending the convention. Section meetings were scheduled this afternoon for dietary, laboratory, medical records, purchasing, X-ray and other departments.

The twelfth annual conference of Catholic Schools of Nursing was held over the weekend.

COMPANY, EMPLOYE FUNDS AID SCHOOLS

Corporations, Workers Join in Plan to Assist Universities.

By a Washington Correspondent Of the Post-Dispatch.

WASHINGTON, June 1—Workers and their employers, in increasing numbers, are joining forces in a "matching funds" plan for providing financial aid to education, a report made public today showed.

Under the plan, corporations agree to match, up to specified limits, gifts made by their employes to colleges and universities. The program has resulted in increased financial aid to a number of educational institutions and has had other beneficial results, a 32-page report prepared by the American alumni council said. The council represents nearly 950 universities, colleges and secondary schools.

The program has proved to be an attractive one to many businesses. The report noted that since 1954 when the first concern established a matching gift program, the plan has spread until now it is in operation at 69 firms.

In addition, the report stated: "Many more concerns are known to have the matter under active consideration for adoption in the near future."

Cross Section of Business.

The firms that have adopted the plan represent a substantial cross-section of the business world. Among them are large and small concerns, local and national organizations. They include banks, steel mills, utility firms, oil companies, chemical manufacturers, food processors and many others.

Although the plan originally contemplated gifts by men and women to institutions from which they had graduated, it also has attracted gifts from non-alumni and from workers who did not attend college.

The report related that at one chemical company a janitor who had not attended college gave $100 to help establish a scholarship fund at a leading university. His gift was matched by the firm for which he worked.

In another case, an employe of Dow Chemical Co., which has had a matching fund plan in operation for nearly two years, decided to establish a memorial scholarship at Alma College, Alma, Mich. The fund was named in honor of a graduate of the college, an employe of Dow, who was killed in an airplane crash along with his wife and four children, two of whom were adopted Japanese-American, the report stated, adding:

"Many employes who had no ties with Alma were moved by the tragedy and have contributed to this memorial fund. As a result, there is now a Japanese girl studying chemistry at Alma under the scholarship grant."

Started By G.E.

The first concern to establish the matching fund plan was General Electric Co., the study related. In about four years of operation, the program has resulted in total gifts of $800,000 by the concern to match an equal amount of contributions by its employes to colleges and universities. Total contributions made by other firms and their employes have not been computed, a spokesman for the council told the Post-Dispatch.

The original General Electric concept, providing for matching gifts made by employes to colleges or universities from which they had obtained degrees, has been broadened, principally as the result of a change pioneered by the Scott Paper Co. in 1956. The firm agreed to match gifts made to institutions which employes had not attended.

The revision has been adopted by many other concerns, with the result that now nearly two-thirds of the 69 firms at which the program is in operation will match gifts by employes to any approved college or university whether or not the workers attended the institutions.

Hemus Looks for Relief as Cardinals Continue to Tumble

Birds Are 8 Under .500 After L.A. Losses

By Bob Broeg
Post-Dispatch Sports Editor

LOS ANGELES, June 1—Solly Hemus, looking back at disappointment and ahead at uncertainty, today took his Cardinals into this month of marriage with the bold prediction that this ball club could honeymoon in first division with an improvement in pitching.

"I'd like another starter and reliever, said the freshman Redbird manager, "but I'd settle for another relief pitcher."

Hemus's brave forecast of an if-coming finish in the money came as the Cardinals slunk past the Memorial Day milestone practically tied for last place in the National League.

After losing 16 of their first 21 games, recovering briefly, then failing again in the West, the Redbirds reached this point of appraisal still eight games below .500. They lost again yesterday at the Los Angeles Coliseum to the Dodgers, 5 to 3, as southpaw Danny McDevitt showed them a bullpen knight in knickers.

19-21 A Year Ago.

A year ago the Cards started even poorer dropping 14 of their first 17 games, but by June 1 they were fifth with a 19-21 record—they're 18-26 now—and had gained the momentum that carried them into second place before they fell back again in July.

Then it was short-circuited power that proved costly and dropped the club back into a final tie for fifth and sixth. Now it's the pitching—young, inexperienced and apparently incompetent—that has failed. And with inadequate front-line hurling, the erratic relief pitching has become particularly critical.

Twice on the West Coast, where they lost four out of five, the Cardinals blew games late out of the bullpen, a 5-4 setback at San Francisco and a 7-6 chiller Saturday night at Los Angeles. In that one Ken Boyer's dramatic two-run homer inside the park in the first of the ninth was offset by Ron Fairly's four-base blow in the last half off Howard Nunn, making his first appearance in 16 games, and Gil Hodges's clincher off Lindy McDaniel two batters later.

Boyer Injured.

The Cardinals not only lost a bitter ball game, but their best player in that one. Big Boyer, sliding headfirst on his home-to-home dash, was spiked on the left hand by John Roseboro, Dodger catcher, and couldn't grip a bat properly to hit yesterday. However, he's expected to be back tomorrow night at Pittsburgh.

There, McDaniel will try to protect a 2-1 St. Louis lead in the seventh inning of a game suspended by the Pennsylvania Sunday curfew May 3. Either Wilmer Mizell or Larry Jackson will start the regularly-scheduled game.

"It's Jackson's turn, yes, but Mizell is our best pitcher now and he'll have had his normal rest," Hemus said, adding:

"We're only a couple of pitchers away from being able to make our move. The hitting that was so poor at the beginning of the season has come around. We're now among the best three or four teams in the league offensively. With Alex Grammas back in there, we'll be solid enough again in the infield, defensively, and we've been able to maneuver a tighter outfield into the game when we get a lead."

The catch, of course, is that a lead must be held.

"I've liked McDaniel in relief," Hemus said, "But he can't be overworked. We'll need another one to come through for us. Trade possibilities are remote."

Uncle Marv Is Ready.

Forty-year-old Marv Grissom, obtained from San Francisco last winter, pitched batting practice again yesterday and reported he was ready to come off the disabled list, but Hemus said he'd wait a few more days for warmer weather before deciding which pitcher will have to come off to make room for Uncle Marv.

Nunn, who pitched after Blaylock was lifted in the sixth inning yesterday, might go, though a reserve outfielder, probably Chick King, could be spared even more.

Blaylock, handicapped himself with five walks, three during a three-run first inning, yielded five runs before he was replaced in the sixth. Gary has been in-and-out as a starter, but, presumably because beggars can't be choosers, Hemus said:

"I believe Blaylock is almost there." Solly didn't say where.

With service returnee Tom Cheney even wilder — he has lasted only three innings in two starts—Hemus said he'd probably return to Ernie Broglio, another rookie who began the season as No. 3 on the front-line, failed and went on K.P. as a mop-up man of the mound. The manager now plans to find whether Broglio can pitch nearly as well ahead as he did while trailing.

As the Mighty Mouse found day after day during April and May, a sad seven weeks in which 14 of his first 26 defeats were by one run, there's a definite difference in performance when a club and a pitcher are in front and when they're behind.

Steal, Delayed but Not Tardy

WALLY MOON (9) of the Los Angeles Dodgers, slides safely into second base on a delayed steal in the second inning of the Sunday game with the Cardinals. DON BLASINGAME, second baseman, leaps high for the throw from Hal Smith. The Dodgers won the game, 5-3.

Gene Freese Near Record with Five Pinch Hit Homers

MILWAUKEE, June 1 (AP) —Philadelphia infielder Gene Freese wouldn't mind being traded to the first place Milwaukee Braves—but he's afraid his batting average would dip.

"If I hit against the Braves all year, I'd lead the league in everything," Freese said with a big laugh yesterday after closing to within one of the major league record of six pinch-homers.

The single-season record of six pinch homers was set by Johnny Frederick of Brooklyn in 1932.

In 17 pinch-hitting appearances, he has seven hits, including five homers. And three of the homers heve been off Milwaukee pitching, one each against Lew Burdette, Juan Pizarro and Warren Spahn.

He stepped from the dugout yesterday and ruined Spahn's bid for National League shutout No. 46. Gene didn't waste any time, either. He slammed the first pitch high over the fence in left center in the eigth inning.

The Braves reportedly sought Freese in the spring to help out at second base. They probably wish they had obtained him—for self protection.

Knotholers' Shirts Add to Redbird Woes

LOS ANGELES, June 1—As a result largely of Sandy Koufax's knack for firing strikes past hitters, Danny McDevitt's dandy relief pitching and the bad batting background of the Coliseum, the National League record for two-team strikeouts was tied in yesterday's Cardinal-Dodger game.

Fourteen Redbirds and nine Bums fanned as the two clubs matched a mark achieved five times in the N.L. this century. Curiously, Koufax, though only 24 and never a winning pitcher, has been involved in the four games of the record shared by the Dodgers—in 1955 against Cincinnati, '57 against Chicago, last year against Philadelphia and yesterday against the Cards.

This time Sandy struck out nine in six innings before McDevitt, another southpaw, took over in the seveth with the bases loaded and none out to protect Koufax's shaky 5-3 victory and whiff five of the nine batters he retired.

Dodgers Moan, Too.

Los Angeles batters moaned over the poor hitting background afforded by the multi-colored shirts and caps of Los Angeles knothole gang members in a 56,579 crowd that contained only 24,829 cash customers. The Cardinals were even more unhappy.

"McDevitt was very good," said Stan Musial, hitless in five trips and summing up clubhouse comment, "but the fact that you couldn't pick up his sinker and curve until they were on you made him better—much better."

Said McDevitt, smiling, "Funny thing, in the bullpen I didn't think I had anything. Out there, though, I had everything."

He certainly did. He came in with three on in the seventh, none down, and got Musial on a foul fly, then fanned both Ray Jablonski and Joe Cunningham. That was the ball game.

Coast Record: 3 and 8.

The West Coast has been most unkind to the Cards. This season they've lost eight of 11 here and over the last two years 23 of 33. . . . Charley Neal belted a legitimate homer off Gary Blaylock in the fourth inning yesterday for the Dodgers. The two the Cards hit, Jabbo's second of the season and Don Blasingame's first, were short flies that just cleared the 40-foot screen only 250 feet or so from the plate.

L.A. stole three bases, mostly off Redbird pitchers rather than Catcher Hal Smith. . . . Ex-Cardinal Wally Moon got one, a delayed steal, his seventh theft of the season, to go with a safe bunt, walk and single as he outplayed—for a day—Gino Cimoli, who has been doing a fine job for the Cardinals. Cimoli fanned three times. So did Chuck Essegian, who never did come close to hitting the left field fence in either game at the Coliseum. . . . The major league two-club strikeout record, 24, was set by Washington and Cleveland in 1956.

The decisive inning was the first, in which the Dodgers scored three times on a walk to Gilliam, Moon's safe bunt, a pass to Gil Hodges, plus singles by Ron Fairly and Don Demeter. —B.B.

U.S. Open Is Beman's Next Goal

BETHESDA, Md., June 1 (UPI) — Deane Beman, back home after winning the British amateur golf championship, set his sights today on two other cherished goals — the National Open title and a chance to play with President Eisenhower.

The 21-year-old University of Maryland student takes a step today toward the first objective. He will be one of 37 golfers playing 36-holes on the Congressional Country Club course for a chance to earn one of 12 qualifying spots in the National Open.

Beman will be making the try with only one day of "rest" since winning the British title by defeating fellow American Bill Hyndman, 3 and 2, in the final. And that day consisted of flying the Atlantic in a jet airliner and being accorded a hero's welcome at Washington National Airport.

His ambition to play with the world's best-known golfer — Eisenhower — was expressed in reply to a reporter's question. Asked if he would like to play a round with the President, Beman said:

"Are you kidding! There is nobody I'd rather play with than the President of the United States."

If and when Beman is invited by the President, the round likely would be played at Burning Tree Club, just down the road from the Congressional course, and not far from Bethesda Country Club where he started learning his golf just nine years ago.

Among other top-flight golfers seeking to qualify in the Open trial at Congressional will be the veteran Sammy Snead, who has found the National Open the most elusive prize in his 25 years as a pro.

Beman, youngest American ever to capture the British championship, was cheered by more than 100 persons on his arrival at National Airport last night.

"I feel great," the young golfer said as he waved and shouted hellos to the many familiar faces in the cheering crowd.

Jockey Ralph Neves In Critical Condition Following Race Spill

INGLEWOOD, Calif., June 1 (UPI) — Veteran Jockey Ralph Neves remained in critical condition today from injuries suffered Saturday when thrown from a horse at Hollywood Park.

Neves, 41, was kept under sedation, but a hospital spokesman said he was improving. He underwent a two-and-a-half hour brain surgery following the accident.

Neves, riding Rhin in the third race, was moving to the front when his mount apparently clipped the heels of another horse and went to its knees. Neves rolled over several times, but apparently was not stepped on. Doctors diagnosed his injuries as fractures of two vertebrae and a basal skull fracture with internal cranial hemorrhage.

Neves has ridden more than 3200 winners in his 25 years as a jockey and has taken numerous spills. In 1936 at Bay Meadows, he was pronounced dead after a tumble, but after an injection of adrenaline, he revived.

Cahokia Betting Hits $224,842 a Day Average

By Herman Wecke

Officials of Cahokia Downs expressed themselves as well pleased with the mutuel handle of the holiday weekend, when $707,210 passed through the mutuel windows.

The Friday night handle totalled $281,314, while on Memorial Day, the 8760 fans wagered $425,896 on the nine races. The big holiday handle was the first over the $300,000 mark for the 25 days-and-nights of racing and was the largest since last July 12, when 10,799 fans bet $438,913 on the Derby Night program.

For the first quarter of the meet, a total of $5,621,069 has been wagered for a daily average of $224,842.

On all but one race, the Saturday handle was larger than on last year's Memorial Day events. Oddly enough, the biggest single handle was not on one of the handicaps, but on a one mile and 70 yard event on which $51,548 passed through the windows.

Here's a comparison of the two years handle:

Beck Retains Lead.

C. Wayne Beck, who is recovering from injuries suffered in a recent spill, retained his lead in the race for jockey honors with 31 firsts. Ray Landing moved into second place with 17 trips into the winner's circle. Jake Colclasure and Jimmy Vinson are tied for third with 15 firsts each. The suspended Wayne Stevens has 14 wins and Jimmy Dailey 11. Stevens, set down by the stewards for rough riding, will be eligible to ride again June 12.

William A. Clark and E. C. Logsdon continue to pace the trainers. Clark has saddled 14 winners for Carroll P. Poland, St. Louis owner, while Logsdon has had 10 winners. Fred Roenigke, last year's champion, is tied for third with A. L. Oxford and Art Dishong with six wins. Dishong, a late arrival, has had six winners, five seconds and one third.

Gray Horse Race.

Jimmy Clemens, who rode 25 winners to rank third at the Ascot Park meet, will ride free lance at Cahokia. . . . However Thurman Gammon, the Wayne City (Ill.) owner, will have first call on his services. . . . Among recent claims at Cahokia were the following: Edgar G. to A. L. Oxford; Lord Cassar to Tom Preutt; Vinita Moss to Virginia Enterprises, Inc.; Mr. Mo Bo to Mrs. Charles Nagle and Overside to J. Clark. . . .

A race that may cause a lot of trouble for Announcer Tod Creed and Chartmaker Jimmy Hahn will be run Thursday night. . . . It will be the Gray Ghost Handicap in which nothing but grays will be entered. . . . The race will be over the six and one-half furlong route.

Patterson Goes Fast 5 Rounds

CHATHAM, N.J., June 1 (UPI) — Heavyweight Champion Floyd Patterson went through an unusually stiff sparring session yesterday in preparation for his title defense against Ingemar Johansson.

Tossing leather at top speed, Floyd boxed one round each with five sparmates. Each mate could go all-out, since he was slated for but one round.

Nearly 200 spectators in Emsan's gymnasium applauded the action in almost every round. The champion concentrated on rapid-fire combinations to body and head.

The five sparmates were Billy Tisdale, Howie Davis, Lou Jones, Solomon McTier and Johnny Byrd.

Patterson did no roadwork Sunday morning. He went to Our Lady of Peace Church at nearby Providence, N.J.

GROSSINGER, N.Y., June 1 (UPI) — Sparring partners tore into heavyweight challenger Ingemar Johansson.

Because the blond Swede refuses to hurt his sparmate by throwing right hands at them, Promoter Bill Rosensohn—visiting camp—told the mates to rip into Ingemar and force him to throw the right.

Accordingly, Johansson threw more rights yesterday than in all his previous preparations for the June 25 title fight with Patterson. But none of the maulers was hurt.

Ingemar sparred two rounds each with Bill Johnson, Artie Towne and Clarence Floyd, and one round with brother Rolf Johansson, a middleweight.

Today Ingemar and his family of five motors into New York to lunch with Dag Hammarskjold of Sweden, secretary-general of the United Nations.

Whitt Shoots Final 67 for 274 to Win Louisville Open Meet

Goalby Finishes With 278

LOUISVILLE, Ky., June 1 (AP)—Golf pro Don Whitt is on a hot streak and he's making it pay off handsomely. In six days he's added $6300 to his bankroll.

Many tournament players have been saying that all the stockily built Whitt needed was a tournament victory and he'd be on his way.

Whitt apparently proved the point yesterday by capturing the Kentucky Derby Open. Only last Monday he came through in the Memphis Open after a playoff.

Whitt's 72-hole total was 274, a stroke better than runner-up Jim Ferree playing out of Crystal River, Fla.

Dick Knight of San Diego, Calif., Ernie Vossler of Midland, Texas, Dave Ragan of Chattanooga and Doug Ford of Paradise, Fla., finished at 276 to tie for third.

Bob Goalby, the muscular Belleville, Ill., pro who led the field by five going into the last round, shot a 77 and wound up at 278.

Whitt claimed that a new mallet-head putter he bought at Hot Springs, Ark., was highly instrumental in his victory. He said the win at Memphis gave him immeasurable confidence.

On the hilly 6, 542-yard Seneca golf club course he put together rounds of 70-64-73-67 to earn first money of $2800.

The 28-year-old Borrego Springs, Calif., pro was four under par Sunday. He said the turning point came on the third hole where he had a birdie four. Whitt used only 31 putts and on no green did he have more than two putts.

Ferree, who picked up $1800, missed a chance to tie when he was high on a five foot putt on the eighteenth green, a shot that might have cost him $900. His final round was a 68.

Knight, Vossler, Ragan and Ford earned $1175 apiece.

Typographical Errors Help Carondelet Win

By Bob Posen

Moderation in movement was commendable for motorists on the Memorial day weekend, but caution was costly for the Union Printers baseball team. They played it safe on the base paths and lost, 5-4, to Carondelet Sunday Morning Club in a Muny League game at Fairground Park yesterday.

Each of these two strong entries in the North and South Side traveling league had lost a week ago, so both needed to win to stay up in their pennant races.

Carondelet wiped out a 2-1 Printer lead with four runs in the sixth, on three walks off Ron Neighbor, Marv Stendel's two-run single and a two-run error.

But the South Side team's 5-2 lead looked shaky in the eighth when singles by Stan Mann and Frank Bono and a wild pitch by Wally Holder gave the Printers runners on second and third with one out.

Mike Scaglione looped a single to center, scoring Mann, but Bono advanced only to third while the outfield throw came into second to keep Scaglione, the potential tying run, from getting farther than first. And Bono didn't get another chance to score, as Bob Murphy hit into a double play to end the inning.

The run that didn't score but might have, looked bigger in the ninth after the Printers added one run that still left them trailing, 5-4.

Win on Three Hits.

The winning C.S.M.A.C. made only three hits but got help from 12 walks and four errors. Holder scattered eight hits, struck out six and didn't walk anyone, and overcame the handicap of another four errors.

The Independent Hawks took only five innings to run up a 24-1 victory over United Auto Workers Local Twenty-Five in the second game. J. Burrows had four hits, twice as many as the losers made off C. Miller in the game which ended early because of a time limit.

Carondelet was helped in its South Side pennant fight by the two other North Side teams. Undefeated Kutis North whipped the Kimacks, 8-3, and Borbein-Young trimmed Kutis South, 12-7, in a doubleheader at Carondelet Park. Ed Gerken and Don Mumm pitched for Kutis North, allowing six hits and no walks.

Seven Runs in Eighth.

Borbein-Young, moving fast since suffering two close defeats, scored seven runs in the eighth inning to overcome Kutis South. Bob Loeser's three-run triple was the biggest blow. Leftfielder Jack Netzebrand of B-Y made a fine catch of Ted Lampros's long fly in the sixth.

The undefeated Hoffmeisters, getting two doubles and two singles from Ed Barry and a long home run plus two singles from Ed Kestler, walloped the Slays, 15-2, in the Heine Meine League. The Fendlers and Villas each scored four runs in the ninth and their 6-6 tie was called after 11 innings, to be finished later. In a Saturday game that was ordered played instead of awarding an early season forfeit to the Villas, the Fendlers took advantage of the second chance and won, 4-2.

The unbeaten Blackhawks, paced by Clemmie Cannon's four hits, whipped the Monarchs, 15-4, in a Metropolitan League game. William Adolph struck out 11 Rams as the St. Louis Cubs won, 5-4, in 10 innings.

The Masters A.C. increased its lead in the Lemay League, winning 8-1 over Rosati K. of C. on Gary Schoen's two-hitter. He struck out 12 and walked two for his second victory in four days. Ted Stergen homered in the eighth to tie the score and led Jefferson to a 5-2 win over Vonder Haar.

Braves Down Stars In Tandy Opener

The Braves took an 8-0 lead and beat the Stars, 11-4, as the Tandy Baseball League opened its thirty-seventh season yesterday. Leonard Clark led the winners with three hits, William Johnson had two, including a homer, and William Jenkins had two, a triple and a double.

The Dodgers were awarded a forfeit when Wagner didn't show up at game time.

One-Man Gang, Age 9

Tommy McDermott age 9, struck out the maximum of 15 batters in a five-inning game, allowed one hit and connected for two home runs himself as the Supremes defeated Holy Trinity, 12-2, in a Khoury League Atom Division baseball game at Sherman Park.

Shutouts Feature in Inter-City

Three shutouts highlighted baseball in the Southwestern Illinois Inter-City League yesterday. One came as East St. Louis, on its way to the Blue Division lead, swept a doubleheader from Highland.

After an error and Ray McAteer's single gave East St. Louis a 4-3 win in the opener, Charley Hopkins pitched a six-hit shutout in the second game. The other whitewashes were by Greenville's George Bauer, 2-0, over the Steelworkers, and by Venice's Cecil Simpson, an 18-0 five-inning job against the Steel company.

Bauer bested Andy Angeloff in a pair of six-hitters, while Simpson pitched a two-hitter and batted in three runs. Teammate Jim O'Master batted in five.

Collinsville, the Red Division leader and the league's only undefeated team, defeated Troy, 12-4, as Chuck Jones batted in five runs in one inning. He had a triple and double as the Boosters scored eight in the third. Second place Sacred Heart beat Maryville, 9-2.

Dick Weber Wins Eastern Pin Title

PARAMUS, N.J., June 1 (AP) — Dick Weber, slim 127-pound bowler from St. Louis, won the Eastern Open Bowling classic over the weekend by a margin of nine pins over Joe Joseph of Detroit.

Starting the last game of the 24-game series in the 3-day competition Weber led Joseph by 52 pins. The Detroiter made a whirlwind finish with a 256 to Weber's 213, but it was not enough.

Weber finished with a total of 5298 for an average of 220.10. He won the first prize of $2500 put up by the Professional Bowlers Association of America. Joseph wound up with 5289 and second place money of $2000.

Lou Campi, of Dumont, N.J. finished third with 5232 and prize money of $1500.

The East and West high school stars will meet in three games as will the Juco aces of the North and South. Bond is on the East squad, while Tolen is with the northern team.

Zeilmann, 16; C flight, Mrs. M. W. Westmoreland, 16. The top two flights competed over the 18-hole course and the others over the nine.

Remember? 5...15...25 Years Ago

1934 — As the pennant races passed the Memorial day milestone, Cardinal Manager Eddie Stanky stuck by his spring prediction of a seven-team battle in the National League. With Stan Musial and Ray Jablonski 1-2 in league batting with averages of .374 and .373, the Redbirds were in fifth place, two and one-half games from the leading Braves. . . . Bill Vukovich won his second straight 500-mile race at Indianapolis, setting a record of 130.840 m.p.h.

1944—Gene Moore starred in the league-leading Browns' 4-3 night victory over Washington in 11 innings. . . . Rip Sewell pitched the Pirates past the Dodgers, 2-1. Apprentice rider J. Dean Jessop scored his first victory at Fairmount race track.

1934 — The Cardinals, leading the National League after winning 23 of their last 29 games, faced a crucial series at Pittsburgh. . . . The fifth-place Browns of Rogers Hornsby faced Cleveland, the American League leaders managed by Walter Johnson.

Universals Edge Khoury Democrats

A four-run rally in the top half of the seventh inning was wasted by the Second Ward Democrats as Universal came back with one in the last half of the inning to win, 9-8, in a Khoury Senior Missouri League game at Fairground Park yesterday. Don Smith had four hits. Don Ciarmitro hit two home runs as the North Side Yanks downed St. Liborius, 11-4, in the league's other game.

Three shutouts were recorded, two of them in the University City League. Commercial Credit topped All Saints, 7-0, and Chamber of Commerce won, 11-0, over Mobilfone. The Doyle Brothers' Jim Summers stopped the Gusdorfs, 11-0, on three hits, getting help from Bob Thomas, who had three hits and two walks in the St. Louis League contest.

Three-hit pitching by Leroy Grover and a perfect throw to the plate by Right Fielder Bill Alexander gave the Southwest Kiwanis juniors a 1-0 victory Sunday at Highland, Ill. The game officially opened the Interstate League, a 17-year-old traveling Khoury loop. Alexander's throw cut down a Highland runner just after the Kiwanis team had taken a 1-0 lead on a bases-loaded walk by George Peach.

Saturday, at Old Mines, Mo., Ron Huegerich of Kiwanis pitched a two-hitter in a 16-2 victory over the St. Joachim juniors.

Miss Wright Triumphs in Golf Event

VIRGINIA BEACH, Va., June 1 (UPI)—Mickey Wright of Bonita, Calif., says she played three of her most consistent rounds of golf this year in setting a new L.P.G.A. circuit record and winning the Cavalier women's invitational golf tournament.

Miss Wright fired a steady one-over-par 70 Sunday for a 54-hole total of 207 and $997.50 in prize money. Mickey, in her fifth year in pro golf, won by two strokes over Beverly Hanson of Indio, Calif., who held the lead through the first two rounds.

Miss Wright said she did not putt as well Sunday as she did on the first two days.

Miss Hanson, who had a bogey five on the fifty-fourth hole and wound up with a final round 209, said she felt she had not "used enough club" when she hit an iron shot short of the eighteenth green on the fifty-fourth hole and buried the ball in the sand.

After landing in the trap from the tee on the eighteenth hole, Miss Hanson failed to reach the green on her second shot and ruined her chances of catching Miss Wright.

The win was the second major tournament victory for Miss Wright this year. She captured the 1959 Jacksonville (Fla.) Open.

Her 207 total was three strokes under the 210 record in the ladies' golf loop set two weeks ago by Joyce Ziske of Milwaukee, at Southern Pines, N.C.

Fay Crocker of Montevideo, Uruguay, fired a par 69 Sunday to take third place with a 214. Bonnie Randolph of Jupiter, Fla., was fourth at 215, one stroke ahead of Betty Dodd of San Antonio, Tex., who shot Sunday's lowest score, 32-36—68.

Homer Clark's 99 Wins Trapshoot Title

Seventy-four-year-old Homer Clark Sr. broke 99 out of 100 targets to win the 16-yard event in the inaugural trapshoot of the Jennings Gun Club. In the handicap event, Roger Farley and M. R. Kennedy tied with 94 apiece. Earl Roth's 186 x 200 brought him the doubles championship.

Rodger Ward to Go Right on Racing--Mostly for U.S. Treasury

500 Win Is Worth $106,850

INDIANAPOLIS, June 1 (AP) —Rodger Ward, loaded down with loot from the richest auto race ever run, will go right on competing in the world's most dangerous sport.

Ward and his car owner, Leader Cards, Inc., of Miwaukee, won $106,850 in the forty-third 500-mile race Saturday. The World War II fighter pilot's take under the customary contract would be 40 per cent, $42,740.

That means Ward will be risking his neck largely for the United States Treasury the rest of this season—but his pretty brunette wife, Jo, says he probably would race for nothing.

"I'm going to make the rest of the U.S.A.C. championship races and possibly some sports car events if I can get a good car," Ward said.

Next Race Sunday.

His next race will be the 100-miler at Milwaukee next Sunday.

The last two Indianapolis winners, Sam Hanks and Jimmy Bryan, passed up the rest of the circuit after their big winings at the Speedway.

It took Ward nine attempts before he won the big pot. Only a dedicated race driver would have continued after his experience in the 1955 Memorial day classic. His front axle broke, triggering the four-car crash that killed two-time-winner Bill Vukovich. He entered the 500 again the next year and finished eighth—his best until last Saturday.

Escapes Again.

Ward escaped injury in another sensational crash April 4 at Daytona Beach, in a 50-mile event that followed the world's record 100-miler in which he finished second to Jim Rathmann of Miami.

Ward seemed headed for a "bridesmaid's" season when he finished second to Tony Bettenhausen, Tinley Park, Ill., in another championship race April 19 at Trenton, N.J. He put an end to that pattern last Saturday.

Ward set a Speedway record of 135.857 miles an hour, beating Jim Rathmann by 23.27 seconds or about a mile. Rathmann's speed of 135.619 also topped Hanks' 1957 record of 135.601.

It turned out to be a four-car race and Ward got a big assist from his smooth pit crew and air jacks which were installed in his A. J. Watson-built car. He made three stops for fuel and tires in a grand total of one minute and 13 seconds.

"They were so fast I didn't have time to catch my breath," Ward said.

Johnny Thomson of Boyertown, Pa., the fastest qualifier, had to make four pit stops, broke a torsion bar spring and finished third.

Ward let Rathmann, Thomson and Pat Flaherty of Chicago, the 1956 winner, do most of the fighting for the lead in the first half of the race while he conserved his tires to save a pit stop.

Flaherty crashed into the main-stretch wall on his 163rd lap of the 200-lap race but escaped injury. Ward led the last 115 laps.

No Fatalities.

There were six mishaps, injuring two drivers and a crewman, but no fatalities. Two drivers had been killed in practice runs earlier in the month, bringing the Speedway toll to 50 deaths in 50 years.

Ray Crawford, Pasadena, Calif., and Mike Magill, Haddonfield, N. J., were injured Saturday in wrecks and a crew man suffered burns when the car of Dick Rathmann, San Gabriel, Calif., caught fire in the pits. Dick suffered slight burns but declined medical aid.

Dick is a brother of Jim, who now has finished second three times in the 500-miler. One of the oddities of auto racing is the fact that brothers actually use each other's names.

Jim, originally Dick, is the younger. He started racing while he was a minor and borrowed his older brother's license. Dick, originally Jim, became a race driver later and the simplest thing was to call himself Dick.

Russo Is Ninth.

Bettenhausen finished fourth for the second straight year. Paul Goldsmith of St. Clair Shores, Mich., eliminated in the 15-car smashup last year in his first start, took fifth.

The first 10 were rounded out by Johnny Boyd, Duane Carter, Eddie Johnson, Paul Russo of Webster Groves, Mo., and A. J. Foyt, in that order.

Two protests were filed after the official finish was announced.

That of Russo and car owner Fred Gerhardt, that they finished sixth, was disallowed. Bob Veith, first announced as ninth, protested when he was pushed down to 14th. He wound up 12th. The decisions were based on a review of the scoring tape.

Double Pays $4804

VANCOUVER, B.C., June 1 (AP)—A pair of 20-1 shots combined to put $4804.20 into the pockets of two bettors at Exhibition Park in the largest daily double payoff ever recorded at a British Columbia race track. The two bettors held tickets on Broken Bottles ($46.70) in the first race and Rely ($47.30) in the second.

Finish of Record-Smashing Relay

RALPH ALSPAUGH, anchor man for the Texas University 440-yard relay team is shown winning over San Jose State's RAY NORTON in the world record time of 39.6 seconds. This was one of the several sensational performances in the California Relays, at Modesto, Saturday. The record now on the books, 39.7, was set a year ago by the Abilene Christian team.

Son Born to Widow Of Race Car Driver

PITTSBURGH, June 1 (UPI) —A son was born to the widow of the late Dick Linder, Pittsburgh auto racer who had planned to enter the 500-mile race at Indianapolis.

The baby, Richard James Linder, was born on Memorial day, the day of the famous race in which Linder was set to compete.

The Pittsburgh driver was killed about six weeks ago when his racing car crashed over a wall at Trenton, N.J., where he was competing in the 100-mile United States Auto Club national championships.

Texans Set Record in 440 Relay

MODESTO, Calif., June 1 (AP) —Oregon and Texas stole the show at the eighteenth annual California Relays, Saturday.

Unheralded Roscoe Cook, a 20-year-old University of Oregon sophomore, surprised one of the finest sprint lineups ever assembled to win the 100-yard dash with a world record tying 9.3 seconds.

An hour later, the University of Texas sprint relay team clipped a tenth of a second from the world record for the 440-yard relay. The Longhorn quartet of Wally Wilson, Eddie Southern, Hollis Gainy and Ralph Alspaugh zipped the quarter mile in 39.6 seconds, erasing the mark set here last year by Abilene Christian.

Two other Oregon runners turned in great performances. Junior Otis Davis won the 440 in 46.2 seconds, the fastest quarter mile time this year. Freshman Dyrol Burleson won the open mile with 4:06.7, matching his own record for a freshman mile, set earlier this year at the Drake relays.

Hayes Jones, Eastern Michigan hurdler, was the only double winner, copping both hurdle events. He broke the relays record with 22.5 in the 120-yard lows and equalled the meet record with 13.6 in the 120-yard high hurdles.

In winning the century, Cook bested three men who had already tied the world record—Norton, Olympic champ Bobby Morrow and Morrow's former teammate from Abilene Christian, Bill Woodhouse. Cook finished a long stride ahead of Norton. Norton, Sidney Garton of East Texas State and Bobby Poynter of San Jose all were timed in 9.4. Morrow finished fifth and Woodhouse farther back. One watch clocked Cook in 9.2.

Morrow came back strong to win the 220 in 20.5 seconds but after that Norton went to town. The tall San Jose lad anchored his team to second place behind the Texans as the Longhorns smashed the world record. San Jose, in that race, equaled the previous world record of 39.7.

Then, in a real thriller, a fantastic anchor leg by Norton gave San Jose a victory over Texas in the 880-yard relay. When Norton grabbed the second of two poor baton passes in the race, he was almost 10 yards behind Texas' Eddie Southern.

With the crowd of 10,120 on its feet and screaming, Norton overtook Southern on the turn and beat him to the tape by five yards. He was credited with an unofficial 19.8 for the 220-yard sprint, two tenths of a second better than the recognized world standard for the furlong.

Mike Peakes of Colorado captured the 880 in 1:50.2.

A second tournament record was set by Pat McBride of Grand Rapids, Mich., who took the all-events crown with 1927.

Mae Bolt of Chicago, last year's all-events winner, finished first in singles with 664.

Ending as doubles champions were Sylvia Wene and Adele Isphording, both of Philadelphia, with 1263.

Amateur Winner in 312-Mile Auto Race

CARPENTERSVILLE, Ill., June 1 (UP)—Jim Jeffords, a Milwaukee amateur sports car driver, piloted his Scarab to victory in all three heats of Meadowdale raceway's 312-mile run yesterday, setting two lap records en route to victory.

There were five major crackups during the three heats, each covering 104.64 miles, 32 laps of the 3.4 mile course, but no driver was injured.

Jeffords was clocked at 87.38 miles an hour for the first heat, at 87.42 m.p.h. in the second heat and 88.20 m.p.h. in the third heat.

In the first heat, he turned one lap at 89.1 m.p.h. to break the previous record of 88.41, and in the second heat Jeffords hung up a 90.7 m.p.h. speed for one lap to break his own mark.

Jeffords copped the points award with 628, 209 1-3 for each heat win. Lloyd Ruby, Houston, Tex., ran second in a Maserati in the first heat and third in the last two to take second place in points with 439. Third in the point standings was Augie Pabst, Milwaukee, driving a Ferrari, who ran fourth, fifth and then second to get 397 1-3 points.

Art Bunker, Kansas City, Mo., an amateur driving a Porschersk, also was a victim of an accident, but took fourth in the points standings with 376 1-3. Bunker was running well up in the third heat when he tipped over on a turn on the last lap and failed to finish.

IRAQ ABROGATES U.S. ECONOMIC AND MILITARY PACTS

BAGHDAD, Iraq, June 1 (AP)—The American embassy said today Iraq has renounced American military aid on the ground it conflicts with the country's positive neutrality policy.

The Iraqi Foreign Ministry sent a note to the embassy Saturday terminating the military assistance agreement of 1954, the supplement to the military agreement signed a year later, and the 1957 economic assistance agreement.

The politely-phrased note emphasized the abrogation was not meant as an unfriendly act.

"We desire a growth of friendship between the two countries on the basis of mutual understanding and friendship," it said.

Under the military aid agreement the United States gave Iraq a battalion of eight-inch howitzers—the biggest guns owned by any army in the Middle East, a large amount of motor transport and signal equipment, some World War II American tanks, some big British Centurion tanks purchased by the United States from the English, and five Sabre-jet fighter planes.

A total of 2156 automobiles were examined in a four-day safety check conducted last week by the Safety Council of Greater St. Louis, it was announced today. The checks were made at the Steinberg Memorial skating rink in Forest Park.

Of the total, 1138 cars, or 52 per cent, were found to have one or more defects. Defects in lights, tires, brakes and exhaust pipes were the most common.

The tests were voluntary on the part of motorists. Object of the program was to reduce accidents due to mechanical failure, especially over holiday weekends.

In a similar inspection last year, 60 per cent of the cars tested were found to have some defect, the Safety Council said.

KING BAUDOUIN BACK IN BELGIUM AFTER U.S. TRIP

BRUSSELS, June 1 (UPI) — Belgian King Baudouin arrived home today by plane from the United States. He was met at the airport by the entire royal family, headed by ex-King Leopold and his wife Princess Liliane.

The people of Belgium had prepared a welcome demonstration of support for the youthful King, but the presence of his father at the airport made things strained.

Leopold has been the center of criticism for his alleged undue influence over Baudouin. Leopold's role so strained the national temper that he and Liliane moved out of the royal palace during Baudouin's trip to the United States.

The Socialists have demanded a parliamentary debate on Leopold's role, and the ex-King had been expected to be absent from the airport today. But not long before Baudouin's arrival, a palace announcement pointedly mentioned him as among those present at the welcoming ceremonies.

Aid Bill

subsidy aid is a necessary precondition for true development, it is not development in itself. India can survive without subsidy — though it cannot develop without help. Laos cannot even survive.

The main hope of officials here is that gradually some of the presently subsidized nations will approach economic "viability" and thus cross into the category of underdeveloped nations which qualify for development-type assistance.

By United Press International.

Mansfield Proposals.

Senate Democratic whip Mike Mansfield of Montana replied today to critics of his proposals to revamp the foreign aid program.

He prepared for Senate delivery a point-by-point answer to recent criticism of his proposals by Saccio.

With his speech, Mansfield presented five proposed amendments to President Eisenhower's $3,900,000,000 foreign aid authorization request. They would provide an end to outright economic aid in four years and abolish the ICA, with the State Department taking over its functions.

He said his proposal for ending economic grants by 1963 would force the Administration—and foreign countries—to plan for getting the economies of underdeveloped nations on a self-sustaining basis through loans. The "Point Four" program of technical assistance would continue.

Mansfield said he thought the ICA should be abolished to eliminate confusing lines of authority between it and the State Department.

Other Mansfield proposals would:

Require full public disclosure on the total cost of the aid program in any receiving country; military aid figures now usually are secret.

The Secretary of State would be given more power over military assistance as well as economic aid.

Military defense spending would be budgeted "to make certain that each dollar spent for such aid is better spent abroad than at home."

lute the air are being moved away from the city.

The once narrow, cobblestone avenues which radiate from Red Square are now 12 lanes wide and it takes courage and skill to cross these fields of asphalt filled with charging trucks and cars.

People Better Dressed.

On the sidewalks, instead of the formless bundles of shabby black coats that once plodded the streets, there are now neatly dressed women in bright clothing, their hair carefully brushed and their faces made up. With them hurry men in business suits that might have come from Seventh avenue.

But like housing, clothing is still in very short supply and by American standards extremely expensive. As I drove through the streets one day recently I saw women in a double line a block long waiting outside a store marked "Shoes—Women's." Across the street a squad of burly girls in padded work clothes were spreading tar and driving steamrollers over the potholes created by the winter's frost.

In the grocery stores the wooden hams and sausages, which were the only decoration a decade ago, have been replaced by attractive displays of a variety of foodstuffs from corn flakes to caviar, which, though expensive, are more abundant than at any time in Soviet history.

Perhaps a more significant change than houses, clothes and food, is the more relaxed attitude of the Russians toward foreigners. The fearful stone-faced timidity of the Stalin era has been replaced by an almost enthusiastic readiness to discuss their business, whether it be running the government, raising corn or making trucks.

Once afraid to reveal their own names, they now reel off statistics, talk with pride of their accomplishments and describe their problems with little reticence. On the Soviet jet which brought me from Paris, a Russian passenger introduced himself, reminding me we had met during the war.

A railroad expert, he discussed the electrification of Soviet railroads as freely as any American engineer might discuss his affairs, giving figures and plans which in Stalin's day would have been classified top secret.

It was the first of many such conversations I had. In fact, wherever my wife and I have gone—to farms, factories, schools or government offices, people seemed genuinely eager to talk. At the theater, the director asked us to come backstage to talk to his actors. At the Likhachev (formerly "Stalin") Auto Works, a girl in greasy overalls, but with her black hair carefully combed and her lips painted, said she remembered me from wartime days when I used to take walks with my daughter around the Arbat District where she lived.

Foreign tourist traffic, which had ceased in Stalin's last days, is again flourishing and the official tourist agency, Intourist, is now shepherding thousands of foreigners around the country. Last year 5000 Americans alone came to the U.S.S.R. This year Intourist plans to take care of triple that number.

My own party has been given every facility to see almost everything we want. Within 48 hours of my arrival, no less than three members of the cabinet offered me everything from a bear hunt to a non-aggression pact. Nikita Khrushchev, in a speech in Moldavia, has publicly stated that I might go wherever I like in the Soviet Union, including power developments in northern Siberia which no foreigner has previously been allowed to visit.

New Kremlin Atmosphere.

But perhaps the most startling change I have encountered was in the Kremlin itself. As I drove through the gate to pay a call on Anastas Mikoyan, I recalled a rainy night in September, 1941, when the Germans were at the approaches of Moscow. I was driven through the gloomy, blacked-out streets and over the ancient moat to the Borovitski Gate where grim sentinels carefully scrutinized my pass before letting me through for the first of my many meetings with Stalin.

Now the Kremlin is open to the public. In its gardens overlooking the city, Muscovites stroll in the spring sunshine and around the half-dozen Kremlin churches hordes of Soviet tourists are examining the inscriptions on the tombs of the early Czars.

The opening of the Kremlin to the public, Mikoyan told me, was one of the first measures taken by the new rulers after Stalin died. Does this indicate the beginning of a change from the centuries-old era when "the people feared the Kremlin and the Kremlin feared the people?"

to the man who was China's greatest enemy.

The growing hostility of the Chinese toward Russian negotiation with the West and the "soft" Russian attitude can incidentally be a factor in the Geneva talks.

Other prominent Americans seeking a visa to China have studiously avoided Russian help. One of them is former Senator William Benton of Connecticut who visited Russia two years ago as publisher of the Encyclopaedia Britannica. Benton was one of the first to report the remarkable advances of Soviet education, particularly in science, mathematics and languages. He would go to China for the Encyclopedia.

Two other tentative entries in the China sweepstakes are said to be Mrs. Eleanor Roosevelt and Justice William O. Douglas. Douglas takes advantage of every long recess of the Supreme Court to visit faraway places with strange sounding names. China would be another scalp added to his belt. Mrs. Roosevelt, a tireless observer and traveler, is also a daily columnist.

30 Have Received Permits.

At least 30 newspaper men have validated passports for China as representing bona fide news agencies or newspapers. Vincent Sheean, now in India for the Westinghouse Broadcasting Co., is given the best chance since in the past he has known Communist Premier Chou En-lai. But Edward R. Murrow, taking a year's leave from Columbia Broadcasting System, is also a good bet.

All this makes certain elements in the State Department distinctly unhappy. Assistant Secretary of State Walter S. Robertson, soon to retire, was strongly opposed to letting Harriman go. He argued that he would be taken in by the Communists and write favorable articles. Harriman's long-time associates say this is nonsense, pointing out that he was one of the first at the end of the war to point to the dangers of Soviet imperialism and Stalin's aggressive aims.

Others in the Government argue it is desirable to have knowledgeable observers visit the great unknown of Communist China. They believe that only in this way will the American people be made aware of the significance of the experiment being conducted on 650,000,000 Chinese.

But whether any of the entries make it to Peiping is still in doubt. The answer rests with three or four men who exercise almost total power over Red China.

Glace Elegant

"Elegant" is truly the word for this delectable dessert in which ice cream slices are covered with a rich chocolate-butter-almond mixture, stacked to form a loaf and frosted with whipped cream icing.

Special Occasion? Here's Special Dessert

It may be a bridal shower, a bon voyage party or a reunion, but this time of year some special occasion is almost certain to come along. An occasion special enough to warrant this very special dessert, Glace Elgeant.

Glace actually means "ice cream," and Glace Elegant is ice cream and more. It is two pints of vanilla ice cream sliced and covered with a chocolate - butter - almond mixture. The frosted slices are then stacked into layers, and the whole covered with whipped cream icing tinted a delicate green. Sound delectable? It is.

Glace Elegant

Two pints (rectanglar cartons) vanilla ice cream.
Three-fourth cup chopped slivered almonds.
Five tablespoons butter.
One and one-half squares (one and one-half ounces) unsweetened chocolate.
One and one-fourth cups sifted confectioner's sugar.
One and one-half to two tablespoons cream.
One-half pint heavy cream.
One tablespoon sugar.
One teaspoon vanilla.
Green food coloring.

Cover two 11 by 8-inch cardboards with aluminum foil. Stand pint of ice cream on end; cut into four wide slices. Place slices on one cardboard; freeze until firm. Repeat for second pint.

Saute almonds in butter until golden brown. Add unsweetened chocolate and stir until melted. Pour nut mixture into confectioner's sugar; blend in enough cream until mixture is of spreading consistency.

Spread about two tablespoons chocolate-nut mixture on each slice of ice cream. Return to freezer for 15 minutes.

Make two stacks of four slices of ice cream; press both stacks together on one of the cardboards to form a long rectangular loaf. Return to freezer.

To make frosting: Whip cream, fold in sugar, vanilla and a few drops food coloring. Frost sides of loaf, piping an edge around top. Place in freezer until whipped cream frosting is slightly hardened before serving.

Note: This dessert may be made several days before serving and stored in freezer.

Herb-Flavored Omelet For Summer Days

Sunny summer days ahead, and so many fascinating things to do out-of-doors that it is a temptation to spend as little time as possible in the kitchen.

The solution: build meals around main dishes that are nutritious but easily prepared.

For example, serve a fluffy cheese omelet, but instead of using water or milk as a liquid, substitute tomato juice. Add oregano, rosemary or sweet basil, and the omelet becomes quite special.

With a crisp tossed green salad, hard rolls and butter, a fruit pie, coffee or milk, the meal is complete.

Take advantage of the frozen foods, packaged mixes and ready-to-eat items that cut preparation time to almost nothing. One of the most welcome time-savers is the vacuum-sealed package of freshly shredded sharp aged Cheddar cheese. Each four-ounce package contains exactly one cup of shredded cheese. Cheddar cheese also is available in bite-sized cubes and in wedges, of course.

Herb-Flavored Omelet.

Six eggs, separated.
Six tablespoons tomato juice.
One-half teaspoon salt.
One-eighth teaspoon pepper.
One teaspoon oregano.
Three tablespoons butter.
One four-ounce package freshly shredded Cheddar cheese (one cup).

Beat egg whites until stiff but not dry. Beat egg yolks with tomato juice, salt, pepper and oregano until mixture is thick. Gently fold yolk mixture into whites and pour into moderately hot 10-inch skillet containing the butter.

Spread the mixture evenly in the pan and cook over low heat, without stirring, for about five minutes. Then place skillet in 350 degree oven and bake for 15 to 20 minutes, until omelet is lightly browned.

Remove from oven and sprinkle cheese over one-half of the surface of the omelet, just above the center, and fold plain half over the cheese. Slide omelet out onto platter and sprinkle with additional shredded cheese.

Garnish with tomato wedges and parsley.

Yield: six servings.

Sandwich Spread

Creamed cottage cheese mixed with crisp chopped celery, green pepper and carrots will make a delicious and different sandwich spread.

Corn-Carrot Saute Brightens Menus

This sunny corn and carrot saute will brighten up any menu. Saute one-fourth cup finely chopped onion in three tablespoons butter in a frypan until yelow and transparent. Mix in one-half cup shredded carrots and two cups corn cut from the cob, then cover and steam about five minutes over very low heat.

Stir in one-fourth cup evaporated milk, one-fourth teaspoon salt and a few grains pepper. Bring to serving temperature over low heat.

Extra Milk

Cream soups, cheese as a garnish or in sauce, and custards, baked or as a sauce for fruit, are all delicious ways to get milk into daily meals.

Blend in part of one and one-half cups buttermilk and stir until smooth. Add remaining buttermilk and two eggs which have been beaten. Cook over low heat, stirring constantly until thickened. Do not boil.

Remove from heat and add one tablespoon butter, two tablespoons vinegar and one-eighth to one-fourth teaspoon basil. Cool and serve with colorful fruit salad of apples, oranges, grapes and bananas.

Calypso Cooler For Young Set

Try a "Calypso Cooler" for the young set.

Mix in blender or electric mixer one and one-half cups instant non-fat dry milk, four ripe bananas, two tablespoons lemon juice, one-fourth teaspoon cinnamon, dash of salt, three tablespoons sugar and one and one-half cups water.

Butterscotch Chantilly Mold

Dressing up the family meal for unexpected guests? This light caramel-colored dessert can be made in your prettiest mold. Whipped instant nonfat dry milk gives it a fluffy consistency; coarsely chopped almonds add crunchiness.

Nomenclature Of Cottage Cheese

Cottage cheese is known by many names in America. Belonging to the basic family are these: Schmierkase, Dutch, baker's, pot, cup, hoop, block, dry, creamy, pressed, popcorn, flake and home-made style.

Farmer cheese, still another member of the family, originated in France and there too is known by many names, including fromage a la pie, Mou, Maigre and Ferme.

By definition, cottage cheese is a "soft uncured cheese made from skim milk or finely reconstituted concentrated skim milk or nonfat dry milk solids." Its moisture content by government standard is not more than 80 per cent.

Creamed cottage cheese is cottage cheese containing 4 per cent or more of butterfat. Whatever its style or texture, cottage cheese is an uncured variety of cheese, snowy-white, mild in flavor, high in milk nutrients and popularity.

Dipping Problems?

If ice cream is too hard for dipping, let it stand for about 10 minutes at room temperature or place it in the refrigerator for about one-half hour before planning to serve it.

Butter Up The Fish And Seafood

Fish appears frequently on the menu in most households, especially during the out-of-door cooking season. Butter sauces which combine the true butter flavor with lemon, parsley or other seasonings will bring out all of the fine flavor of fish and seafood.

Here are a few ways to butter up the yield of brook, river or sea.

Zippy Butter Sauce for Fish.

One-fourth pound butter (one stick).
One tablespoon lemon juice.
One teaspoon lemon rind.
Dash of Tabasco sauce.

Blend butter with lemon juice and rind until light and fluffy. Add tabasco sauce and mix well. Heat mixture and pour over baked or boiled fish.

Maitre d'Hotel Butter.

Three tablespoons soft butter.
One tablespoon lemon juice.
One tablespoon finely chopped parsley.
Dash of pepper.

Blend all ingriedients together until light. Serve on fish when piping hot.

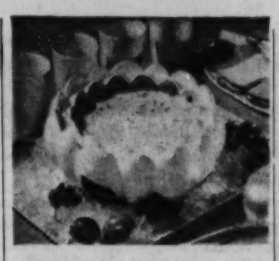
Iced Soup Light, Nourishing

Subtly flavored iced summer soup is light but nourishing warm-weather fare.

Carrots and sweet basil blend to a delicate flavor. For contrast, serve the soup with sandwiches of sharp cheese and tiny chilled tomatoes.

Iced Soup.

One medium bunch carrots, cleaned and sliced (about two cups sliced).
One tablespoon crumbled dried sweet basil leaves.
One cup water.
One-fourth cup (one-half stick) butter.
Two tablespoons flour.
One teaspoon salt.
One teaspoon sugar.
Two cups milk.
Two cups half and half (half milk, half cream).



One-half cup liquid (carrot stock plus milk as needed.)

Combine carrots, basil and water in saucepan and cook until carrots are tender. Drain and save cooking water; force carrots through sieve or food mill or blend in blender.

Melt butter in saucepan over low heat. Blend in flour, salt and sugar. Add milk, half-and-half and liquid (carrot stock and milk) stirring constantly. Cook, stirring constantly, until smooth and thickened. Remove from heat and stir in carrot puree. Chill. Serve in chilled bowl garnished with parsley.

Yield: six servings.

CALLS BERLIN A TEST FOR THE FREE WORLD

The Free World must put its confidence in the "wel-educated, flexible minds" of its foreign policy leaders to avoid a destructive war with Soviet Russia, United States Representative Melvin Price (Dem.), East St. Louis, said yesterday.

Price spoke at commencement exercises at Western Military Academy at Alton. He described the West Berlin problem as "a crucial testing point of the free world's resolution and courage to withstand the Communist threat to people who cherish the ideals of liberty."

Every effort should be made, Price said, "to reach beyond the mask of Soviet imperialism and its propaganda gestures" and to solve the rapidly multiplying problems of our time.

Price, who is a member of the House Armed Services Committee, said the military reesarch on which America is spending billions of dollars is also proving to be a boon for American civilians.

Reesarch which found a material to protect nose cones of intercontinental ballistics missiles has also delivered new kitchenware that solves many domestic problems, he said. The kitchenware can be taken from a deep freeze, placed in a hot oven and then into ice water without damage.

Commercial jet airliners were built as a result of military research, he pointed out, and similar research has produced instrument landing systems, ground controlled approaches and airways communications which promote safety in flight.

UNION BEATINGS A STATE MATTER, ROGERS ASSERTS

WASHINGTON, June 1 (AP)—Attorney General William P. Rogers has informed the International Ladies Garment Workers Union that any investigation of recent assaults on some of its officers appears to be a matter for state authorities.

However, Rogers wrote the union's president, David Dubinsky, he would be glad to have Department of Justice aids discuss the instances further with union representatives.

The Attorney General noted also that he recently asked Congress for additional authority to obtain needed testimony in labor violence cases.

Rogers said there is a "need for additional legal weapons to permit the Federal Government in matters involving interstate commerce to take appropriate action against organized criminals who in some instances have invaded the labor relations field in one guise or another."

Sought Federal Action.

Dubinsky a week ago wrote Rogers asking for federal action against two of the union's officers.

Last February, Sol Green, 44, was set on by three men as he walked from a bus stop to his home in Tenafly, N.J. He was taken to a hospital with head injuries.

Earlier this month, Charles S. Zimmerman, 62-year-old vice president and general manager of the union's Dress Joint Council and a top assistant to Dubinsky, was blackjacked outside a miami Beach (Fla.) hotel just after the union had ended its convention there.

Dubinsky told Rogers both men were key figures in a 15-month-old strike against 11 dress making companies in New York, New Jersey and Pennsylvania. He expressed the view there was a connection in the attacks and that htey were intended to terrorize the union into abandoning this strike.

Threatening Calls.

After sending the request to Rogers, Dubinsky said in New York that a woman garment workers leader had received threatening anonymous telephone calls. Te identified her as the sister of a union organizer who was stabbed to death 10 years ago. That killing was never solved.

Rogers wrote Dubinsky he agreed as to "the serious nature of the activities of underworld elements in our country," but said: "The fact that the victims were officers of the labor union engaged in negotiations with employers in an interstate industry does not provide in and of itself a basis for federal jurisdiction. Assaults and injury to property in our federal-state system are generally under the jurisdiction of state and local authorities."

CHINESE TROOPS REPORTED TO HAVE ENTERED BURMA

RANGOON, June 1 (AP) — Communist Chinese army border guards have crossed into Burmese territory twice in the last 10 days, according to reports reaching here yesterday.

The reports said Chinese soldiers moved across the frontier near Namhkan last week and opened fire on 10 Kachin tribesmen. Five Kachins were wounded and the others escaped.

In an earlier incident, a Chinese army patrol was reported to have crossed into Burma and shot at two Kachin villagers fishing in a mountain stream.

The newspaper Nation said the Communists were reinforcing posts on their side of the border and more than 1000 Chinese troops have been moved close to the frontier. The paper estimated 20,000 refugees have crossed the border since January 1958 to escape Red rule.

RUSSIA'S KOZLOV TO OPEN NEW YORK TRADE EXPOSITION

MOSCOW, June 1 (AP)—Soviet First Depuy Premier Frol R. Kozlov said last night he would fly to New York June 28 to open the Russian trade exposition.

Kozlov said he would remain in America two weeks, visiting Washington, Detroit and San Francisco. Asked if he would make speeches in Washington or elsewhere, Kozlov said he probably would accept some invitations.

Kozlov spoke briefly at a Red army club reception and dinner for delegates to the International Aeronautic Federation's conference, which ended Saturday.

Federation president Jacquelin Cochran offered to fly Kozlov in her plane on his American tour. He said a decision must await his arrival in New York.

TROUBLE AHEAD FOR DEER

SACRAMENTO, Calif. (AP)—There is trouble ahead for California's deer herd, the nation's largest at more than 1,000,000 head.

William E. Warne, director of the State Fish and Game Department, said the animals will go hungry this summer and next winter because sub-normal precipitation has resulted in subnormal forage and because the deer population is up after two consecutive mild winters.

ALABAMA LAKE CLOSED AFTER 2 RACE INCIDENTS

SELMA, Ala., June 1 (AP)—Alabama's newest public lake was closed yesteday after white men chased off three Negro airmen who tried to go fishing. It was the second such incident in a little over a week.

"We had just purchased our fishing permits from the concession stand and walked to our car when we were surounderd by six or eight white men," said staff Sgt. John E. Gray of Birmingham, one of the Negroes.

"One of them ordered us to give up our fishing permits. All three of us handed them over and I asked if that meant that we wouldn't be able to fish," he said.

Gay said one of the men told him, "I don't want to catch you down here any more." The Negroes left.

In the first incident at the lake May 23, two Negroes were ordered from their car and badly beaten.

4 KILLED BY FUMES IN MICHIGAN MINE

IRON RIVER, Mich., June 1 (UPI)—Four men died from poisonous sulphur fumes today when trapped by a cave-in and fire at the bottom of the Sherwood iron mine of the Inland Steel Co., one mile south of Iron River.

Thirty-one other miners made their way to safety, although two were in serious condition at a hospital.

The dead were Rudy Carl Anderson, 41 years old, Iron River, father of six children; Einar Johnson, 59, Crystal Falls; Ingver Wester, 31, Iron River, and August Zuckoff, 41, Crystal Falls.

The men were working 1400 feet below the surface in a stope leading to the main tunnel. Fire, apparently started spontaneously in sulphur deposits in the slate rock of the mine, ate away a rock pillar holding up the stope's ceiling. Most of the men managed to flee before the ceiling caved in.

One of the men who survived said the burning sulphur made the mine "about twice as hot as a steam bath." He said he threw his shirt over his face to keep from breathing the sulphur fumes and made his way to the main tunnel where he and the others jumped aboard an electric engine that pulled the ore cars.

A rescue team went into the mine to clear away the debris of the cave-in and carry out the dead.

Rescuers Free Three Trapped in Kentucky Mine.

BEAVER DAM, Ky., June 1 (UPI)—Three coal miners emerged smiling early yesterday after being trapped in a cave-in for 41 hours.

Dr. Albert H. Joslin said two of the miners had slight cases of bronchitis because of the dampness and 55-degree temperature in the cave-like room, 496 feet in a hillside, where they had been trapped since Friday morning.

After the hospital examination, the doctor gave the men sedatives and sent them home.

Earl Bennett of Taylorville, Ill., one of the rescued miners, said that through most of their entrapment he and his companions could hear the drilling of a mechanical "coal mole" which burrowed through 395 feet of hillside to free them.

All three miners—Bennett, Don McClernon of Pana, Ill., and Jake Lewis, 38, of Harlan, Ky.—could talk to their rescuers, their wives and a priest by means of an unbroken telephone line.

The miners drank milk and water pumped through an air hose while they were trapped.

"We never gave up," Bennett said, "but I was plenty scared. The thing we missed most was the sunshine and the stars."

Bennett, who survived the West Frankfort (Ill.) mine explosion that killed 22 persons in 1927, said he plans to return to the mines.

McClernon said he would have to think about it a while before returning to his job.

By the Associated Press.

This was the first mine accident for Lewis and McClernon, lifelong miners.

Lewis said his wife did not want him to resume mining but added: "I feel there's nothing wrong about it. It's just one of those things that happen sometimes around coal mines."

CALVIN CHAPEL REDEDICATED AT GENEVA SERVICE

GENEVA, June 1 (AP)—President Eisenhower sent a personal message to a ceremony today rededicating as a place of worship the Eleventh Century chapel where John Calvin preached the Reformation.

The chapel, known as the Calvin Auditorium, in recent years had been allowed to fall into decay. The World Presbyterian Alliance collected some $160,000 from congregations throughout the world for the restoration.

The Rev. Harrison R. Anderson of Chicago read the letter from President Eisenhower asking Anderson "to convey to our fellow Christians . . . my hearty good wishes on this important occasion."

The auditorium was built about 1060 as a private chapel for the Catholic prince-bishops who were Geneva's spiritual and temporal rulers until the Reformation. In later centuries it became a workshop and a cannon foundry. American, Scottish, Dutch and Hungarian Presbyterians are to use the auditorium as their place of worship in Geneva. The dedication was part of the ceremonies to mark the 450th anniversary of Calvin's birth.

BILLY GRAHAM LEAVES SYDNEY FOR SWITZERLAND

SYDNEY, Australia, June 1 (UPI) — American evangelist Billy Graham ended his fourth-month Australia-New Zealand "crusade for Christ" yesterday and flew to Switzerland.

Shortly before his plane took off Graham said he might visit Moscow in June.

Graham preached his last sermon of the crusade in Brisbane before a crowd of 65,000. The Graham organization spokesman estimated that 3,250,000 persons had attended Graham meetings in Australia and New Zealand since the crusade began early in February.

STRONG SPOTS IN MARKET OF LATE PROFIT-TAKING

NEW YORK, June 1 (UPI)—Stocks moved irregularly in the new month with trading moderate.

There were numerous individual strong spots but the main list suffered from profit-taking that developed late in the session as cautious traders lightened commitments.

Rails had a brief period of firmness but they failed to develop the strength necessary to lift the market. Utilities also were down, showing their tenth decline in 11 sessions.

Electrical equipments ruled strong and helped sustain the industrial section.

Some of the steels, electronics, oils, and special issues made a good showing. But most issues late in the day were under their highs.

Industrial shares managed again to set a new record high.

It was a day of uncertain movements. Traders singled out many special issues for attention. Their favorites in the blue chips were the electrical equipments, Eastman and U.S. Steel. There were small gains in American Telephone, Allied Chemical, International Harvester, Standard Oil (N.J.), and Texas Co.

Best gains were in the special issues and groups. The cameras had a runup that brought Polaroid up 4 points. Corning Glass led its section higher with a gain of nearly 3 points. American Home Products rose more than 4 in the drugs. Zenith at its high was up 8 in the electronics where International Business Machines hit 481 up 11 before running into realizing.

Ford set a new high as the company moved to duplicate its 1909 coast to coast race.

Goodrich and U.S. Rubber set new highs in the tires.

Tennessee Corp. rose 4 on word the company was running at full capacity. It gained 5 in the Friday session.

American Ice fell more than 3 points when Lithium Corp. announced it had allowed its option to buy the company to lapse.

LONDON STOCK BUYING

LONDON, June 1 (AP)—Further government figures showing an industrial output upturn in April spurred buying on the stock exchange today.

British government bonds suffered from persistent selling, believed to be mainly by investors switching into industrial issues, rallied slightly near the close.

Dollar stocks were irregular and foreign bonds easier. Gold shares were quiet but maintained a firm tone on buying for continental accounts. Oils were firm, coppers dull.

GRAINS CLOSE MIXED ON CHICAGO BOARD

CHICAGO, June 1 (AP)—The grain futures market made a good rally in spots today after absorbing a good volume of selling in early activity but new crop soybeans were under pressure most of the day.

Rye skipped over a rather broad range and held gains of a cent or more a busheu at times while other grains generally steadied within fractions of Friday's closes.

Corn and oats were down only minor fractions at their worst in early dealings while several other contracts slipped about a cent.

Trading in wheat futures was broadened for the first time to include contracts more than a year ahead. The Board of Trade offered July and September months on the 1960 crop but activity was very light.

Business Outlook

WHAT IS GOOD NEWS, WHAT BAD?

By J. A. Livingston

Two Texans, so the story goes, ate lox and bagels at a Jewish delicatessen in New York City six evenings in succession with obvious relish. The proprietor thanked them for the consistent patronage, and asked, "Can I do anything else for you?"

"Yes," they answered in unison, "please tell us which is lox and which bagels."

That's the way it is these days in finance.

J. A. Livingston

Pop! Up shoots International Harvester stock on the New York Stock Exchange from 44⅜ on Monday to above 48 on Wednesday. And Harvester's ordinarily a slow mover. Frank W. Jenks, president, provided the impetus. He announced record sales and earnings in the company's April quarter and pronounced the outlook "exceptionally favorable," barring steel and rubber shortages due to strikes.

Almost simultaneously, Secretary of Commerce Lewis L. Strauss observed that the better-than-seasonal pace of expansion this spring should convince even the doubting Thomases that the present recovery is genuine. Charles M. White, chairman of Republic Steel Corp., topped Strauss in enthusiasm, saying, "Never in my life have I seen all business indicators look as sound as they do today."

Which Is Good, Which Bad?

Strauss and White had an array of evidence to support them: Increased machine tool orders, record construction contracts in April, announcements by numerous steel companies of plans for plant expansion, and corporate reports, such as Harvester's, indicating that the business upsurge is showing up in earnings and, presumably, will ultimately show up in higher dividends.

This, in turn, has been registering in Wall Street in two ways—rising stock prices and falling bond prices. On Wednesday, Consolidated Edison Co. of New York, one of the country's outstanding public utilities and a double-A credit risk, had to pay more than 5 per cent in selling first-mortgage bonds to raise $75,000,000. Prior to that, National Steel Corp., chairmaned by George M. Humphrey, former Secretary of the Treasury, floated 4⅝ per cent first-mortgage bonds.

Like the mystified Texans, visitors from outer space, after viewing the economic scene, might well ask, "Please tell us which news is good and which bad."

Dividend Anticipation.

Unlike lox, which knowledgeable delicatessenees know is smoked salmon, and bagels, which are rolls with holes, differentiation between good news and bad isn't easy. Everything seems good.

The mere fact that National Steel and Consolidated Edison go ahead with bond offerings is a good sign. They are proceeding with expansion plans, undeterred by high interest rates. They must see good business and profits ahead over the long term.

The fact that speculators and investors are willing to purchase stocks at prices which yield only 3.1 per cent also indicates optimism. They expect dividends to go up and make their ultimate returns less measly. In contrast, corporate bond yields have advanced to 4.4 per cent, which indicates that bonds return 1.3 per cent more than stocks. But that minimizes the real differential.

The bonds which are included in bond indexes have good homes in the portfolios of insurance companies, investment trusts, pension funds, and savings institutions. Unlike stocks, their prices don't always measure day-to-day changes in sentiment and interest rates. Rates on new issues are more sensitive.

5 Per Cent the Going Bond Rate.

Most recent issues with coupons under 5 per cent have sold below their offering prices. Examples —Alabama Power 4⅞s, Gulf Power 4¾s, Commercial Investment Trust 4⅝s. Notable exceptions to this rule have been bonds convertible into common stocks. These, in keeping with the stock market, have tended to advance.

Thus, the going rate on corporates is closer to the 5 per cent than 4.4 per cent. This reflects the going rate on United States Treasury bonds—4.1 per cent to 4.20 per cent.

The disparity between stock and bond yields is explainable psychologically. When people are optimistic, when they expect inflation, they prefer stocks. That's why mutual fund shares sell so well. People want something that will go up. Fixed income is for stick-in-the-muds!

Ultimately, a shift in Wall Street preference will take place. Indeed, here and there a mutual fund increases its proportion of assets committed to bonds. But when all outward indicators, including automobile sales, point up, it's hard to see the bad for the good.

Latest News From World Of Business

SPERRY RAND CORP., sales for the fiscal year ended March were a record high of $989,601,559, some 15 per cent higher than sales of $864,330,491 in the preceding 12 months. Net income for the period was $27,644,092, equal to 96 cents a share against $27,481,239, or also 96 cents a share in the preceding fiscal year.

Net earnings did not keep pace with higher sales principally because of costs of design, production, and promotion in the data processing field; increased expenditures on some unprofitable military contracts of a development nature; losses on some discontinued products and provision for foreign exchange losses, the company said. An increase of 34 per cent in shipments on government defense contracts was the principal factor behind the upturn in sales, the report said. The backlog of military work was about $835,000,000 on March 31 compared with $637,000,000 at the end of the preceding fiscal year.

DOW-JONES INDUSTRIAL average has a different look today. Four of the components have substitutes and a new share of American Telephone & Telegraph Co. resulting from the three-for-one split will be substituted for the old one. Anaconda will be substituted for American Smelting & Refining; Swift & Co. for Corn Products Co.; Aluminum Co. of America for National Steel, and Owens-Illinois Glass Corp. for National Distillers & Chemical Corp. The purpose of replacing four of the stock is to increase the number of industries represented the Wall Street Journal said. The change also increases the industrial coverage in the sense that the new companies have larger annual dollar sales than those taken out, the Journal added. The new industrial devisor now is 3.961. The old one was 4.13. A corresponding change in the divisor for the 65 stocks also was made.

FAIRBANKS WHITNEY Corp. is the new name of the Penn-Texas Corp. The name went on the lists of the New York and Midwest Stock Exchanges and the stock was listed for trading on the Pacific Coast Exchange. The change was authorized at the company's annual meeting May 4.

THE DEFENSE DAPARTment, in a summary of awards to Lockheed Aircraft Corp., said the firm had a total of $213,400,000 in contracts for work on military satellites. GROSS TONNAGE OF IRON ore consumed in the United States and Canada during April almost doubled from the figure a year ago, the American Iron Ore Association reported. There were 12,111,179 gross tons consumed in April, compared with 6,351,682 tons in April, 1958 when the recession was still a strong factor. Up to May 1 of this year 44,686,680 tons were used—more than 16,000,000 ahead of last year. Iron ore stocks on hand April 30 were 37,794,197 tons — or almost 12,000,000 tons lower than for the same date in 1958. In April 243 of 276 furnaces were in use. A year ago, only 151 were working.

COTTON TEXTILE WAS quiet Monday with mills checking order schedules following the holiday. Converter interest at the moment was for nearby cloth where offerings are scarce. Small orders for wool goods were reported by mills. Private reports said that Australian wool auctions were lower and this touched off active selling in futures at New York. Losses at one time extended to more than two cents a pound.

STUDEBAKER - PACKARD Corp. and Gering Products, Inc., of Kenilworth, N.J., said the automobile firm has purchased all Gering stock. The purchase price was not announced. View From the Brig

William A. Douglas, accused cattle rustler, takes in limited view from brig on Argentine liner Rio de la Plata on arrival at New York yesterday. Douglas is accused of rustling cattle from a ranch in Oklahoma and then fleeing to Brazil for a spell of high living on the $50,000 loot. He made the trip by ship after scuffling with police who tried to expel him from Brazil by airliner.

Navy crews in rubber boats approach missile nose cone bobbing in waters of the Atlantic ocean off Antigua island after firing of the missile from Cape Canaveral, Fla., last Thursday. Pedestrians' Day

With vehicles barred from the vehicular bridge, pedestrians have their own way in inspecting the new harbor bridge in Auckland, New Zealand. More than 100,000 persons trudged across the span May 24. It was their one and only chance, for on Saturday the bridge was opened officially for strictly vehicular traffic. The bridge and approaches are two miles long and cost $19,000,000.

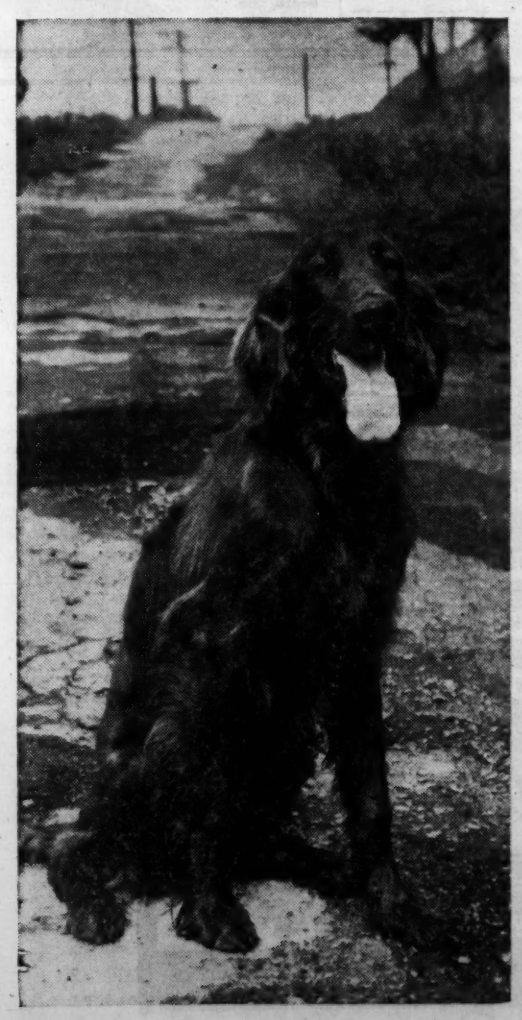
Dog of the Week



An appropriate name goes with the Dog of the Week at the Humane Society Shelter. His former owners named him Silky in tribute to the fine coat of their Irish setter pup. He is now about 9 months old and available for adoption on application in person at the shelter, 1210 Macklind avenue.

Corpus Christi Procession

Costumed marchers accompany religious statue being carried through streets of Florissant in annual Corpus Christi procession yesterday. About 7000 persons took part in the ceremony which originated with Spanish settlers in the area more than 100 years ago. Parade started at Sacred Heart Church and ended at St. Ferdinand Church, oldest parish church west of the Ohio river. Other parishes represented in the procession were St. Dismas, North American Martyrs and Our Lady of Fatima.

Folk Festivals Off The Beaten Path

PARIS, June 1.

THERE ARE MANY folk festivals in Europe, some dating back to time immemorial. There are also music festivals, film festivals, drama festivals, dance festivals, bullfight festivals and gastronomic festivals.

ART BUCHWALD

While the major ones are publicized, there are others that rarely receive the attention they deserve. It is a pity that more people don't know about them.

For example, there is the Gazpacho Festival, which is considered one of the most unique and colorful festivals on the Continent. Every year on the second Tuesday after Memorial day, the people of Gazpacho get dressed up in their colorful Tequilas, Rizzotos and Hakims, and at dawn they start to dance through the streets of the town, stopping occasionally at a cafe to refresh themselves with ice-cold glasses of the strong Motherherring wine.

The procession takes a circuitous route through the narrow streets of Gazpacho, where more celebrators join in the parade while others wave gayly from decorated windows. Finally, at around 10 o'clock in the morning, the procession, led by the town band, arrives in the Gazpacho Main Square, where tourists who have paid anywhere from 6000 to 10,000 fandangos are seated in specially built stands to watch the hilarity.

In the exact center of the square is a pile of cobblestones which the natives have collected all year long. The natives dance around the pile and then, at a signal from the mayor, each person picks up a cobblestone and suddenly starts throwing it at the tourists. No tourist can escape, and when all the tourists are stoned to death the festival is considered over. After the square is cleaned up, the natives take off their colorful costumes and put them away for another year.

There have been some protests from neighboring towns about this fiesta, but the people of Gazpacho always reply: "We don't like tourists and this usually teaches them a lesson."

THE FEUERFEST in Gesundheit is also one of the most colorful in Europe. The story goes that in 1190 on the day before the crops were to be brought in, Black Frederic, the Prince of Lower Gesundheit, ordered all the crops of Upper Gesundheit to be burned so Lower Gesundheit could raise its price.

Good King Achoo of Upper Gesundheit became so enraged he ordered his people to set fire to all the crops of Lower Gesundheit, and for the next few years no citizen of either Lower or Upper Gesundheit would leave his house without a flaming torch.

From this humble beginning was started a custom which has come down from generation to generation. Every year, since 1190, on the day before the harvest, the natives get dressed up in their colorful costumes and set fire to each others' lands.

In the evening there are fireworks and street dancing, lighted by the fires, which can be seen for miles around.

The bitterness has long since died between Upper and Lower Gesundheit, but neither side will break with tradition.

And although the natives lose all their crops and haven't eaten well since, Feuerfest is, for them, the high spot of the year.

THE LAST EXCITING EVENT worth mentioning, though there are hundreds more if we had the room, is the Children's Fair at Kecknivek. Every year the parents of Kecknivek dress up their children in their native costumes and bring them to the colorful fairgrounds, where they are sold.

Prices range anywhere from 70 zaphnicks for a little girl to 300 zaphnicks for a strapping boy.

Besides finding the festival a major source of its income, Kecknivek prides itself on the fact that it has never had a juvenile delinquency problem. The town is considered a model community throughout the rest of Europe.

In the evening there is street dancing and fireworks and everyone has a good time.

The Children's Fair always takes place the first week in June so it will save the parents the expense of sending their children to camp.

At the Movies

THERE MAY HAVE BEEN more torpid "suspense" melodramas ground out in Hollywood in the last decade or two than "THE MAN IN THE NET," at the ORPHEUM THEATER, but I can't remember them.

But you have to admire Alan Ladd's imperturbability if not his acting ability. Beautifully framed for the murder of his alcoholic-psychotic wife and hunted by a lynch mob led by a venemous policeman in a small Connecticut town, Alan's face remains as wooden and his voice as gruff and clipped as ever, although he does take off through the woods with alacrity. If he couldn't get excited over the course of events, I didn't see why I should.

Anyway he takes refuge in a cave with some kids who are probably darlings in real life, but lousy actors, and works out showing up the real murderer by means of a wire recording. At this is one of those things where the murderer, without a spot of real evidence against him, blurts out a confession in one minute, it wouldn't challenge the ingenuity of a Sherlock Holmes. Carolyn Jones is of interest as the disturbed wife, though hardly blood-curdling, and Charles McGraw is well cast as the cop.

New Products

OVERLAP DOORS: New hardware that lets you set any interior door over the opening, rather than within it, may be worth checking if you're building or remodeling. The door overlaps the opening by 2½ inches, opens and closes like a refrigerator door. Wooden jamb, door trim and stops—all are eliminated, saving time and expense. Hanging the door takes only about one sixth the usual time. The hardware includes special hinges, a refrigerator-type latch, and a straight pull instead of a turning knob. With the door closed, two small rubber bumpers keep it from touching the wall surface by just an eighth of an inch, silencing the closing operation.

FOR YOUR CAR: If it has one of the newer "super" enamel or acrylic lacquer finishes, you might want to try a new protective film just developed for these slow-chalking paints. Spread on, allowed to dry to a haze, then whisked off, it gives the finish a greater depth of luster and, more importantly, increases scuff and scratch resistance. Also, it minimizes adherence of dirt, tree, sap and bug residue. The film can be used to provide protection for bumpers and trim, too.

New Column by Health Commissioner

DR. JOSEPH G. MOLNER, Detroit health commissioner, receives more than 25,000 letters a month from readers of his newspaper column which begins today in the Everyday Magazine.

"I never use the name of a person who writes—just the initials—and sometimes I even change the initials to conceal identity," he says. "But I try, sooner or later, to answer most questions that come to me. Sometimes hundreds of letters ask essentially the same question, so an answer in the column, addressed to one person, is really addressed to many."

The variety of questions, Dr. Molner admits, is enough to give any physician the jitters because, as he says, "Medicine, today, is such a big subject that no man can master it all, or even try to."

Actually, his column is mainly the work of three men: himself, a specialist in internal medicine, and a science editor of a newspaper.

In this connection, Dr. Molner adds: "Never have I let readers think that I am an oracle. I draw on every possible source for the answers I give. One thing that has pleased me immensely is that other doctors, specialists in their fields, have come to me and volunteered information that has taken them years to assemble.

Now 50, Dr. Molner is gray-haired, chunky and vigorous. His medical degree was from Wayne State University, with post-graduate work at Johns Hopkins.

As an intern in the early '30s he specialized in children's diseases. Later he studied tropical diseases in Central America; was named to the public health committee of the Foreign Operations Committee; published 30 or 40 technical papers in medical journals; in 1956 was invited to go to England to address the British Royal Society of Health, the fourth American to be so honored in 15 years.

His medical column, he says, was begun largely because he thought "somebody ought to write one in very plain language, but still keep it as scientifically accurate as posible."

What Happens When Heart Fibrillates

By Joseph G. Molner, M.D.

"Dear Dr. Molner:

I HAVE a relative who has been in critical condition from a condition termed 'auricular fibrillation.' He is out of the hospital and has been coming along satisfactorily.

"For those of us who try to help him, and to 'supervise' his activities, it is a problem to know or judge how much or how little or what type of activities are suitable for him.—Mrs. R.B."

IT'S REASSURING to see people—like you— paying more attention to the specific kind of heart disease instead of speaking of "heart trouble" as though it were just one disease.

Auricular fibrillation means that the auricles—the upper chambers of the heart—are quivering or trembling, but not really beating. The various fibers of muscle aren't contracting in unison, but in all sorts of rhythms of their own.

If you're old enough to remember the old-fashioned kitchen pump, you know what happened if you rattled the handle back and forth very rapidly, yet moved it only an inch or two each way. You didn't pump any water. Yet you used up as much energy as you would have used in taking long, slow, steady strokes which would have provided plenty of water.

So it is with a heart when it fibrillates. It quivers but it doesn't get much accomplished. So, of course, fibrillation should be halted, if possible, and the even steady, effective heartbeat restored.

It can be a dangerous situation, but one which usually can be controlled by appropriate medication and sometimes by other methods. When fibrillation occurs in the course of a heart operation, a mild, regular electrical impulse sometimes is applied directly to the organ, for example.

Now to get to the question of "how much activity?" It is entirely impossible for me to determine the answer. Part of the questions depends on what caused the fibrillation. How thoroughly has the heart recovered from the original damage. For fibrillation implies that something has gone wrong, else the beat would have remained regular.

How much reserve strength remains in the heart — "functional reserve," or "potential," would be better terms for this, but you understand my meaning.

These questions can only be answered with any degree of certainty by a physician who has studied the patient and the particular case history.

Activity may be restricted to bed rest except for bathroom privileges. Or the patient may be confined to a single floor, with climbing or descending stairs forbidden. Or driving a car may be forbidden. Or yet again, I can cite you cases in which the patient has been allowed to go back to work full time.

In general, the limit of activity will be that amount at which the patient becomes tired, feels short of breath, and is conscious of his heart laboring.

"Dear Dr. Molner:

WHEN PARENTS are the same blood type and both Rh positive, is there any likelihood that a child can be born with a cleft palate?—B.M."

THE TWO THINGS have no connection. The great majority of people have Rh positive blood. The type is not important in this regard. With the most normal blood types in the world, some parents will have children with cleft palates. We don't know why. But surgeons do know how to correct the defect.

Are you bothered with ringing in the ears? If so, send for my booklet, "Ear Noises — Their Causes and Cures," inclosing with your request 10c in coin and a long, self-addressed, stamped envelope. Dr. Molner welcomes all reader mail, but regrets that due to the tremendous volume received daily, he is unable to answer individual letters. Readers' questions are incorporated in his column whenever possible.

Hollywood Sidelights

By Sheilah Graham

HOLLYWOOD, June 1.

THERE IS TALK of Henry Fonda starring in the movie version of "Two for the Seesaw" which he and Anne Bancroft originated on the New York stage. . . . And Arthur Freed already has put out feelers to grab the new musical on Broadway, "Gypsy," starring Ethel Merman and newcomer Sandra Church, with music by Jule Styne.

Susan Hayward's Oscar winner, "I Want to Live," finally has been passed by the British censors, after some cuts. Britons will see it in London beginning in July, without the gas-chamber scene at the end. The movie about convicted murderer Barbara Graham has an X certificate in Britain—meaning for adults only.

It's definite John Huston will direct Marilyn Monroe in her next movie, "The Misfits," written for her by husband Arthur Miller. Miller also will have a new play on Broadway this fall.

Natalie Wood, who wanted to work with Sir Laurence Olivier in the film version of "The Entertainer," won't be able to. Her current "Cash McCall" takes Nat beyond the starting date of Larry's film later this month.

Milt Berle bought his first permanent home in Beverly Hills—he and wife Ruth had been renting the Cy Howard house. They take possession in September after Uncle Miltie plays four weeks in Los Vegas.

Ernie Borgnine, so in love with Katy Jurado, discharged his business manager, and Katy is looking after his affairs just as Mary Cummings manages Bob Cummings. Ernie and Katy will wed in September, if not before. . . . Robert Horton, off for six weeks of rodeo and summer-theater appearances in the Midwest, leaves behind a very lonesome Cindy Robbins. . . . Sophie Tucker is dieting. She's hitting the scale at 200-some pounds and wants to get back to her usual 185. Soph, let's start an Eaters' Anonymous!

The Crosby boys will be the best-dressed quartet in show business. They are spending thousands at Sy Devore's—the shop that supplies Bing with all his new duds. Sy is whipping up mohair tuxedoes, gray suits in varying shades, business and sports outfits.

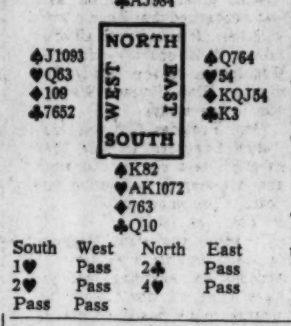
YOU ARE DECLARER of today's four-heart hand and West opens the jack of spades. How do you play the hand?



South	West	North	East
1♥	Pass	2♣	Pass
2♥	Pass	4♥	Pass
Pass	Pass

South makes his heart game with an overtrick by refusing the trump finesse and setting up dummy's clubs before the opponents' diamonds are established.

South sees that if he loses a heart finesse to the queen, a diamond return will knock out the ace. Then, if the club finesse also loses, the defense will cash two diamonds for down one. Declarer therefore takes the opening spade with the king and immediately leads out the ace-king of hearts. When the queen fails to drop, he loses the club finesse to East.

Declarer takes the spade or diamond return in dummy and runs the club suit, discarding his two losing diamonds and a spade. West ruffs in with the high heart queen, but that is all for the defense.

Giving Gossip A Good Name

NEW YORK, June 1 (AP).

I DON'T KNOW how gossip got its bad name, but I'm coming out in favor of it, foursquare.

Most people, if they were frank, if they'd drop hypocritical pretense, would agree with me, I'll bet. After all, gossip is simply the receipt of, the mulling over and the transmission of information. Where would we be without it? Does the nature of the information taint the listener?

Anyway, isn't it a question of semantics?

If four old biddies sitting on the front porch sip lemonade and chew up the neighborhood, why call that gossip? Why not call it news analysis? Aren't they, like Walter Lippmann or Ed Murrow, trying to understand the world around them, trying to satisfy a basic curiosity?

Isn't gossip in its broadest sense the basic drive behind every good reporter, research scientist or counter spy? Personally, I find that nothing brightens or uplifts or adds a dash of color to a dull day than a choice bit of gossip.

If Charlie Jones, who lives three doors down the street, belts his wife, I want to know about it. I find such information stimulating. If, it develops, the boss' secretary is shopping for a trousseau and baby clothes at the same time, I do not feel degraded hearing about it or even asking for more information.

Gossip, after all, provides the excitement in the drab lives of the rest of us who can't afford to or lack the temerity to do the things people get gossiped about. If you know a man who shouts down his mother-in-law after two beers, don't protect me from the news. It may be inspirational.

Have you ever seen greater esprit de corps or a greater sense of vitality in the office than exists in the group of gossips buzzing around the water cooler? Gossip is a vintage champagne. It makes life worth living and a dull job worth working. If management were really enlightened, they'd plant more gossip for employes to dissect. It could reduce absenteeism.

When you get right down to it, gossip is the basic appeal of Shakespeare and the soap operas. True, the poetry and human insight of Hamlet helps, but aren't you also tintillated by the juicy family scandal?

Soap operas give you a new scandal or crisis every day but the trouble with soap operas is they give you too many facts. They leave nothing to challenge the imagination. And nothing kills gossip like all the facts. Real, active, dynamic gossip needs a little elbow room, a tiny area of ignorance and mystery to grow on.

But to achieve respectability, gossip needs a set of ground rules. If you hear a nasty bit of gossip about an enemy or competitor and you pass it on to your wife and three best friends, that's acceptable. But further circulation is malicious. You, as the circulator, are suspect, of course.

Coloring the gossip you hear by say, 40 per cent, is just ordinary, garden variety, healthy American, idle gossip. More than 40 per cent, it's malicious.

I don't say there should be government controls but completely free enterprise operating in gossip can be inefficient and chaotic. If four people hear the same choice bit at the same time and all four are sworn to secrecy, none should be allowed to spread the word in less than, say, an hour. A common release date binding on all contractual parties gives everybody an equal chance to enrich the news and avoids a stampede to the nearest phone booth.

Gossip, I say, but let's be fair about it; let's do it in the American way.

Ann Landers

Husband in Guest Room

Dear Ann Landers:

MY WIFE WENT OUT and bought a fancy bedroom set as a twentieth wedding anniversary present to herself. We always had a double bed but this new set has twin beds.

When the furniture store delivered the set, my wife discovered that the new beds, the dresser and the chest of drawers wouldn't fit into our bedroom. So guess what she did. She moved my bed into the guest room.

I'm plenty teed off over this but I haven't said anything to her because according to my horoscope I can't win a point until next week. I ought to tell you that she is a Scorpio, which means "stubborn as a mule." What do you suggest?

AQUARIUS.

Dear Aquarius: I suggest you tell Scorpio—immediately—to move the chest of drawers into the guest room and put your bed where it belongs. Stewing silently will only mean Ulcersville.

Use the soft, sentimental approach. Tell her how lonely it is and how much you miss her. I'm betting you'll be back in no time, Dad.

Dear Ann Landers:

IS THERE ANYTHING WRONG with a brother taking his sister to a party or dance? I'm 16 and not very popular. My brother is 17 and we have the same friends. He doesn't have a steady girl so I see nothing wrong if he escorts me. I hate missing out on everything and if he didn't take me I'd never go any place at all.

Yesterday he agreed to drive me to a big school and then call for me. But he won't come inside. Is this right? Both Mom and Dad have stayed out of it because they say it's up to us to settle the matter between ourselves. Our grandmother says it's the duty of a brother to help his sister socially if he can. What is your opinion?

WALLFLOWER.

Dear Wallflower: A girl who appears at a party or a dance with her brother (when the other girls have dates) might just as well hang a sign on her back saying, "I can't get a date but I came anyway."

Once in a blue moon you'll find a brother who'd rather take his sister than any other girl. Such a boy needs to date other girls and should not be encouraged to hide his shyness behind his sister's skirts.

In your case, however, it's plain your brother doesn't want to be your date since he refuses to do more than supply transportation. For heaven's sake let the poor kid off the hook and don't continue to take advantage of him just because he's a good natured

---

To learn how to keep your boy friend in line without losing him, send for Ann Lander's new booklet, "Necking and Petting—And How Far To Go," enclosing with your request 20 cents in coin and a large, self-addressed, stamped envelope.

(Ann Landers will be glad to help you with your problems. Send them to her in care of the Post-Dispatch inclosing a stamped, self-addressed envelope.)

St. Louis Woman by HELEN TRAUBEL

Final Break With Margaret Truman

HELEN TRAUBEL gestures at press conference in Washington, D.C., in October 1953.

MARGARET TRUMAN goes over her score with CONDUCTOR VLADIMIR GOLSCHMANN in preparation for her appearance as soloist with St. Louis Symphony Orchestra in October 1949.

Eighth installment condensed from the book, "St. Louis Woman," copyright 1959 by Helen Traubel Bass and Richard C. Hubler, published by Duell, Sloan and Pearce, New York.

I TOLD MARGARET TRUMAN that she would have to call off the concerts she had booked for Lewisohn Stadium in New York and in the Philadelphia Dell—where tens of thousands instead of hundreds were to hear her.

She refused. I told her there was no other way as far as I was concerned that I could work with her. It ended with all of us taking it to court — down to Washington to see Daddy Truman in Blair House. We saw him in the study.

"Mr. President," I told him, "when I agreed to help Margaret, I said she should study and not sing in public for five years. You know that."

"Yes," he said.

"I know you want Margaret to stand on her own two feet and not on anything that you have done. I don't want her singing to be based on her father's reputation as a President." At this point Margaret rushed out of the room.

"Yes!" cried Truman. He smacked his desk with his fist. "That's exactly what I want!"

"Then," I said, "she will have to call off these concerts she has booked."

Truman thought it over. He called Margaret back into the room. He told her to telephone her manager and cancel the concerts. Truman was not angry with her. On the contrary, he was very gentle but very firm.

"But I have contracts with these people!" she protested. "How can I get out of them?"

"That's your job," her father told her. "You got into this, now get yourself out."

That was the formula for the whole affair. The concerts were never held. But I was not yet free to do what was needed and what Margaret really deserved. The next thing that turned up was that Margaret (and her manager) had planned and contracted for a series of radio appearances.

This was the last straw. If it was not proper for her to appear before hundreds, it was less proper before thousands. But what could you say to the ambition of a girl who, untrained and musically unknown, wanted to appear before millions? At this point I guess I felt I was fighting not so much to develop Margaret as a singer as I was fighting to uphold the national honor. She would be singing in direct comparison with some of the finest artists of opera and concert. It would have been, I felt, a personal disaster of the first magnitude for me to be connected with it.

I would describe Margaret's voice as a lyric soprano with a very sweet quality. If she had studied five years—better, 10—she would have had an adequate singing ability. If the TV and radio personalities of today are any example—something I would never have dreamed of in those days—she might have had an acceptable career on the air. But using any standards, there simply was not enough of everything—or anything—to make her really a concert and light opera singer. She did not have the right temperament, though she was a glutton for work. The meaning of the song always escaped her. Her physical build was promising but she lacked emotional understanding of what the tone and the projection of the music meant.

MISS TRUMAN in a characteristic singing pose.

MISS TRUMAN made up for her St. Louis concert.

While Bill and I—Bill eventually got most of the blame for these shenanigans — were stewing over this, the news came that Margaret's manager had scheduled a concert at Carnegie Hall.

This time it was impossible for me to stop her. I did not yet have the sense to cut everything short and publicly step out. I thought something might be salvaged from the girl's desire to be a singer, from her really genuine need to work at something. I was wrong once more: I consented to go to the concert. I thought it would be a debacle. I was wrong—it was a catastrophe.

It was so bad, almost from the first note, that I spent all of the evening for the first time in my life hiding behind the curtains of my box. Mrs. Roosevelt sat in the box next to me and we chatted, but both of us studiously avoided the subject of Margaret as a singer. What the former First Lady felt about it I never discovered. I left long before it was over, trying to escape from the memory of those wavering, off-key notes that were made even worse by the impeccable stage presence that Margaret always had. Nothing could dint her self-confidence. At least nothing I could do. That function was reserved for her father alone.

A few days later we had the climactic scene. My experiment in teaching was nearly at its end. Margaret came to our house and had a conference with Bill and me. This time I was firm.

"You can't go on the radio," I said. "That's out."

"We're all ready to go!"

"I don't care. You haven't the training, the knowledge—you haven't anything to back you up."

"The contracts are signed and I have 10 appearances at more than $5000 each!"

"Not under any circumstances."

At this point Bill ventured a word. "I don't think it's the best course of action," he said.

Margaret whirled on him. "You keep out of this!" she flared. "You've always tried to turn Helen against me!"

That was the beginning of the end. Whatever decisions I had made were purely my own, on the basis of my intimate knowledge of Margaret's capability. Bill retired. Margaret and I kept at it, hammer and tongs, raising our soprano voices—trained and untrained—at each other until the welkin and the neighbors rang. I rarely indulge in such antics but, as a krautgirl from old St. Louis with a schimpflexikon of my own, I am certainly capable of holding my own. It ended with me on exactly the same spot. The radio negotiations were called off the next day.

In all fairness to Margaret, during the time that she worked with me she did show tremendous improvement. Even her father said so. She learned not to "sing in the cracks," as we call singing off key in the trade—except when she got excited. I think her great fault was that she could not hear herself sing. She never knew what a real amateur she was—an honorable designation in any way of life.

As I said to Bill when I quit: "I feel as if the horses had stopped running away with me."

I had once said that she was "a darling girl with plenty of personality and drive," and I never regretted it. I had also said that I had "confidence in her," and I did. In the fall of 1951 — all these events had spanned a couple of years—I delivered my valedictory on the whole thing for the press. I said: "I didn't think she was ready for all these appearances. The offers just kept coming in. I even went down to Washington to see her daddy. I told him I couldn't go on if she accepted the offers. Well, it's too bad. Most young singers just don't realize how much they have to study. The funny thing is that Margaret Truman really has a nice voice—nothing great—but good enough.

I gave orders to everyone that I would be out when Margaret called. I did not even want to be told that she had come to the house. Disappointment and chagrin were joined inside me. In some ways I regretted the inevitable break with Margaret. From our association late in 1948 to our parting in June 1950, we exchanged many tokens of regard. She used to write me that "the concert went well . . . the critics on this trip have been nicer than ever before." She would listen to my broadcasts, sending me wires that I was "closest to the mike with the mostest" or tell me that "we were together on the front page of the News, a tabloid, and very clear." Once she told me that my tutelage was "the difference between success and a total flop for me"—which I am afraid it never could be. Bess Truman sent Christmas presents and the President added his thanks with a note "to a lovely, kindly lady whose patience I appreciate."

In early 1950 Margaret thanked me again for "all the hours you spent trying to instill a modicum of singing into my head," but when the final break came, she wrote that she would not be able to see me again but that she was still grateful for my time and efforts. Rumors came flying to me—all of them untrue—that her father had written me a scorching letter comparable to the remarkable one he had scribbled to the Washington Post critic. I was grateful that he had not. But the parting Bill and I had with the President himself was quite different though not less dramatic.

It made me a little unhappy to forego what the White House had meant. I was very much impressed with the glitter and ceremony. Bill and I loved being piped aboard the Williamsburg, the presidential yacht. That super-duper launch was really an experience for me. We enjoyed the couple of dozen times we ate at Blair House. Bill enjoyed going to the football game with Truman on the special train (while I had to stay home and work with Margaret). The receptions and the attention given the presidential party—we sometimes appeared at three or four functions before dinner—were all very glamorous and exciting. As an old movie fan I used to adore Truman running pictures in the little theater that Roosevelt built where the wall practically melted away to make room for a screen. We could see the latest or the earliest of pictures just by calling up.

There is little more to be told. One small anecdote will serve to show the temper in which l'affaire Margaret wound up. I asked Bill to do the feat that I could not summon courage to do: I asked him to call the White House and tell Truman that the deal was off. Bill agreed. He got on the list of appointment calls and one evening was put through to the President.

"I'm afraid, Mr. President," Bill said, "that Helen feels she can't go along with Margaret any longer the way things are."

"Why not?" demanded Truman. Bill recited the long list of our complaints and disappointments.

"Well," said the President at last in his nasal, brittle voice, "I'm afraid that whatever Margaret decides, that's the way it'll have to be."

Bill delivered the coup de grace. He was a little angry, too. "No, Mr. President," he said quietly. "If it isn't done the way Helen wants, it won't be done at all."

As a reply, he got the crash of a telephone receiver slammed down in the White House.

Facts on Air Conditioners

By Hubbard Cobb

ONE of the best ways to keep cool in summer is to have an air conditioner purring away happily and filling the room with nice clean, cool dry air.

The fact of the matter is, however, that because of lack of proper maintenance or poor installation, many air conditioners do not operate at maximum efficiency. This means you get less comfort and are paying for higher operating costs.

No electrical unit can operate properly unless it's getting enough voltage and many air conditioners are connected into house circuits that can only furnish low voltage. Unless you have had a special circuit installed for the air conditioner, it would be well to pay an electrician to check the voltage in the circuit you use for the unit to be sure it's providing sufficient power. If it does not provide enough voltage it is usually possible at not too great cost to put in another circuit.

It's best if a window unit is placed on the shady side of the house because if the outside is subject to the full blast of a hot sun the unit won't run efficiently.

If the unit can't be placed where there is natural shade, an awning or some similar device can be used to provide it with artificial shade.

It's very important that the filters in the unit are clean. Dirty filters slow down the flow of air and make for poor efficiency. Filters should be cleaned or changed at the start of each season and if you live in an area where there is a lot of dust and dirt in the air, check them several times during the year.

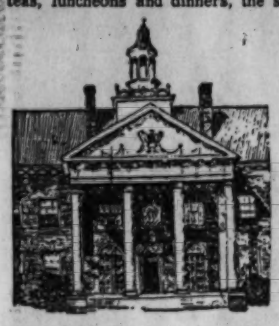
WOMEN

Centennial Week At Mary Institute

By Margaret Allen Ruhl

CENTENNIAL WEEK at Mary Institute has begun, and graduates and former students from many cities are converging on St. Louis to help local alumnae celebrate, with teas, luncheons and dinners, the school's successful 100-year trek from "Lucas to Locust to Lake to Ladue" as its four locations are known.



Many of the social affairs are to be given for women in the two reunion classes, those of 1909 and 1934. Mrs. Ernest Eddy (Annie Maude Kennedy) is chairman of the fiftieth anniversary class whose president, Mrs. George A. Rodenbaeck (Kyle Adams) will be here from Claremont, Calif.

First on the agenda is on open house Wednesday when the school buildings, including the new gymnasium wing, may be seen. Students' work will be on display in classrooms and corridors. Part of the paintings by Mrs. Vincent Palmer (Lucie Mackay, M.I. 1931) shown at the American Museum of Natural History, New York, will be shown. The full exhibit is called "Sea Peoples of the Sulu Archipelago."

Invitations to the open house were sent by the Board of Directors, Ronald Beasley, headmaster, and Mrs. Beasley; the faculty and students. Mr. Beasley will speak in the Alumnae room at 3 o'clock and tea will be served afterward.

Wednesday night Mrs. Wilbur B. Jones (Irene Clifford) and Mrs. Thomas S. McPheeters (Frances Filley) will honor their 1909 classmates at a dinner at the St. Louis Country Club and the next day Mrs. Horton Watkins who was Miss Ruth Willet Holliday will entertain them at luncheon at her home, 7 Brentmoor Park, Clayon.

Mrs. Rodenbaeck will be guest of honor Thursday at a tea to be given by her sister, Mrs. Lemoine Skinner, 100 Orchard avenue, Webster Groves.

Friday both reunion classes will attend the annual alumnae luncheon after commencement, when the current graduates will be inducted. Mrs. Robert S. Starbird, the former Miss Adele Chomeau, will speak for the 1909 class and present its gift to the school.

In addition to Mrs. Rodenbaeck, those from out-of-town are Mrs. Edward R. Hardy (Mildred Bierman), South Dartmouth, Mass.; Mrs. Cary D. Terrell (Jeanette Fuqua), Shreveport, La.; Mrs. Walter A. Eyssell (Eleanor Goertz), Kansas City, Mo.; Mrs. Harold Day (Marguerite Pank), Winnetka, Ill., and Mrs. Ford H. Davis who was Miss Dorothy Wilkinson, Macon, Ga. More than 20 of the class live in St. Louis.

Twenty-fifth Anniversary Class.

MRS. ROBERT A. BLACK, the former Miss Jane Jordan, is chairman of the twenty-fifth anniversary class and will speak at the commencement luncheon. The class president, Mrs. William Grace, who was Miss Ann Stix, lives in California but is in England for a year with her husband and five children and is unable to be here.

However, Mrs. Peter H. B. Otway-Smithers (Do-Jean Sayman) came from her home in London for the celebration. Mrs. Eben Cutler (Mary Elizabeth Musick), will be here from Dayton, O., and Mrs. Towner K. Webster Jr., who was Miss Jean Garrison, from Cincinnati. Mrs. Webster, who will speak at the centennial tea, is the daughter of Charles H. Garrison of New York, who was principal of Mary Institute for several years. Serving will be the daughters and granddaughters of reunion class members who are now attending Mary Institute. Frances Amelia Upthegrove, daughter of the Daniel Upthegroves Jr., and Miss Susan Brush Forney, 1959 president, will represent the student body.

The 1934 class held a planning luncheon earlier this spring at the home of Mrs. George W. Skinner, the former Miss Ruth Harms, with Mrs. Hugh A. Logan (Ann Shapleigh) as cohostesses. Reunion parties will begin Wednesday with a luncheon at the home of Mrs. Otway-Smither's mother, Mrs. Thomas M. Sayman, after which the guests will attend the school's centennial party.

Thursday Mrs. Dayton H. Mudd, who was Miss Dorothy Morse, will have a swimming party and luncheon at her home, 24 Overbrook drive, beginning at 11 o'clock. Mrs. Mudd will be assisted by Mrs. Joseph Hall (Olive Culbertson), Mrs. Harold Macoy Jr. (Elizabeth Johnston) and Mrs. Charles W. Nax Jr. (Margery Skinner). That night a Dutch treat cocktail party and barbecue will be given at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Theodore P. Desloge (Frances Charlot), 10045 Litzsinger road, Ladue.

The final party, after the alumnae luncheon Friday is to be a sherry party by Mrs. Arthur S. Bland Jr. (Gertrude Grove), 8 Radnor road, Huntleigh Village.

Martha Carr's OPINION

Message to the 'Other Woman'

Dear Martha:

IF PRINTING MY LETTER would dissuade just one "other woman" it would be worth it. Can you picture someone spending every day and every night with a heavy heart and sick feeling that never stops? Someone whose mind is never at peace, because you can't forget for a minute what's going on? You wonder how long it will last and if you can stand any more. Perhaps there are cases where the man feels justified, where the other woman feels no one is being hurt. In my situation it isn't so. This is the third affair for my husband. Since the first time I have made a sincere effort to be a good wife. My crime is embarrassing him by taking in work to help pay the bills. Many would say I am foolish to tolerate him. But the alternative would bring disgrace to my children and heartbreak to my family. I don't believe in divorce. I want to bring up my children, not work and hope they turn out all right. I haven't exaggerated. Break off with him, won't you, please!

HEARTSICK WIFE.

When honor and marriage vows are disregarded, someone always is hurt, even if it's only the two involved persons themselves. A person simply can't cheat and not be affected, although your husband may be too callous to realize it. And a woman who will take another woman's husband isn't apt to be so compassionate that she'll give him back. To want to hold your marriage together and to care for your children is fine, but as things stand now, your marriage is pretty sick. If you love him and want him, fight for him. Professional counseling will help. Go first to your pastor and see if he will talk with your husband.

Dear Martha:

I AM A YOUNG WIDOW and I live with my parents in a rural section not far from St. Louis. I graduated from high school but the man I am in love with has never had any formal education. He is a very nice man and I know he loves me but he tells me he doesn't want to marry me because he feels inferior. He can just barely read and write. I feel so sorry for him because I know he has this inferiority complex. Is there some place maybe that he could learn. NAN B.

Of course, there are many opportunities for adults to learn. The Adult Education Council, CHestnut 1-3632, will be glad to give you complete information. Incidentally, the Council is planning summer classes in reading, writing and spelling, with enrollment scheduled Tuesday, June 16, at International Institute, 4484 West Pine boulevard.

Dear Martha:

SINCE MISERY LOVES COMPANY, I'd like to answer the two stepdaughters and the daughter-in-law who answered Lonely Heart. The stepdaughters could be my own. The shoe did fit! Girls, give us stepmothers a chance. We'll not only open our arms, but also one of the kindest hearts you'd ever want to meet. Make your stepmother welcome because she loves your dad. My mother-in-law is 75 and is in constant pain. She is confined to a chair or bed. She stayed with us three months. If she had faults and complaints, I tried to understand. If she hadn't guided her son so tenderly, I wouldn't have the fine, gentle and kind husband whom she calls son. I love and thank her for him and she'll always be welcome in my home.

MOTHER, STEPMOTHER, DAUGHTER-IN-LAW.

If you are anxious to meet new friends, attend one of the many clubs listed on Martha Carr's new "Hi Neighbor" leaflet. You'll find them divided according to neighborhoods, to make transportation easier. Be sure to inclose a stamped, self-addressed envelope with your request for a copy.

Parentless Children

HYDE PARK, June 1.

FROM GERMANY, a few days ago, I received a long letter written by an American named Al Hoosman. Mr. Hoosman is making an appeal to Americans to help him care for and give a start in life to illegitimate children who have been left in Germany as a result of our military occupation. He calls his organization "The Association to Help Parentless Colored and Other Children," and the treasurer is Helmut Zanner, Fendstrasse 2, Munich, Germany.

This is a sad problem that occurs almost inevitably in every country where occupation forces have been stationed. We must accept the fact that the biological urge to reproduce, which was put into human beings as a safeguard to the human race, is hard to resist unless people learn a rare amount of self-discipline. Armies will leave behind them the sorrows and tribulations of illegitimate children who, though totally innocent, will suffer nevertheless.

Mr. Hoosman has obtained a great deal of support in Germany for his organization, whose statement of objectives includes the following paragraph: "It is obvious that the need of these children is most urgent during these present critical years. They need love and understanding, the knowledge that they are not alone at any time. It cannot be stressed strongly enough the momentous help and assistance these many thousands of youngsters will need if they are to grow up in a society and serve as useful citizens. . . . It will also add a link of strength to two great countries with already long postwar years of close ties."

We do need to have these problems in other countries brought before us. I have previously written of the needs in Japan, and I am glad it is also being brought before us as it exists in England and in Germany. If we ignore the problem, uncared-for children will grow up to hate the United States, as well as other human beings.

In our own country, we also have important tasks that deserve our support. The Johns Hopkins medical school has formed a commitee on a private basis which seeks to set up a scholarship fund for Negro medical students at the school. Negro doctors are very much needed in this country, and I think it should be made possible for them to get the best training available. This is a move backed by a very fine group of American doctors.

Try and Stop Me

WHEN MIKE ROMANOFF, Hollywood restaurateur, read that 87 per cent of the nation's business men gulped down mashed potatoes, fried foods—or both—for luncheon meetings every day, he shuddered, and issued this directive forthwith, designed to keep those executive stomachs within bounds:

1. Eat a sandwich and drink a glass of milk before attending the luncheon. Then just pick at your food.
2. Say you're on a strict diet and demand two poached eggs.
3. Slip the waiter a bill and have him sneak you a lamb chop instead of the prepared indigestion-provoker.
4. Arrive late—just in time for coffee.
5. Eat at Mike's.

Salute to Special Class of '59

By Relman Morin

NEW YORK, June 1 (AP).

THE WHITE CARD, embossed with a gold coat-of-arms, announced the date of graduation exercises for a high school in Virginia.

Inside, a smaller card bore the name, James D. Ream Jr.

Well, June is here. June is the month when, all over America, the high school band plays "Pomp and Circumstance," or some other march, and the seniors step up for diplomas.

These cards, however, the big one and the smaller one, represent something unusual, something special. . . .

On a chilly night last December, I crossed the bridge into south Norfolk, Va., and found the Oscar F. Smith high school. Lights burned in the classrooms, the study halls, the auditorium, the library. The grounds outside were quiet and the halls deserted.

It was a little after 8 p.m.

Isn't that the hour when teen-agers are supposed to be munching popcorn in the movies? Or hot-rodding around town looking for a traffic accident to get hurt in?

There was an air of purpose about this school.

It was a night high school. The students all came from nearby Norfolk, where the regular schools had been closed in the dispute over federal court orders to integrate. In South Norfolk, authorities offered their facilities—at night—for all who wanted to use them.

Nearly 800 boys and girls did.

They had started at 4 in the afternoon, taken a half-hour break at 5:45, and gone back to work. The final bell would ring at 9 o'clock.

No truant officer compelled them to be in school. They were there because they were determined to get a diploma.

E. E. Brickell, the principal—whose own hours at that time were from 8 a.m. to 11 p.m.—said attendance was running better than 95 per cent. Disciplinary problems? Practically none. Grades? Above average.

I asked if I could talk with some of the students.

He called in a pretty, serious-faced girl, Adelia Watson, and a tall, lean, clean-cut boy, Jim Ream. Both were seniors, both 17. Both hoped to go to college. Adelia Watson said she wanted to study interior decorating. Jim Ream grinned, said he expected to be an engineer, and would like to study engineering at the United States Naval Academy, if he could get the appointment.

Was it much of an adjustment to go to school at night? In effect, turning the days inside-out?

"Not too bad," said Jim Ream. "It's better in some ways. You can do your homework in the morning this way, while you're fresh."

Adelia Watson said she found it easier to study in the daytime, too.

Yes, they missed the sports, the social life, the extracurricular activities that go to making the high school years some of the best in an American kid's life.

"But I guess nothing is too much to pay for an education," said Jim Ream. "It's worth it."

"What about your social life? Doesn't this cut in on your dating?"

Adelia Watson shook her head. "My parents don't let me do any dating on school nights, anyway," she said. Jim Ream said he had been too busy, what with one thing and another.

When Jim Ream's card came the other day, announcing graduation day, I thought of him and Adelia Watson and hundreds of bright-looking, intent boys and girls in the class rooms that night.

So here's a salute to you, Jim Ream, and to you, Adelia Watson, and all your friends in the class of 1959. You're getting a special diploma in a few weeks.

And all of you are mighty special, too, in my book.

TV Notes and Gossip

ROBERT SARNOFF, NBC board chairman, says his television network will have a 60 per cent new night-time schedule next season. There will be more than 150 special programs in prime time, at least seven major informational programs at peak viewing hours, and a key Sunday night-time period devoted primarily to original, live, color, New York-originated dramatic shows.

Burl Ives, who will star in the CBS-TV special, "Holiday, U.S.A.," on KMOX-TV Wednesday night, "feels hurt" about St. Louis. "It's practically my home town," he says, "yet it's about the only major city in which my ballad singing program has not been booked." Ives was born in Newton, Ill. He attended Eastern Illinois University at Charleston.

WHEN Tennessee Ernie Ford takes a vacation July 2, his Thursday night spot on NBC-TV will be taken over by a new detective series, "21 Beacon Street," starring Dennis Morgan.

KSD RADIO, beginning tomorrow night, will carry a special NBC series, "Image Minorities," dealing with the history, problems and traits of racial and religious groups in the United States. Vice President Nixon will be among those heard on the first program, at 7:40 tomorrow night. Bob Considine will be the narrator. "Image Minorities" will continue for four weeks, at 7:40 p.m. on KSD Monday through Thursday.

JIMMY DURANTE . . . has been asked to do several live specials for NBC-TV next season.

Measuring Star Distance

By Ramon Coffman

I LIKE to have readers sign their names to letters, but I have before me a good one signed only "Your constant reader and admirer."

Even though the name is omitted, that is a pleasant set of words. Here is the chief part of the letter:

"Your articles on astronomy are the most interesting you have ever given us. . . . How do astronomers figure the distance and size of planets and stars? How accurate are their figures?"

Astronomers are careful scientists. Thousands of them are at work, and there is a great deal of cross-checking of figures.

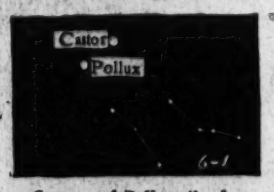
From Mercury to Neptune, they have exact facts on most of the movements and dimensions. They know the length of a day on Mars down to the minute. (Mars rotates once in 24 hours and 37 minutes.)

Because it is small and far away (about three thousand million miles at the present time) Pluto has not yet yielded various facts about itself, but more are being learned with passing time.

The distances and sizes of some of the true stars have been measured with care, but the measuring is a long process. In regard to many stars, the distances are estimated in round numbers. Much more work must be done before astronomers can speak with exact knowledge about such stars.

Various methods are used to measure the distance of stars. The telescope is only one of the instrutments employed.

One way to measure star distance has been applied to several of the closer stars. A star is observed on a certain date. Six months later, with the earth on the other side of its orbit, another measurement of the star is made, and another angle is found.



Castor and Pollux, the famous twins of the Gemini constellation. They are about 60 light years distant.
